A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

ELLISON'S ANNUAL COTTON REVIEW FOR THE SEASON OF 1897 98. In our editorial columns will be found an article in which we give the figures from Mr. Ellison's annual review of the European cotton trade for the season of 1897-98, as received by us to-day by cable.

NEW ENGLAND COTTON MILLS SITUATION—Some eighteen mills, representing about 800,000 spindles and 20,000 looms are idle this week at Fall River in conformity with the new plan for reducing production of print cloths. The United States Cotton Co., Central Falls, R. I. has started up in full after having been out of operation since May 28.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &c.—The market for jute bagging has been moderately active during the week under review, and prices are steadily held at 6¼c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6⅝c. for 2 lbs. standard grade. Car-load lots of standard brands are quoted at 6⅛c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6½c. for 2 lbs., f. o. b. at New York. Jute butts have been rather quiet for parcels to arrive at 90c. for paper quality and 1¾c. for mixing.

EGYPTIAN COTTON CROP.—The following report on the cotton crop in Egypt, issued by the Alexandria General Produce Association, under date of September 30, has been furnished to us by Mr. Fr. Jac. Andres of Boston:

The reports are less favorable than the previous month. On the one hand the cool temperature noted in August continued until quite lately; on the other hand, there were fogs on several occasions. These circumstances checked to a certain extent the development and opening of the bolls and retarded the first picking about ten days. It is reported also that the bolls, especially those from the latest blossoms, have been more or less injured, therefore, one is obliged to admit that the prospect of the condition of the crop set forth in our last resumé may be diminished by about 10 per cent, a diminution, however, which may in part be compensated by the increased acreage sown, but of which we cannot form an estimate owing to the absence of official figures. This situation is common to both Upper and Lower Egypt, also to the Fayoum, but in this last province the complaints are stronger. In fine, we cannot express an opinion yet on the probable results of this season, because a great deal still depends on the atmospheric influences of October and of a part of November.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, October 28, 1898.

Early in the week a fairly large volume of business was transacted in the market for wheat flour, full quoted values being paid. Advices were also received from the Northwest, reporting large sales by the mills there. Subsequently, however, owing to an easier turn to values for the grain, together with the fact that the recent purchases had largely supplied the wants of buyers, the demand fell off; still, as the mills were closely sold up, they showed no anxiety to make sales, and values were well maintained at the late advance. Rye flour has had only a limited sale; prices have been unchanged and firm. Buckwheat flour has been quiet, but at the close prices were advanced. Corn meal has been in only moderate demand, but values have held to a steady basis.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has continued fairly active, but the course of prices has been irregular. Early in the week the tendency of values continued towards a higher basis. The principal strengthening feature was the nature of the political relations existing between England and France. Foreign advices were decidedly stronger and the export demand continued active. Reports of damage to the crop in Manitoba by wet weather also received some notice as a bull factor. During the latter part of the week there developed a weaker tone to the market, resulting primarily from the more settled feeling over the European political situation. Foreign advices came decidedly weaker and there was considerable selling of futures for foreign account. The export demand for actual wheat, however, continued fairly brisk, the purchases daily here and at outports amounting to close to 1,000,000 bushels. Early in the week they were slightly in excess of this amount. To day the market was easier under realizing sales, prompted by weaker foreign advices. The close showed prices ⅛@¾c. lower for the day. The spot market was only fairly active. The sales to day for export here and at outports were about 500,000 bushels.

Indian corn futures have received a moderate amount of attention, and prices have advanced slightly. The improvement was most pronounced early in the week, the unsettled political situation in Europe, stronger foreign advices and a continued active export demand being the principal strengthening features. Tuesday and Wednesday prices weakened slightly in response to easier foreign advices and a more settled European political situation. Thursday, however, the market again turned firmer on the unfavorable weather conditions in the corn belt. During the latter part of the week the export demand fell to moderate proportions as compared with the recent large purchases. To-day prices declined ¼c. under realizing sales, and more favorable weather in the corn belt. The spot market was less active and easier. The sales for export to-day here and at outports amounted to 400,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery have continued neglected in the local market. At the West there has been only a moderate amount of activity to the trading. Early in the week prices advanced in response to the rise in values for other grains. At the higher prices there was selling by longs to realize profits. During the latter part of the week the market held steady on a comparatively light crop movement. The volume of business transacted in the spot market has been of only moderate proportions, as the purchases by exporters have been small. To-day the market was quiet and easier in sympathy with the weakness in other grain. The spot market was easier. The sales for export to-day were 50,000 bushels.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., October 28, 1898.

There has been no special feature during the past week in connection with the home trade in this market, but a marked development of the export demand has caused a material increase in the aggregate volume of business done in the cotton-goods division. This export buying has relieved the market in heavy brown cottons, giving them a steadier tone, but its influence has not extended beyond that, and the general tone of the market continues dull and easy. The Fall River manufacturers have placed their stocks of regular print cloths and narrow odds under the control of the Selling Committee, who have fixed the price of regulars at 2c., and this insures a steady market in that quarter for a week or two at all events. The woolen goods division is dull and business is still disappointing in volume. Reports from out of town tell of a clear improvement in business at the retail end under the influence of colder weather and a better supplementary demand with jobbers is noticeable. There are few complaints heard on the score of collections, payments being generally prompt.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The reorder demand for heavy woolens and worsteds for men's wear has shown a slight improvement, and for this late stage of the season is of fair extent. Spring business, however, continues decidedly disappointing. In occasional quarters fair orders are reported for both staple and fancy lines, chiefly in worsteds, but as a rule the demand is indifferent and there are more mills short of work than there are fairly well supplied with orders. Prices do not give way to any extent, the tendency being rather to shut down than to further reduce quotations. The sales of overcoatings and cloakings have been moderate and the market easy. Dress goods are quiet in both fall and spring lines and market easy. Flannels and blankets are quiet and unchanged.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending October 24 were 4,859 packages, valued at $150,806, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $9,351,657 in 1898, against $8,744,117 in 1897.

Heavy brown sheetings and drills have sold heavily during the past week, for export to China, with a fair business done for Africa also. Some stocks have been cleaned up and a number of mills have sold ahead for two to four months to come. Prices are firm. In other brown cottons the market is quiet and unchanged. Ducks are in moderate demand. Brown osnaburgs dull and easy. Bleached cotton quiet and easy to buy. Wide sheetings are dull. Cotton flannels and blankets quietly firm. Denims dull and easy; ticks slow of sale and irregular; plaids in moderate request and fairly steady. Other coarse colored cottons quiet and unchanged. Kid-finished cambrics are dull. Fancy calicoes are irregular still, with a quiet business. Other lines of prints have sold to an average extent and are easy to buy. Ginghams are well sold for spring in fine grades. Staple ginghams quietly steady. Print cloths have been in moderate request on the basis of 2c. for regulars.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There has been no improvement in the demand for foreign merchandise for spring and the market is slow, particularly for dress goods and men's-wear woolen and worsted fabrics. Importers are not pressing for business to the extent of reducing prices appreciably.

The county seat will therefore be moved from Hemingford to Alliance on January 1, 1899.

New York City.—Outlying Bonds Declared Legal.—The Corporation Counsel has recently forwarded to the Comptroller and recommended the recognition of certain issues of bonds of the outlying districts described as follows:

New York State.—Tax Decision.—A decision recently handed down by the Court of Appeals holds that property of a municipality outside of its boundaries is subject to taxation. The case in question was that of taxing the waterworks of the cities of Amsterdam and Rochester, which works are situated outside of the boundary lines of those cities. The decision covers, it is stated, the water-works system of New York City.

Oregon.—Legislature Adjourned.—On October 15, 1898, the special session of the State Legislature adjourned sine die, after having passed the general appropriation bill, amounting to nearly $1,300,000.

The following bills, passed by both houses of the Legislature, have been filed with the Secretary of State without the signature of the Governor: Bills to amend the charters of Elgin, Astoria, Baker City, Ashland and Condon; bills to incorporate the city of Portland and the town of Monmouth. The following bills have been approved by the Governor: Amending the charter of Sodaville; authorizing school districts to incur indebtedness for buildings or for land for school purposes.

Reduction in Legal Rate of Interest.—A bill passed by the State Legislature and approved by the Governor reduces the legal rate of interest from 8% to 6%.

Rensselaer, N. Y.—Bond Litigation.—Various suits have been brought to determine the validity of an issue of Greenbush improvement bonds sold by the old Village of Greenbush and now held by a number of savings banks. Concerning this litigation we have received a letter from Randall J. Le Boeuf, Corporation Counsel, which goes into the question so thoroughly that we publish it in full. Mr. Le Boeuf says:

"The actions brought which call in question the bonds which are known as 'Greenbush improvement Bonds' are of the same class. They are brought against the City of Rensselaer as the successor of the Village of Greenbush by attacking property owners to set aside and to declare invalid a line of assessments for the paving of Broadway, Partition Street, Third Street and East Street, in that city. The actions are of such a character that the issue of the bonds to pay in any way attached, the property owners evidently being content to relieve themselves from the necessity of paying the assessments.

"The grounds upon which they are brought are, first, the attack upon the method of ordering the improvements upon which the bonds were based, it being claimed that the resolution was presented without having been duly advertised in the official paper; that the expenditure was extraordinary expenditure, which could not be incurred without either a general meeting of the electors of the village having first been called or the compliance with Chapter 371 of the Laws of 1890. That statute is a general amendment of the village law which permits, upon the application of a certain number of citizens and taxpayers, expenditures to be made which exceed the amount limited in the general village act for general purposes. They also state that no notice was received by the plaintiffs to make the local improvement, claiming that this was requisite under the ordinances of the village, and that the number of days contained in a resolution relative to the improvement was insufficient notice.

"Second. The assessment itself is directly attacked, it being claimed that the work was done and completed without having been adjudged local; that the work was not fully completed before the assessment was made and confirmed; that improper items of expense were included in the assessment; that the assessors failed to serve the plaintiffs with notice containing a copy of the resolution under which the improvement was made, and serve all other minor claims of impropriety in the levying of the assessment are also made.

"One of the actions, which will be doubtless a test case inasmuch as it involves all the questions raised in the other cases, is now on the Supreme Court calendar of this county, and it has been set down for trial Monday next.

"It would be manifestly improper for publication to set forth the defense of the city to the claims made by the plaintiff, but it can be stated that every effort is being made to sustain the validity of the assessments.

"In any case, if the assessments are declared to be invalid application will be at once made to the Legislature upon its convening to the end that the city may not default in the payment of this indebtedness."

Meanwhile the savings banks have consented to wait until the question is settled for the principal and interest on their bonds.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The elections which occur in this and other States the coming Tuesday, and which will determine the character of the United States Senate and House for two years from the fourth of March next, have continued to absorb a large share of attention the current week. Every one knows that uncertainty more often than actual facts shapes the ruling sentiment in the security market. At the present time it is the possibilities which are involved in the results of the elections that have been the leading influence helping to make investors conservative. There has also been in action a somewhat similar agency though of less influence due to a like uncertainty reported by cable daily with reference to the outcome of the Peace Congress at Paris. Then, too, the meeting of Congress at Washington now so near, with highly important questions for settlement before it—almost more important than it has ever hitherto been called upon to determine—is by no means a restful anticipation. Add to these the demoralized condition of railroad rates and the decided weakness developed in the shares of important coal roads, besides the very bad state of the coal trade as evidenced by the earnings some of the carriers have reported, and we have more than enough to account for the prevailing abstention of outside operators from the market.

All the foregoing suggestions and influences relate to home events transpiring or about to transpire. Of course they must always prove the more weighty considerations. But by reason of the intimacy of financial and industrial interests the world over we cannot fail to be more r less affected by difficulties, and especially by hostilities threatened or actual between other leading nations, and are made especially sensitive to such at present through our currency weakness. It has consequently proved a serious incident in the make up of the situation that as the week progressed until towards its close the disturbed state of European affairs has, according to cable reports, grown more complicated and acute instead of less so. During previous weeks it was the Fashoda incident wholly and England and France only that were involved. This week we have been told that Russia held the more conspicuous position as the antagonist of Great Britain, and that China was the point of disagreement; while the Fashoda incident was not so prominent, though the settlement with France of the Egyptian question, of which that incident was only a part and out of which it sprung, was apparently no nearer accomplishment than it was weeks ago. In the meantime all three of these Powers, the cable stated, were getting into condition for immediate action, their navies having been already put into fighting trim, while Great Britain and Russia have been collecting a large number of vessels in Chinese waters, and that affairs all around had consequently begun to wear a grave aspect. Towards the close of the week it appears that these reports by cable have greatly exaggerated the real situation, that the Fashoda difference has been settled, and that the movements of the fleets referred to have been chiefly precautionary and perhaps in some measure for effect. But however that may be, their influence at the moment on Stock Exchange operations has no doubt been real and restrictive.

These warlike rumors have probably likewise helped to stimulate the speculation in foreign exchange. That is to say, they have aided in bringing about conditions which have favored what have been called purchases for investment until rates on Thursday rose to very near the par of exchange, notwithstanding our abnormally large and increasing trade balance, the result not only of very small imports of merchandise, but also of unusually free exports. A feature which marks the character of these purchases is that, while rates have all the time since the 20th of Oct. been above the gold-importing point, gold has not only been coming in here every week, but imports at San Francisco have exceeded any former record. This speculation in exchange has been facilitated by the ruling of the Internal Revenue Department with reference to stamps on bills of exchange. We do not mean that the new ruling is wrong; we believe it to be right. We intended to say simply that whereas a four-cent stamp on every $100 (the ruling on July 6) almost prohibited these transactions, the reversal of that ruling August 4, holding that such foreign checks are only subject to the same two-cent tax as domestic checks, restored normal conditions and made the business feasible again. But what has given a fresh impulse to these dealings has been another change in practice among some banks and bankers during the last ten days of putting a two-cent stamp also on cable transfers, which are apparently nothing but a check by a New York banker on his London banker sent by cable, and which differ in no essential particular from the sight bill sent by mail.*

The Government figures of revenue and disbursements for October are interesting and suggestive. We give the details as usual for each month of this and the previous calendar year on page 932. It will be noticed that the Customs receipts are less again, the improvement recorded the last two months not having been continued. The September total was $16,760,000, whereas the October total was $15,555,234, or over a million dollars less. On the other hand the internal revenue receipts show a million dollars increase (being $22,356,512), so that the aggregate for the month of October is very nearly the same as is September, being $39,630,051 in October, against $39,778,000 in September. Probably the total internal revenue receipts will be larger in November and December, as they usually are in the two months preceding the holidays But, taking the last two months as

* It will be of interest perhaps to our readers if we give the words of the decisions of the Internal Revenue Bureau which have led up to the practice prevailing the last ten days. We announced in our issue of July 9 that, it having been discovered that the City National Bank, acting under advice of counsel, had issued checks drawn upon its foreign banks, placing thereon a two cent stamp, the matter was brought before the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for a ruling. On July 6 he decided that "orders drawn in the United States payable in foreign countries, though in the form of checks, are subject to a tax of 4 cents on each $100 or fraction thereof under the fifth paragraph of section A."

Not long thereafter this same matter was again brought before the Commissioner. On a re-consideration of the subject the foregoing decision was, on August 4th, reversed. In a letter to Mr. Hepburn, Vice-President of the City Bank, the Commissioner stated that, "It [the Internal Revenue Bureau] does hereby rule that bank checks drawn in this country on a foreign bank or banker, payable at sight or on demand, are subject to the same stamp tax as bank checks drawn in this country upon a domestic bank."

Again, the Commissioner—having had submitted to him forms of demand bills of exchange in duplicate, with a request that he state whether those forms would be properly stamped when a two cent bank check stamp was affixed to each—said to those who applied to him: "I will advise you that as these forms have all the requisites which constitute a bank check, you will be allowed to stamp the original and duplicate as such, provided they are drawn upon a bank or banker. If drawn upon companies or firms who are not bankers they will be taxable as foreign bills of exchange."

The Commissioner has this week been appealed to for a decision on the point whether a cable transfer is not likewise a check, requiring only a two-cent stamp, the same as an ordinary check on a home bank.

about the normal productiveness of the present revenue laws, with business activity at its present stage, and comparing it with an average of the normal months under the old law, we have a monthly increase in the revenue, under the present conditions, of about 12 million dollars, or say $144,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning with July. The disbursements continue large, nearly double what they were before the war. This of course is due to expenditures for the army and navy. The truth is, the expenditures since the war came to an end have been larger than any month previous to its close with the single exception of July. But that was to be expected.

The returns of railroad earnings which have been received this week confirm our remarks of last week that the comparisons vary widely as between the different sections of the country and even as between different roads in the same section. The opposite character of the September exhibits of the Burlington & Quincy and the Milwaukee & St. Paul furnishes an excellent illustration of this difference. The St. Paul reports $481,287 increase in gross and $253,330 increase in net. The Quincy, on the other hand, is obliged to announce a loss of $484,689 in gross and of $337,026 in net; this loss in gross occurs in face of a gain of $177,462 in the passenger receipts. The falling off in the freight earnings was as much as $667,458. The explanation of the variation in the results of the two roads is easily stated. Both roads are large grain carriers, but the grain movements in their respective territories during the month in question differed widely. The St. Paul lines lie further to the north than those of the Quincy, and hence that system gets the benefit of the phenomenal crop of spring wheat which has been harvested the present season in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Moreover, the grain traffic of the St. Paul always is made up chiefly of wheat while that of the Quincy consists mainly of corn. Now it happened that during September the wheat deliveries in the West ran larger even than a year ago, while on the other hand the corn deliveries underwent a striking contraction. The effect of these circumstances on the grain traffic of the respective roads is well shown in the report of the grain receipts at Chicago for the month in question. The St. Paul brought in almost as much grain in September 1898 as in September 1897, the comparison being 4,490 car-loads against 4,612 car-loads, but the Quincy brought in nearly five thousand car-loads less, the comparison being 7,603 car-loads against 12,490 car-loads. But even this does not show the full extent of the difference in this respect in the conditions on the two roads. While Chicago received less wheat than in 1897, at the distinctively spring-wheat points like Minneapolis and Duluth the receipts were very much heavier than last year. Thus at Minneapolis the arrivals of wheat for the five weeks ending October 1 were 9,616,560 bushels against only 7,925,290 bushels in 1897, and at Duluth for the same five weeks they were 13,836,421 bushels against 11,869,370 bushels. And these figures may be taken to reflect the situation in the territory of the St. Paul road.

The Cleveland Cincinnati Chicago & St. Louis, or "Big Four," is another road which for September makes a very gratifying showing. Gross for the month this year is reported at $1,400,326, against $1,239,096 last year, and the expenses having at the same time been slightly reduced, net stands at $457,118, against $291,169. In the case of the surplus above charges the comparison is even more striking, this surplus being $211,280 for 1898, against only $45,410 for 1897. It is proper to say that a special cause is largely responsible for this notable improvement. During September the Grand Army Encampment was held at Cincinnati, and as a result the passenger traffic over the Big Four was very heavily increased. The importance of that circumstance will appear when we say that out of the total increase of $161,230 in gross for the month, $113,918 was in the passenger department. The company's fiscal year begins with July 1, and for the three months from that date to September 30 the surplus above charges is $402,187, against only $116,646 in the corresponding period of last year. The feature of the return is the decrease ($17,973) in operating expenses in face of an increase ($267,267) in gross earnings, bearing out the statement of the management in the last report that it would be possible hereafter to operate the road more cheaply.

Mr. George Coppell, the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Denver & Rio Grande RR., has returned this week from a trip over his road and brings glowing accounts of the business conditions in Colorado. He says that, as in the case of many other Western lines, the Denver & Rio Grande has not equipment enough to handle the traffic offering. He states that while the road has just received six new engines, making twelve in all, of the very largest type, it could use fifteen additional ones and a thousand more cars. The expansion is heaviest in the local traffic, though the through business is also large. The output of the precious ores, notwithstanding the comparatively low price of silver, is heavier in tonnage than ever before, though the money return to the road is not so large, since the traffic has to be taken at low rates to induce the movement. But the road is carrying not only more ore, but more of everything else—fruits, agricultural produce, lumber, cattle, sheep, etc. That it is experiencing great prosperity is evident from its return for September and the three months ending with September received this week. For the quarter there is a surplus above charges in 1898 of $398,831, against $293,979 last year. Even after deducting $45,000 for the Renewal Fund and the Bond Conversion Fund, there is a balance of $353,871 for 1898, against $293,979 for 1897.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned at 1½ and at 2 per cent at the Stock Exchange during the week, with the bulk of the business at about 2 per cent and the average at something over 1¾ per cent. Banks and trust companies quote 2 per cent as the minimum. Time contracts are freely offered, while the demand is only moderate, and rates are 2½ per cent for sixty to ninety days and 3 per cent for four to seven months, on good Stock Exchange collateral. The market is almost bare of commercial paper, and rarely at this season has the supply been so limited. The demand is good, not only from city but from out-of-town institutions, and rates are 3@3½ per cent for sixty to ninety-day endorsed bills receivable, 3¼@4 per cent for prime and 4½@5 per cent for good four to six months' single names. Banks having large correspondence report no new features. Business conditions at the West and South and in the Southwest are good, while in the Middle States and at the East they are unsatisfactory. The movement of money to the interior for crop purposes appears to be subsiding, and reports continue to be received of a plethora of unemployed money in some sections of the West. The payments for the 3 per cent bonds have nearly been completed, the total receipts for them to November 3d having been $195,653,270. The deposits of public money in the specially-designated depository banks throughout the country now amount to $94,773,355. The Secretary of the Treasury has extended to November 30 the time in which the currency 6s will be redeemed at a discount of ½ of 1 per cent. The Tremont Bank of Boston, organized in 1814, will, it is announced, go into liquidation and transfer its business to the Eliot National. It was reported that the Freeman's, the Manufacturers' and the Continental, of Boston, would be consolidated, but later advices deny the statement.

The European political situation has ceased to be disturbed by the Fashoda incident, and the latest reports indicate that Major Marchand's expedition will be withdrawn. The new French Cabinet under M. Dupuy has been formed. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London 3⅞@3¾ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 2¾ per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 4⅛@4⅜ per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £264,116 bullion during the week and held £31,872,547 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to imports of £567,000 (of which £259,000 were from Havre, £173,000 from Germany and £135,000 bought in the open market), to exports of £127,000 (of which £100,000 were to Turkey, £12,000 to Argentina, £10,000 to other South America and £5,000 to Gibraltar), and to the shipment of £176,000 net to the interior of Great Britain.

The feature of the foreign exchange market referred to above has somewhat deranged the tone for cable transfers, because while some banks, notably one large bank doing an exchange business, and also at least three of the prominent foreign exchange houses in this city, under the advice of counsel, have been affixing a two-cent internal revenue stamp to their cables, others have continued to follow the practice of treating them as bills of exchange and putting on a four-cent stamp for each $100. The margin of profit in trading upon these memoranda or transfers is so small that it would, in very many cases, be reduced to almost an infinitesmal sum were a four-cent ad valorem stamp affixed. Hence with some bankers treating them as checks those bankers who treated them otherwise were placed at a disadvantage and the market was consequently deranged. The attention of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has been called to the matter and an official ruling will probably soon be made. The market for long sterling, and also for short to some extent, continues to be dominated by the demand for long sterling for investment. With so wide a margin of difference between time money rates in New York and open market discounts in London, there is opportunity for profitable investment in long bankers' sterling to hold until it runs to sight. Therefore these bills are firm. At the same time, though, commercial drafts, and especially those drawn against cotton and grain, are in plentiful supply. These bills seem to be promptly absorbed, some being forwarded for collection, thus establishing credits against which long sterling can be drawn, while what are known as "clean" bills upon bankers are bought by others than foreign exchange houses, forwarded for acceptance and collection and the proceeds loaned in London. The firmness of short sterling is said to be partly due to a demand to remit for stocks sold for European account in consequence of the political tension abroad, in part to some covering of bills which were sold for late October and early November delivery, and in part to the firmness of long sterling. No engagements of gold have been reported in London for shipment hither since the middle of October, with the exception of a small consignment to Lazard Freres. Notwithstanding that fact the movement of gold since that date from Europe has continued, however, there being $971,248 received this week not reported, and there is a consignment of $2,750,000 in transit from Australia for San Francisco, as announced in the Chronicle last week.

The range for nominal rates of exchange opened on Monday unaltered, compared with the close of last week, at 4 83 to 4 83½ for sixty day and 4 86 to 4 87 for sight. On Wednesday the lower sight rate was advanced and the range thereafter was from 4 83 to 4 83½ for sixty day and from 4 86½ to 4 87 for sight. Rates for actual business were unchanged on Monday, compared with those at the close of last week, at 4 82½@4 82½ for long, 4 85½@4 85¾ for short and 4 86½@4 86¾ for cables. The tone was steady to firm. On the following day it was stronger and rates for actual business in long and short sterling were advanced one quarter of a cent, to 4 82½@4 82¾ for the former and 4 85¾@4 86 for the latter, while no change was made in cables. On Wednesday the tone was stronger, and rates for actual business rose one-quarter of a cent all around, to 4 82¾@4 83 for long, 4 86@4 86¼ for short and 4 86¾@4 87 for cables. On Thursday the only change in rates for actual business was an advance of one-quarter of a cent for short sterling to 4 86¼@4 86½. The tone was easier on Friday, closing steady at a decline of one-quarter of a cent all around. The ease was due to more reassuring European political advices. The following shows daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

* The division (between gold and silver) given in our table of coin and bullion in the Bank of Germany and the Bank of Belgium is made from the best estimate we are able to obtain; in neither case is it claimed to be accurate, as those banks make no distinction in their weekly returns, merely reporting the total gold and silver, but we believe the division we make is a close approximation.

NOTE.—We receive the foregoing results weekly by cable, and while not all of the date given at the head of the column, they are the returns issued nearest to that date—that is the latest reported figures.

DELAWARE & HUDSON CANAL AND THE ANTHRACITE COAL TRADE.

Unusual interest has centred this week in the anthracite coal properties. The shares of all these roads have evinced marked weakness, and two of the dividend-paying stocks, namely the Central of New Jersey and the Delaware & Hudson Canal, have experienced sharp breaks, though with some recovery at the close of the week. Delaware & Hudson stock sold below par, touching 98¼ on Wednesday, the lowest point not only of the year but since October 1887—more than eleven years ago.

There can be no doubt that the impelling cause of the downward movement has been the unsatisfactory condition of the anthracite trade. In the Delaware & Hudson case there have been some special circumstances which may have operated in the same direction, assuming that the decline was legitimate and was not the work of "bear" operators—which is by no means certain. Among these special events may be enumerated the report that the company had decided to abandon its gravity road from Carbondale to Honesdale and also its canal from Honesdale to Rondout. The report is founded on fact, at least as far as the gravity road is concerned. The management have definitely decided to abandon this road because it has been run at a loss; it has been operated by means of stationary engines. As concerns the canal, that also will probably be abandoned, though the question will not really come up for determination until next year. It is now the end of the season, when the canal would in any event be closed for the winter.

Though these events have been made to do duty in the stock market, it cannot be said that there is anything strictly new in them. It has been known for some time that the management contemplated this step, and along the route of the canal it was common report the past summer that the present season would probably be the last of its operation. As a matter of fact, the canal has been fast losing its importance in recent years. This will be evident when we say that the shipments the past season over it were only 220,000 tons and last year were 250,000 tons, whereas in former years they have been as high as 800,000 to 1,000,000 tons. The decline in the canal arises out of the change in conditions. The canal was formerly a very useful medium of transportation, but now it is to the advantage of the company to use the rail route instead. The water route was profitable when the price of coal was high and rail freights were correspondingly high. But the cost of moving by canal is a fixed sum whereas the cost by rail varies as the price of coal varies. This price having fallen off, the cost of moving by rail has also fallen off, and hence it is cheaper now to use the rail route. The Erie road, with which the D. & H. has an arrangement, furnishes the necessary facilities to that end. Hence the management feel that unless the situation changes it will be decidedly to the interest of the company to give up the canal entirely.

In Stock Exchange circles prominence has been given to this contemplated abandonment of an old means of transportation because it was contended the step meant the wiping out of a large amount of assets as represented by the value of the canal and gravity road on the company's books. But the management claim that the real effect will be to enhance the value of the property rather than to diminish it. They contend that if by reason of the lower transportation charge their coal property can be made to earn more than before, then the value of these coal lands will be increased. The canal stands on the books at $5,500,000 and the gravity road at $3,500,000, making $9,000,000 together. But it should not be forgotten that the company is carrying an accumulated surplus from income of over five million dollars, and this could be offset to that extent against any loss or diminution of assets from the cause mentioned. Moreover, entirely apart from the possibility that the change may have the effect of adding to the value of the company's coal lands, these coal lands stand at a very low figure on the books, some of them, President Olyphant states, at only fifty cents an acre. We may repeat, too, what we have said on previous occasions, that the 12,500 shares of Rensselaer & Saratoga and Albany & Susquehanna stock held by the company appear on the books at their par value, though both are quoted in the market at about 185.

There would thus seem to be no occasion for uneasiness in any of these moves. A word may not be out of place as to the sale of the company's holdings of Rutland stock. We do not profess to know the true inwardness of the purchase of this road by Mr. Clement, the President of the company. Mr. Clement is known to be a man of means, and the D. & H. people made the sale on the understanding that the purchase was a private venture of his, and that the New York Central had no interest in it. On the other hand, the newspapers continue to assert that the Vanderbilts are identified in some way with the purchase, and the bills which have just passed the Vermont legislature providing for an extension of the line to the Canadian border would seem to indicate that the new owners, whoever they may be, have some extensive schemes on foot. It is difficult to see how the Rutland could in any event become much of a menace to the D. & H. And it is equally difficult to see how possession of the road would be of much benefit to the New York Central. The D. & H. management evidently have no fear on that score, and they consider the sale of the stock a good stroke from a financial point of view. While the Rutland was still leased to the Central Vermont the D. & H. got 4 per cent dividends on the preferred shares, equal to 8 per cent on the investment. Since the surrender of the lease the dividends have been only 2 per cent, amounting to but 4 per cent on the cost. The investment has accordingly been called a poor asset. The company has now disposed of it for cost and interest, and the asset is in cash instead of in stock.

As far as the condition of the anthracite coal trade is an influence in depressing the price of D. & H. stock along with that of the other coal properties, it cannot be denied that the situation thus far has been anything but encouraging. Prices have been low and unsatisfactory and the demand limited. There has been no special turn for the worse lately, though the appearance this week of the returns of gross and net earnings of the Central of New Jersey and the Reading, both making unfavorable comparisons with last year, has served to give renewed emphasis to the fact, well enough known before, that the anthracite roads were not having a very glowing time. The returns referred to were for the month of September, and the figures may be found on another page. Results for a single month, however, can hardly furnish a fair basis for judgment as to the course of revenues. A better guide will be to take the figures for the current year up to the latest dates. Accordingly we have prepared the following table. It is for the nine months to September 30, except in the case of the Delaware & Hudson and the Delaware Lackawanna & Western leased lines, both of which latter are for the six months to June 30. We may say with reference to the D. & H. leased lines that we are informed the final result for the September quarter is estimated only $65,000 smaller than for the same quarter last year.

This makes on the whole a better comparison than expected, and to that extent is encouraging. The total of the gross (speaking of the roads as a whole) falls a little behind that of last year, but the net actually runs a little ahead of the amount for that year. Of course, except in the case of the Reading and the Lehigh Valley, the coal mining operations are not included, and these would be likely to make the comparisons less favorable. As concerns the amount of coal mined, the loss could not be considered heavy, as the aggregate of the shipments in 1898 over the different roads is estimated to have been only 275,000 tons smaller than in the nine months of 1897. The loss because of the lower price received would be the principal factor in the calculation. The average price realized in 1898 has probably been 25 to 30 cents less than for 1897. But even this cannot be counted as an absolute loss, as it may have been offset by economies in management.

As to the future, one person's guess is as good as another's. We do not attach any particular importance to the fact that the demand for coal has not increased in face of a revival of industrial activity in the United States. It has been the uniform experience in the past that the anthracite trade is the last to feel the benefits of industrial revival. Hence an enlarged demand next year would be no surprise. The question of price is a more serious matter. But even here the fact should not be overlooked that the anthracite fields are limited, that the number of companies transporting the product to market is few, and that it would only be necessary to secure united action on the part of half a dozen interests to bring about a sudden and complete change.

EUROPE AND AFRICA.

We are strongly tempted to believe that the "foreign war rumors" early in the present week were put forth chiefly by the speculative element for the sake of gaining a last advantage over an already disturbed investment community. Certainly much more of renewed diplomatic rumor was heard on the Stock Exchanges than at political headquarters. Moreover, a number of the reports promptly turned out to be untrue; as, for instance, Monday's story that the German Emperor was hurrying home from the Holy Land because of the Anglo-French developments. Europe's two-sided view of this young ruler has been illustrated by the fact that the Emperor's persistence in his spectacular trip to Jerusalem has been accepted as in some way a sign of probable peace. Anglo-Saxon humor has not been able to regard this royal pilgrimage as anything but a mediæval joke; but Anglo-Saxon sagacity has also recognized that if European war were actually impending, the speeches at the shrines of Judea would promptly be cut short. But the pilgrimage and the speeches have continued.

The events of this week have, however, thrown some real light on the position of France in European diplomacy. We mentioned last week the fact that strong men had been induced to undertake the formation of a ministry to replace the fallen Brisson Cabinet. This ministry, of which M. Dupuy, a statesman of force and prestige, is the Premier, comprises several well-known names; the most noteworthy, for several reasons, being that of M. De Freycinet, who accepted the war portfolio. The importance of this appointment lay, first, in the fact that a civilian had been placed in charge of army affairs at a time when the ministry was believed to be committed to a policy not favored by the army. The action of the Public Prosecutor in adding his voice, very unexpectedly, to the demands for a re-hearing of the Dreyfus case, the prompt decision of the Court of Cassation that an opportunity for such re-hearing should be granted, and finally the appointment to the war portfolio, show pretty plainly that official judgment and outside opinion are moving steadily in the right direction.

Hardly less interesting, however, is the influence anticipated from M. De Freycinet in diplomatic matters. The post of Foreign Affairs Minister has been left in the hands of M. Delcassé, but the uncertain policy pursued by that department under the Brisson Cabinet has been instantly changed. Conscious, undoubtedly, of the absurdity of the French position, while threatening war over Major Marchand at the moment when this officer was being protected, entertained and sheltered by the English authorities, the new Ministry has apparently begun at once by ordering the explorer to abandon his so-called "posts" and return to France. This is certainly a statesmanlike alternative; presumably the late Cabinet would have done the same but for its wish to avoid all action which should give pretense, in the Ministry's friendless condition, for a legislative attack.

But this is not all of the new French position. It was announced on Monday, in the way designated by European diplomacy as "semi-official," that the whole question of the future control of Egypt would now be opened; in other words, that Great Britain would be asked to define its present and future attitude regarding that country. The same announcement clearly intimated that the other Powers would be asked to join in the inquiry as interested parties.

The natural question which first arises is, what is the spirit in which this diplomatic inquiry is to be propounded? Some weeks ago we recalled in these columns the series of events as an inevitable result of which Great Britain had been placed in physical control of Egypt. The movements of English soldiers in the Upper Nile region were necessitated by the rise of Arab fanaticism, which threatened, with the incompetent native Government at Cairo, to over-run and capture the Khedive's entire territory. France was invited in 1882 to participate in the pacification of Upper Egypt. She refused the invitation; but it is somewhat significant at the present juncture that De Freycinet, who was Premier at the time, favored co-operation with Great Britain, asked the Deputies for a vote of credit to be used in Egyptian intervention, and resigned his place because the credit was refused by the Chamber. In other words, the public man whose advice, if heeded sixteen years ago, would possibly have placed the present claim of France on Egypt side by side with that of England, now returns to an influential position in the Cabinet at the hour when England's own Egyptian policy is challenged. This is an instance of the irony of politics which is curiously interesting.

Now although, in our judgment, the danger of an actual and immediate outbreak of hostilities is not increased by this week's change in the attitude of the French Ministry, it is plain that the scope of the question at issue is greatly broadened. A week ago the sole question apparently was whether France would maintain or relinquish its claim to territorial rights based upon Major Marchand's Soudanese explorations. This contention appears to have been formally abandoned. Major Marchand is recalled, and Lord Rosebery's trenchant declaration, that "the Nile is Egypt and Egypt is the Nile," is tacitly recognized. Furthermore would appear that the policy of irritation, variously described by English reviews as a result of malice and of pettifogging—the policy which has three times called forth a burst of angry resentment from that choleric City statesman, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach—has been laid aside. This we assume, in spite of recent protestations in Paris that the Fashoda situation is unchanged. Such assurances, which conflict entirely with other equally positive affirmations, we should attribute to the domestic politics of the Dupuy Cabinet, of which the world has not yet heard the last. But the withdrawal of Major Marchand serves, we think, both to place France in a dignified position and to allay popular wrath in England. If any real danger of war existed at last week's opening, it was based on the temper of the average Englishmen. As our readers are aware, and as the recent Spanish-American war outbreak proved conclusively, such popular indignation is a far more dangerous factor in the provocation of hostilities that the most curt communications of diplomatists.

But even so, the Egyptian question now assumes a phase with larger, though less immediate, possibilities of friction. The Paris press makes no secret of its belief that the new policy is distinctly framed with a view of drawing Russia into the controversy. The basis of such participation would of course be the interest of Russia, as the master of the Black Sea, over the control of the territory in the Eastern Mediterranean. The interest of France lies in its professed wish for an Eastern outlet from its Congo territory, an outlet which would necessarily be blocked if English control over the entire Nile basin were to be recognized. Italy holds the Abyssinian country immediately southeast of Khartoum and Bahr-el-Ghazel; Germany's territorial interests are large further to the South. In the face of all these various diplomatic and territorial complications stands the current demand of English trade for a north and south control whereby Mr. Cecil Rhodes's "Cape to Cairo" railway scheme may be safely undertaken.

This complication, it will be readily perceived, is connected with the Fashoda dispute itself, but is of vastly wider influence. It is, however, a perfectly inevitable outgrowth of the African partition treaties of 1890, brought to a focus by England's "forward movement" to Dongola and Gen. Kitchener's victory at Omdurman. That such a conflict of diplomacy must arise, sooner or later, was plain from the moment of the treaties, since from the nature of the territory distributed among the Powers, boundaries could not be defined as in the allotment of a civilized domain. The Franco-English dispute of eight months ago, over the rights of the two Powers in the Guinea "hinterland" was an interesting case in point, arising as it did from an extremely vague discussion over the normal limits of a savage negro "kingdom."

Now, as in 1890, the various interested Powers are manœuvering, so to speak, for position. Were the sentiment of France and Russia altogether plain, there would be little fear of diplomatic breach. As it is, we think that the people both of France and of England are quietly coming to assume that the case is in the hands of the lawyers, and that the less outsiders have to say in the way of passion or indignation the better for both. This is a situation which distinctly makes for peace.

It will doubtless be inquired why, if this be true, England has been arming with such ominous rapidity. To this we should answer that at the moment the purposes of France in Africa and of Russia on the Chinese coast are more or less obscure, and that the English Ministry is following its traditional practice in showing to all the world that, while opposed to war, it is able and ready in a crisis to defend its rights. In this regard the naval preparations of the present week at Portsmouth, Halifax and Hong Kong are nothing new. The rapid equipment of the "flying squadron" at the opening of 1896; even, in fact, the formidable exhibition of naval power at the Queen's Jubilee in 1897, were designed to show rival nations what the sea-power of Great Britain actually is, and what the nation has to rely on if provoked to war. The profound impression produced on Continental diplomatists by such exhibition of readiness and power has more than once, we are convinced, been a potent factor in preserving peace.

COMPETITION OF BRITISH, AMERICAN AND CONTINENTAL MANUFACTURES IN SOUTH AMERICA.*

MANCHESTER, Oct. 22, 1898.

Toward the close of last January Mr. Thomas Worthington, a Special Commissioner of the British Government, left Liverpool for Valparaiso with instructions "to determine whether any and, if so, what causes have brought about in any branch of trade a diminished demand for articles of British produce or manufacture in certain South American markets, either absolutely or relatively to the demand for similar articles produced in other countries." He was also to ascertain how a demand for British goods might be created or increased there. From an advance copy of the Commissioner's report upon Chili, issued by the Board of Trade, I am enabled to present the main results of what appears to have been a thorough investigation into the import trade of that country and the position occupied in it respectively by Great Britain, the United States and the leading States of the European Continent.

It is interesting to glance at the following table, showing the aggregate amount in millions of dollars, or pesos, of the imports into the country in each of the ten years 1887-96 from Great Britain, Germany, United States and France. The figures are uniformly based upon official valuations fixed twenty years ago, which have only been revised for the purposes of the statistics of 1898. The peso is equivalent to 36½ cents.

	Great Britain.	Germany.	United States.	France.
1887	$20,400,000	$11,600,000	$3,200,000	$5,500,000
1888	26,300,000	14,000,000	3,100,000	6,100,000
1889	27,900,000	14,800,000	3,800,000	6,500,000
1890	29,500,000	15,700,000	5,200,000	6,800,000
1891	27,800,000	12,100,000	4,100,000	4,900,000
1892	34,100,000	21,000,000	4,600,000	6,700,000
1893	30,800,000	17,000,000	4,500,000	4,100,000
1894	25,800,000	12,300,000	3,700,000	2,300,000
1895	32,000,000	17,300,000	4,500,000	1,600,000
1896	30,200,000	20,100,000	6,800,000	2,800,000

If, neglecting the differences in a single year, a comparison be made between the average imports of the first three and the last three of these years, it appears that in 1894-6 the imports from Great Britain had grown since 1887-9 by $4,300,000 per annum, from Germany by $3,100,000 and from the United States by $1,600,000. Those from France had fallen off to the extent of $3,800,000 per annum. The mode of classifying imports according to origin adopted by the Chilian customs authorities does not inspire one with absolute confidence in the accuracy of the foregoing figures. They are accustomed generally to enter them under the flag of the vessel in which the goods arrive, a process manifestly uncertain. Still the average statistics of the three years with reference to English goods correspond so far with those published by the British Government of exports to Chili that the latter do show a decided increase in 1894-6 when compared with the entries for 1887-89. Perhaps, therefore, the figures may be accepted as approximately correct, or, at any rate, not grossly inaccurate.

The report proceeds to state in detail the results of the Commissioner's investigations as to the relative position in the Chilian markets of the goods proceeding from each foreign source. English cotton manufactures hold the predominance, but those of the United States have in recent years been gaining ground. Amongst the latter are brown sheetings and drills, which are popular in Bolivia as well as in Chili. American cotton Osnaburgs are almost exclusively used for making bags for flour, but wheat, nitrate and ores are packed entirely in gunnies from India. American cotton flannels are very salable, but at present excessive supplies have much reduced the prices obtainable. English cotton prints meet with no competition, but about 20 per cent of the printed flannelettes come from Italy or Germany. English colored woven cotton goods of the lighter kinds stand alone, but German and Italian trouserings prevail. Cotton velveteens and cords are mainly supplied from England. With reference to American goods Mr. Worthington observes that those who dispose of them give only two months' credit, whilst three months' is the usual term. He adds, however, that they have the advantage of exceedingly low freights, the large steamers taking nitrate to American ports having little return cargo.

Upon the question of the successful competition of German and Italian cotton trouserings in South American markets, it may be useful to state some facts which have come into my possession. It is sometimes said that their high position there is due to superiority of color and design. For this statement, however, there does not appear to be any real foundation. A better reason is that in Germany, and perhaps in Italy, the Jacquard attachment has long been largely used, often with the hand-loom in the production of heavy goods, and manufacturers produce minute quantities of a single pattern. In England and America, fancy weaving in the cotton industry is mainly conducted by the "Dobbie" attachment, which cannot produce such a variety of designs as the Jacquard. The latter is, however, being more widely introduced into English cotton-weaving mills, and exporters to South America are buying at home descriptions of cotton trouserings which were formerly obtained from Germany and Italy.

Woolen cloths for men's wear are now for the most part English, although German makes still hold a prominent place. They are sold chiefly by travelers from London and Paris houses. Of worsteds and mixed dress goods for women the supply is received mainly from France and Germany. Of blankets a small quantity is made in the country, but the consumption is met about equally by English and Continental looms. The old-fashioned "poncho" is fast disappearing in Chili. No carpets from the United States were heard of, those in the market being for the most part of the English tapestry variety, a proportion being German.

Hardware is now supplied mainly from Germany, English productions, which are of much better quality and more durable, being driven out largely by the cheapness of the Teutonic articles. In cutlery English still has a good place, especially in respect of the better kinds, Germany sending the commoner sorts. Of implements and tools the United States furnishes a large and increasing proportion, especially of ploughs for vineyard cultivation, and all kinds of wood-work. German brushes are fast driving out English, American and French competition. Leather and leather goods are largely produced in the country. The making of boots and shoes is an extensive industry in Chili, the work being either farmed out or done in the jails. The importation of them has, nevertheless, largely increased, the supplies proceeding more from England than from Germany. Strangely enough, nothing is said as to supplies from the United States, and as the import duties on foot-gear have been greatly increased the prospects of outside producers generally in the Chilian market for this class of manufactures is not regarded as at all encouraging. The same remark applies also to saddlery and other leather goods.

In agricultural machinery the United States has quite gained the ascendancy, owing mainly to the lightness, speed and cheapness of the articles produced there. American makers also enjoy pre-eminence in respect of railway locomotives, carriages and wagons, but English steam and gas stationary engines stand first, although some of the latter come from Germany. German mining machinery, including explosives, is preferred to English, except winding engines, whilst brewing machinery is received entirely from the Fatherland, "the breweries being here mostly in the hands of Germans."

Upon the methods of conducting the import trade, the Commissioner states that the business is done chiefly by European houses in Chili or by the correspondents in Europe of merchants established there. English merchants buy German goods, and German merchants English whenever it suits them to do so, although they deal preferably in the productions of their respective countries. He met only two commercial travelers, both English and possessing a thorough knowledge of the language. They said there were probably more German than English travelers, but many of the former represented English houses. M. Worthington confirms a complaint often brought against British manufacturers, that they are unwilling to produce articles of low quality and price to suit the wants of buyers. This remark probably applies to hardware and other small metallic articles, although no definite particulars are given.

Chief among the causes for the success of Continental competition in the Chilian markets, however, the Commissioner names the very low freights, especially from Hamburg and Antwerp, fraudulent declarations of value for Customs purposes, of which, he says, some remarkable instances have been made public, and the fraudulent imitation of trade-marks. He adds that a more extensive adoption by English merchants of the metric system would be an advantage to their trade, and that German bankers give larger facilities than do the English to the traders with Chili in their respective countries. With regard to the utility of commercial museums, Mr. Worthington states that he has not found any one in Chili who has even heard of the Stuttgart or the Philadelphia institutions. His testimony to the increase of imports from the United States is emphatic. He describes it as "remarkable," and says: "I think it may be taken for granted that wherever any American goods can be pushed in, no considerations of possible loss in the attempt will prevent their being given a fair trial."

COTTON CONSUMPTION AND OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO NOVEMBER 1.

Favored by satisfactory weather conditions, the gathering and marketing of the cotton crop has made very rapid progress in October. The movement has been much heavier than in the corresponding month of any former year, and has been exceeded but once in any similar period—November 1897. Our statements show that 2,298,606 bales have come into sight through the ports, interior towns and the rail movement overland, whereas in October of 1897 the total reached 1,871,654 bales, in 1896 it was 1,891,562 bales, and in 1895 reached 1,722,122 bales. The aggregate for the two months of 1898 is 3,281,372 bales.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO NOVEMBER 1.

The overland movement has been somewhat less than in October 1897, the gross shipments reaching 199,466 bales, which compares with 223,543 bales in 1897, 233,521 bales in 1896 and 271,027 bales in 1894.

The net overland for the month is also smaller than in October of either 1897 or 1896, being 150,808 bales, against 183,747 bales and 183,746 bales respectively. The total for two months falls behind that of a year ago 32,917 bales.

RECEIPTS, EXPORTS AND SPINNERS' TAKINGS.

The port movement—the net receipts—greatly exceeds that of October 1897, and compared with 1896 an increase almost as great is exhibited; the receipts for the month have been 1,735,660 bales, against 1,424,907 bales a year ago and 1,468,516 bales in 1896. For the two months the excess over 1897 is 221,835 bales, and compared with 1896 the gain reaches 52,442 bales. Foreign exports have been very large during the month, and have reached 1,130,301 bales against 1,028,634 bales last year and 906,488 bales in 1896. For the season to date the excess over 1897 is 100,569 bales.

Using the facts disclosed by the foregoing statements, we shall find that the portion of the crop which has reached a market through the outports and overland, and the Southern consumption, since September 1 this year and the two previous years, is as follows:

	1898.	1897.	1896
Receipts at the ports to Nov. 1....bales.	2,433,444	2,211,609	2,981,002

Total to Nov. 1.....bales.	2,848,372	2,615,454	2,782,549

The amount of cotton marketed since September 1 in 1898 is thus seen to be 232,918 bales greater than in 1897 and 65,823 bales more than in 1896. To determine the portion which has gone into the hands of Northern spinners during the same period we have prepared the following:

Decrease in takings by Northern spinners this year..bales		91,311

The above indicates that Northern spinners had up to Oct. 31 taken 334,307 bales, a decrease from the corresponding period of 1897 of 91,311 bales and a loss from the same time of 1896 of 86,256 bales.

AMOUNT OF CROP NOW IN SIGHT.

In the foregoing we have the number of bales which has already been marketed this year and the two previous seasons. An additional fact of interest is the total of the crop which was in sight on November 1 compared with previous years, and which is shown in the following:

	1898.	1897.	1896
Total marketed, as above....bales	2,848,372	2,615,454	2,782,549

Total in sight.....bales.	3,281,372	2,941,454	3,113,849

This indicates that the movement up to November 1 of the present year is 339,918 bales more than in 1897 and 167,523 bales smaller than in 1896.

As it will interest the reader to see what has come into sight each month of the season during this and previous years, we have prepared the following, which shows the movement for the last four seasons.

COTTON GOODS TRADE IN OCTOBER.

There has been little change in the character of business during the month so far as home trade is concerned. The demand for all lines of staple cottons and seasonable fancies has continued conservative. There has been no quotable decline in representative goods, but the tendency has favored buyers. Early in the month heavy brown cottons weakened in sympathy with the decline in raw material, but an unusually good demand for export sprung up suddenly, and has relieved the situation. It is estimated that the month's sales on export account have reached 100,000 bales. Standard and 3-yard sheetings are now firm and ⅛c. higher than some two weeks ago. Print cloths, after touching 1 15-16c. for regulars, closed steady at 2c. under influence of the agreement to curtail production and pool stocks entered into by the Fall River mills.

GOLD AND SILVER PRODUCTION OF THE WORLD IN 1897.

Mr. George E. Roberts, Director of the United States Mint Bureau, has made public his compilations of the world's production of gold and silver for 1897, the details of which are presented below. It seems, according to these returns, that the amount of gold mined increased from a total of 9,817,991 fine ounces, or $202,956,000, in 1896 to 11,489,294 fine ounces, or $237,504,800, in 1897, a gain of 1,671,303 fine ounces, or $34,548,800, equivalent to slightly more than 17 per cent.

The figures so far as they relate to the United States are somewhat disappointing, as they fall much below what was anticipated would be the result. Last January, at the time we prepared our usual estimates of gold and silver production we were informed by the then Director of the Mint, Mr. Robert E Preston, that "from information at hand I believe the gold product of the United States will approximate $61,500,000," and we adopted those figures in our compilations, especially as Messrs. Wells, Fargo & Co. made the yield some $2,000,000 greater. But now, according to the Bureau, we learn that the United States produced but $57,363,000 gold, an increase of only $4,275,000 over 1896. Mr. Roberts gives the production by States in values only, but for purposes of comparison we have reduced the figures to ounces and present them below in connection with the Mint results for 1896 and 1895.

It will be observed that Colorado has assumed the lead as a producer by an even greater margin than early reports indicated and that Alaska, contrary to expectation, secured from her mines less gold than in 1896. Turning now to a consideration of the world's figures we find that, according to Mr. Robert's compilation, Africa now leads as a gold producer, the output of its mines in 1897 having exceeded those of the United States by 45,647 fine ounces, or $943,600. Australasia also exhibits a very material increase in production—over five hundred thousand ounces, while the mines of the Klondyke have served to bring the Dominion of Canada into much greater prominence as a producer of that metal. The detailed results for 1897 being given in values only, we have reduced the figures to ounces and for purposes of comparison the Mint Bureau details for 1896 are added. The figures are re arranged by us so as to give the countries in the order of their prominence as producers. Only those countries producing $2,000,000 or more are stated separately.

Clearings by Telegraph.—Sales of Stocks, Bonds, &c.—The subjoined table, covering clearings for the current week, usually appears on the first page of the CHRONICLE, but on account of the length of the other tables is crowded out once a month. The figures are received by telegraph from the leading cities. It will be observed that as compared with the corresponding week of 1897 there is an increase in the aggregate of 16·7 per cent. So far as the individual cities are concerned, New York exhibits an increase of 23·8 per cent, and the gains at other points are: Boston 23·7 per cent, Philadelphia 13·2 per cent, Chicago 5·2 per cent, Baltimore 33·8 per cent and St. Louis 13·7 per cent. New Orleans records a loss of 4·9 per cent.

Monetary and Commercial English News

[From our own correspondent.]

LONDON, Saturday, October 22, 1898.

As the time draws near for the French Government to reply to Lord Salisbury's demand for the evacuation of Fashoda, apprehension both in Paris and in London increases, and markets generally have been depressed throughout the week. On Tuesday evening the Duke of Devonshire made a speech in which he reiterated the Government assurances that no negotiations will be entered into until Major Marchand is withdrawn. And on Wednesday the Chancellor of the Exchequer followed this up by a very strong speech in which he declared that the Ministers are determined to insist upon Lord Salisbury's demand, and that if it is not complied with they are prepared for war.

Naturally this has occasioned uneasiness in both countries, and on Wednesday the Paris Bourse, which had been remarkably strong until then, considering all the circumstances, gave way, and began to sell mining shares and such other securities as are freely bought here. At the same time the report was circulated that the Bank of France would raise its rate of discount next day, which has proved true. Finally it became known that extraordinary naval preparations are being made at the French dockyards. The effect of all this was to cause a fall here, which was accentuated by sales on account of Berlin speculators in consequence of the money difficulties there. Still, looking at the gravity of the situation, the fall has been surprisingly small. That is due mainly, of course, to the absence of speculation for the rise, and it is even possible that some part of the fall has been brought about by "bear" selling.

Meanwhile there is a very general belief here and in Paris that a friendly settlement will somehow or other be arrived at. During the past three weeks Paris has been visited by the Russian Ministers of Finance, War and Foreign Affairs. It is understood that M. Witte, the Finance Minister, went with the intention of preparing for a new Russian loan, but that he did not receive much encouragement. The War Minister is believed to have gone there for the purpose of studying on the spot the real relations between the civil and the military powers. While Count Muravieff, the Foreign Minister, is credited with the desire to prevent a rupture between this country and France. At the same time, of course, he explained that the Czar had no intention to put any slight upon France when he issued his Peace Manifesto without consulting that country. On the contrary, the Minister is said to have assured the French Government that the intention was to save France from all embarrassment.

But the main object in Count Muravieff's visit, according to the best Paris opinion, is to maintain peace. Russia, notoriously, is not prepared for war, because she has famine at home and troubles all over Asia to face, and because in addition the Siberian Railway is not completed. If France, therefore, were to rush into a conflict, Russia would be placed in a very unpleasant predicament. Everybody expects that the whole influence of Russia will be used to avert a conflict. But unfortunately the Brisson Cabinet is very weak and whether it will venture to haul down the French flag on the summons of England remains to be seen. Perhaps Major Marchand himself may get the Cabinet out of its embarrassment by asking for his own recall.

In these circumstances it is natural that Stock Exchange business should have become even more stagnant than before, and that all kinds of new enterprise should be suspended. Even mercantile trade is somewhat affected, and no doubt it will be checked still more if the crisis continues much longer. For the moment no attention is paid to anything but Fashoda, the question, Is there or is there not to be war? being almost the sole topic of conversation wherever men meet. In one of his three speeches on Wednesday, the Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that the public revenue, in spite of all, is fairly satisfactory. But there can be little doubt that the long continued political apprehensions must have an injurious effect upon it. In the first place, new companies have not been brought out for many months, and will hardly be brought out now until after Christmas. And in the second place, trade generally is not as active as it was. For these reasons the stamp duty cannot fail to be less productive than it would have been if political confidence had continued. Upon the Continent business is even more stagnant than it is even here, with the sole exception of Germany, and even in Germany speculation has been carried too far and a process of liquidation is going on.

The Directors of the Bank of England have been borrowing in the open market all through the week for the purpose of raising the discount rate in the open market to the level of their own rate. They have been fairly successful, and if the political apprehensions do not soon abate they will doubtless completely succeed. But still the rate of interest for short loans is moderately low. If, however, the Bank continues to borrow, rates of all kinds will be forced up. Apart altogether from the political complications the directors are actuated by the desire to strengthen their reserve. As already said, there is a process of liquidation going on in Germany, and the demand for accommodation at the Imperial Bank is very strong. That Bank is empowered by law to issue notes in excess of its authorized issue, and the gold it holds, on condition that it pays 5 per cent duty to the Government on the excess. There is very little danger, therefore, of a serious crisis in Berlin, assuming, of course, that peace is not disturbed, because the Bank can increase its circulation when it pleases. But at the same time it will necessarily have to charge more than 5 per cent for the accommodation it gives, and consequently money is likely to rule very high in Berlin for some while to come It is generally understood that everything possible will be done to avoid disturbing the market here. Nevertheless gold may have to be withdrawn from the Bank of England.

There is a general impression, too, that if the American elections are favorable to sound money, gold may be taken in preparation for the reform of the currency. But that is not so much feared as withdrawals for Berlin. In consequence of the state of the Berlin market and the efforts made by the Bank of England to obtain control of the outside market here in London, the Bank of France on Thursday raised its rate of discount to 3 per cent from 2 per cent, at which the rate had stood since March 14, 1895, a period of over three years and seven months. It is possible that the Fashoda dispute may have influenced the Bank directors. But the condition of things in Germany was the principal cause of the change.

Meantime the India Council continues to sell its drafts exceedingly well. It offered for tender on Wednesday 40 lacs and the applications exceeded 256 lacs. The whole amount offered was disposed of in bills at rates ranging from 1s. 3 15-16d. to 1s. 3 31-32d. per rupee.

The following return shows the position of the Bank of England, the Bank rate of discount, the price of consols, &c., compared with the last three years:

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 4, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The influences which have been prominent in Wall Street business circles for some time past are still conspicuous, and transactions at the Stock Exchange are largely speculative and professional. The conditions now prevailing in the security markets are such as usually precede an election, especially when the issues involved have a bearing more or less direct upon financial matters. There is a conspicuous absence of investors, and the sentiment of the country, so far as it will be expressed at the polls next Tuesday, is awaited with interest.

The foreign political situation, which caused considerable selling of securities for foreign account recently has so far improved as to be a less conspicuous factor in this market. Matters of an industrial nature have undergone very little change during the week. Evidences of exceptional activity continue to come from the Northwest, and normal trade conditions are being restored in the South, where they had been disturbed by yellow fever. Unfavorable traffic reports by some of the anthracite coal roads show the unfortunate results of the condition of that industry and caused a sharp decline of the coal stocks early in the week. At that time the market was generally heavy, but it has improved somewhat towards the close. Any considerable degree of activity can hardly be looked for, however, until after election.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 1½ to 2 per cent. To-day's rates on call were 1¾ to 2 per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3 to 4 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £264,116, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 49·70, against 48·65 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 8,200,000 francs in gold and 5,875,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Oct. 29 showed an increase in the reserve held of $6,624,500 and a surplus over the required reserve of $26,091,550, against $23,412,325 the previous week.

State and Railroad Bonds.—Sales of State bonds at the Board are limited to $33,000 Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 at 79⅜ to 79½. The market for railway bonds has been generally strong and changes in quotations are in most cases to a higher level. Transactions at the Exchange have averaged over $2,600,000 par value per day and were fairly well distributed, although the active list shows an absence of investment demand at the moment, although to-day's market was the strongest and most active of the week. Southern Railway 5s were among the strong features, gaining over 1 point and selling above par for the first time in their history. Texas & Pacific 1sts made a similar advance, and Atchison 1sts, Erie prior liens, Missouri K. & Texas 1sts, Union Pacific 4s and Wisconsin Central trust receipts were among the issues which advanced from ½ to ¾ of a point.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—On a volume of business averaging about 280,000 shares per day, the stock market has been decidedly unsettled in tone and irregular in movement, with the professional element largely in control, and no important change in the prevailing conditions from day to day. The anthracite coal group was the weak feature of the railway list, although some recovery has been made from the lowest quotations. Louisville & Nashville and Southern Railway were relatively strong on the improved conditions in the South. The grangers were the most active stocks in this department, and after yielding somewhat to the depressing influences of the early part of the week, have advanced later on St. Paul's excellent traffic report for October.

Interest has centered largely in the miscellaneous stocks and the transactions in American Tobacco, American Sugar Refining and Federal Steel have been on a large scale. The latter has come into prominence this week and both the common and preferred shares show a substantial advance. American Tobacco has fluctuated over a range of nearly 11 points, Minnesota Iron a range of 7½ points and Hawaiian Sugar a range of 8½ points.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of every STEAM railroad from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the period from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

Net Earnings Monthly to Latest Dates.—The table following shows the gross and net earnings of STEAM railroads reported this week. A full detailed statement, including all roads from which monthly returns can be obtained, is given once a month in these columns, and the latest statement of this kind will be found in the CHRONICLE of October 29, 1898. The next will appear in the issue of Nov. 19, 1898.

a Net earnings here given are after deducting taxes.
c Deducting other expenditures for repairs, replacements and general expenses, net income applicable to interest on bonds in September was $117,377, against $98,093 last year, and for January 1 to Sept. 30 $675,106, against $1,052,237. This is the result in Mexican dollars (treated according to the company's method of keeping its accounts) as equivalent to 50 cents in United States money—that is, depreciation beyond 50 per cent has already been allowed for.
d After deducting "reserve fund for repairs of steamers" balance in Sept., 1898, was $67,210, against a deficit of $4,896, and from May 1 to Sept. 30 $597,598, against $269,664. The reserve fund for depreciation and general and extraordinary repairs of steamers has been increased to the standard of the English companies, i. e., five per cent upon the value of the steamers.

Interest Charges and Surplus.—The following roads, in addition to their gross and net earnings given in the foregoing, also report charges for interest, &c., with the surplus or deficit above or below these charges

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns, and the latest statement of this kind will be found in the CHRONICLE of October 29, 1898. The next will appear in the issue of November 19, 1898.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President Samuel Spencer says:

"The property continues to show increasing strength and earning power. All of the extensions and improvements which have been made from time to time have proven to be profitable investments, and both the local and through traffic for the year show a satisfactory increase, except in the one item of coal. The strike of the coal miners, which began in June and lasted until November 26, 1897, practically deprived the company for five months of the fiscal year of its coal traffic, which ordinarily furnishes about 35 to 40 per cent of its gross revenue. There were transported during the year 791,456 tons of coal and coke, a decrease of 168,758 tons as compared with the previous year. Of the amount transported, 518,676 tons originated on the company's lines, being a decrease of 147,318 tons as compared with the previous year. There was an increase of 50,184 tons of stone transported as compared with the previous year. The increase of grain and flour shipments was 157,526 tons."

St. Joseph & Grand Island Railway.

President William L. Bull says in part:

Improvements.—The development alluded to in the last annual report has been carried on unceasingly and is still in progress. The changes at Hanover have been completed and are proving to be worth all that was predicted for them. Three new locomotives of the most approved modern type were purchased during the year, and additional equipment is now in course of construction. Renewal of the steel on a proper yearly proportion of our track has been continued, and more than the average number of ties have been purchased and put in place, and all these from earnings of the road.

Traffic.—An especial effort has been made to diversify the business along the line, and the results are gratifying. Special mention may be made of the establishment of important packing houses at St. Joseph, largely increasing our stock business, and of the development of the merchandise movement along our entire road. The amount of wheat grown in the territory served by the railway was larger during the last year than ever before in its history, and we hope to see the results before the first of January in an increased grain tonnage.

Trackage into Kansas City.—On account of the rapidly growing tendency of freight to seek Gulf ports contracts have been made with the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe and the Kansas City & Northern Connecting roads, securing trackage rights and an entrance into Kansas City on terms which are considered very advantageous for your road. It is expected that this line will be open for business in August next, and that soon after it will be in full operation.

Finances.—There has been no increase in the funded debt or share capital of the Company during the current year, and it has no floating debt whatever.

Statistics.—The results for two years have been as follows

Cincinnati New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President S. M. Felton says in part:

Financial.—During the year just closed the accounts show a surplus over and above the rental and operating expenses amounting to $274,278, not including provision for interest upon, or principal of judgments, or interest upon any of the obligations of the company prior to the receivership. The handsome increase in receipts was largely caused by the movement of troops and Government supplies. 40,153 sold ore were handled up to the close of the year and 14,945 tons of Government military material and supplies. Attention is called to the fact that while the gross receipts increased 20 per cent, the expenses of conducting transportation show an increase of but 1·04 per cent.

The liabilities of the company prior to the receivership, including the amount of its capital stock ($3,000,000) and the Doughty judgment, were $3,579,175. The assets, including the rolling stock and equipment of the company, real estate and buildings, were $1,688,665, leaving the excess of liabilities over assets $1,890,510. The receiver's account at the 30th of June, 1898, shows liabilities $795,647, not including in this item $193,698 of car trust notes, which carry a first lien on the equipment for which they were issued. The assets were $748,494, leaving excess of liabilities over assets $47,153, or a total excess of liabilities, both of the railway company and the receiver, over assets of $1,937,663.

Physical Condition—Requirements of Property.—The physical condition of the property has been further improved by laying 10,229 tons of 75-lb. steel rail and ballasting 33 miles of track. Contracts have been made for the reconstruction of two more iron bridges, each of 150 feet span. Eleven miles more of main track have been protected with electric block signals. The larger expenditures have, however, been devoted to equipment. A careful examination of the equipment shows that 1,395 cars belonging to the original equipment purchased from the trustees were not of sufficient value to justify the necessary expenditure for air-brakes and couplers. Authority was therefore obtained from the Court to buy 600 new cars; 500 of these cars have already been delivered and are in service; the balance will be built within the coming year. During the year just closed the freight car mileage balance against the receiver was $73,148. The equivalent number of cars necessary to equalize this mileage would be 2,000, so that the equipment can be considered to-day short to that extent.

Of the road 0·81 miles is now laid with 85-lb. steel rails, 269·3 miles with 75-lb. steel rails and 65·76 miles with 60-lb. steel rails. Of the bridging 29,127 lineal feet are iron bridges and viaducts and 3,528 lineal feet are wooden bridges and trestles, that, under the requirements of the lease, must be replaced with masonry, iron, or by permanent embankment, at the cost and expense of your company. There are 346 lineal feet of open drains. Besides the cost of maintenance the company has expended for additions and improvements to the road, from October 12, 1881, to June 30, 1898, the large sum of $2,308,491. This amount justly forms part of the rental paid to the city of Cincinnati and is so shown in the accounts.

The reconstruction of bridges should all be completed within the next ten years. This involves an expenditure of about $2,000,000 and must receive serious consideration from those who undertake the reorganization of this property. In addition to this it must be borne in mind that the necessary expenditures remaining to comply with the terms of the lease are approximately as follows: $314,050 for completing the arching of the tunnels, $140,000 for filling trestles or replacing them with steel and masonry, $84,300 for completing the block signals and $50,000 for fencing, or a total of $616,950.

Earnings, etc.—Average freight train load 389 tons in 1897-8, against 331 tons in 1896-97. Results compare as follows:

Georgia Southern & Florida Railway.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President Samuel Spencer says in part:

The increase in freight earnings is very largely from lumber and other forest products, these having furnished 340,879 tons (39 per cent of the total tonnage) as against 266,321 tons in 1897. The increase in passenger earnings is due almost entirely to the movement of troops. The total increase in freight and passenger earnings incident to the war with Spain has amounted to about $40,000.

The period of increased renewals for wooden structures is approaching, and it is estimated that during the next fiscal year an amount will be spent in cross tie and bridge renewals more than double that which was spent in either of the last two or three years. The company has no floating debt.

New Orleans & North Eastern Railroad.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

The company's annual report says in part:

Of the 195 miles of main track 159 miles are laid with 60 lb. steel rails and 36 miles with 75-lb. steel rails. There are 2,565 lineal feet of iron bridges and 57,986 lineal feet of wooden bridges and trestles—in all 11·17 miles of bridge structure. This includes Lake Pontchartrain creosoted trestle, 5·72 miles. During the year there were laid in the main track 2·36 miles of new 75-lb. steel rails in replacement of old 60 lb. steel rails. 25 miles of main track were ballasted to standard with gravel; 162 miles of track are now fully ballasted, leaving about 27 miles yet to be done. Since January, 1894, 72 trestles have been filled and 91,630 lineal feet (15·46 miles) of wooden trestles, including Lake Pontchartrain approaches, have been replaced by permanent embankment. There has been no expenditure on capital account during the year.

In September, 1897, yellow fever broke out in New Orleans and other places in the South, and such strict quarantine regulations were enforced by municipal and other authorities that traffic was seriously interrupted from the 12th of September to the 4th of November. The loss of earnings by this quarantine is estimated at $18,000 of which $23,000 was in passenger and express and $25,000 in freight traffic.

The interest on the bonds, however, has been accruing at the rate of $300,700 yearly since July, 1896, when the last coupon was paid. Of this amount $15,750 is on account of bonds owned but pledged as collateral.

Rutland Railroad Company.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President Percival W. Clement says in substance:

The year's figures show an increase in both freight and passenger earnings, and while the cost of conducting transportation and general expense shows a decrease from the previous year, the total operating expense is increased owing to the laying of 20 miles of new steel rails, the large amount of ballasting done, the equipment of freight cars with automatic couplers, and passenger cars and locomotives with steel tired wheels. All passenger cars in regular service, and all engine trucks are now equipped with steel-tired wheels, and wheels have been bought and paid for to complete the equipment of all engine tenders.

The litigation between your company and the Central Vermont RR. Co., arising from certain matters in dispute under the leases of 1871 and 1891, has been settled by the execution of mutual releases, without costs to either party.

The earnings, etc., were:

American Type Founders Company.

(Report for the year ending August 31, 1898.)

President John E. Searles says in substance:

General Results—The gross profits for the year after deducting expenses amount to $215,446, and after deducting the interest charges to $45,632, the net profits amount to $169,814. The manufacturing plants have been maintained by the expenditure of over $50,000, all of which has been charged as current expenses. The equipment of the several foundries with automatic machinery is now practically completed, and the expenditure for further improvements will be much less in the future. The improvements made are already justified by the earnings. The company's business in this country for the year has shown a liberal increase, and its foreign trade has been largely extended.

Branches—The Boston branch has been located permanently in a new fire-proof structure erected specially to meet its requirements, under a lease for ten years, with privilege of renewal for five years. The Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, Kansas City and the Denver branches have also been removed to other quarters, and in every case the company has gained material advantage, either in the reduction of rent or improved accommodations, and in some cases both.

Bonds—The issue of debenture bonds to the amount of $1,000,000, provided for by the trust indenture of 1896, was intended to reduce our bills payable and to provide working capital. The $600,000 already sold have been applied to these purposes. Should the continued growth of the business demand further working capital, the $400,000 bonds remaining are available.

Dividends.—In considering the question of dividends, your directors adopted the conservative course of postponing the distribution of earnings, employing them to strengthen the company, and awaited a time when dividends once resumed could be maintained with regularity. The company is now upon such a basis as leads to the belief that the distribution of the earnings can be continued, and, in accordance with this view, the directors have declared since the close of the fiscal year a dividend of one per cent upon the capital stock, which was paid this day out of the accumulated earnings of the company. We believe in the ability of the company, after full protection of its financial obligations and such enlargement of its facilities as may be necessary, to distribute to the stockholders a quarterly dividend at least equal to that already paid.

Anaconda Copper Mining Company.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President J. B. Haggin says in part:

The diminished profit for the present year compared with 1896-7 has chiefly resulted from the following causes: A larger expenditure for new plant at the reduction works, considerably diminished price for silver with only a slight increase in the price of copper and increased expenses per pound of copper produced.

A fire during the year destroyed the bunkers and washing apparatus at our coal mines, involving a loss of $103,496, which was charged to operation. Much extra expense was incurred in mining in the Anaconda lode by sinking of the various shafts and on account of the breaking out again of the old fire, which had been smoldering for over eight years. Our Superintendent hopes he has at last extinguished this fire.

During the year $802,957 for new construction and new machinery (including nothing for repairs) was charged in above operation costs, which, in the judgment of the trustees, is an ample allowance for any depreciation of the plant. Aside from an increase of $182,054 for new reservoir, etc., the only charge to capital has been $1,508 20 for net purchases of mining claims.

The Profit and Loss Account of the company for the three years since its organization shows a profit of $12,945,909. The dividends in this period have been $6,750,000, leaving a balance or surplus of $6,195,908 92. Roughly speaking, about $1,000,000 of this surplus has been devoted to an increase of capital, and the remainder of $5,300,000 is represented by working capital in the shape of stocks of copper, silver and gold, stores and supplies and cash assets. It will be remembered that when the company took over the property on July 1, 1895, no working capital was provided.

Earnings, etc.—The receipts and deductions for the years ending June 30, 1896, 1897 and 1898, were as follows:

Columbus & Cincinnati Midland RR.—Reorganization Matters.—The first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds that were held in Baltimore under the control of the Daly-Middendorf Committee have been deposited with the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. of Philadelphia, under the plan of the committee of which Charles S. Hinchman is Chairman and George Stevenson (of Sailer & Stevenson) is Secretary. This latter committee has a very large majority of the bonds deposited under its control, and expects to have in a few days an additional amount which will bring its holdings up to about 90 per cent of the whole issue. The committee, acting under the advice of its counsel, John G. Johnson, Esq., has decided not to deposit its bonds under the plan of reorganization (V. 67, p. 688,) since it considers the terms offered very unjust.

The Midland road had in service on June 30, 1897, 12 locomotives and 216 cars, a very fair amount, it is thought, of equipment for a line 71 miles in length, carrying principally general merchandise. The 397,809 tons transported in the year 1895-96 were classified as follows: products of agriculture, 20,160; of animals, 15,433; of mines, 92 485; of forests, 55,296; of manufacture, 123,532; miscellaneous, 90,900.—V. 67, p. 900.

Columbus Hocking Valley & Toledo Ry.—Car Trusts Called.—Car trust series "A" bonds of 1891, Nos. 116, 223, 396, 485, 694, 795, 1048, 1182, 1371, 1502, 1660 and 1740 have been drawn for redemption at par and accrued interest on Jan. 1, 1899, at the Atlantic Trust Co., No. 39 William St., New York.—V. 67, p. 482.

Cuyahoga Telegraph & Telephone—Union Suburban Telephone & Telegraph of Cleveland—United States Telephone.—Purchase—Change of Name.—The Home Telephone Co. of Cleveland has applied to the Board of Control for official sanction of a formal transfer of its property in Cleveland to the Cuyahoga Telegraph & Telephone Co., which corporation, if the petition is granted, will operate the Home Company's lines in Cleveland. The Union Suburban Telephone & Telegraph Co. of Cleveland has been officially authorized to change its name to the United States Telephone Co.—"Electricity."—V. 67, p. 633, 484.

Dallas Terminal Ry. & Union Depot Co.—Meeting Dec. 1.—The stockholders will vote Dec. 10 on the proposition to extend the road to Fort Worth, a distance of 32 miles; also to cancel the bonds now out and to issue in their place $ 000,000 worth of bonds to make the improvements mentioned and others. President W. C. Connor says several roads will probably have trains running into Dallas over his line in from three to six months time."—V. 67, p. 842.

Delaware & Hudson Canal Co.—Gravity Road and Canal. —The company is considering the advisability of discontinuing next season the operation of the gravity road and the canal from Honesdale to Rondout. President Olyphant, in commenting on the subject said: "The canal was a very useful medium of transportation when coal and railroad freights were higher than they are now, as the cost by the canal was a fixed sum, and the cost by rail was always dependant on the price of coal. Now the average price of coal being lower and rail freights having also been reduced, the canal becomes an expensive way of carrying coal. Unless a change takes place very quickly it will be largely to the interest of the D & H. stockholders to give up the canal, as on the present basis the earnings of the company will thereby be very much increased.

"If we give up the mode of transportation which has been peculiar to us and which has now proven too expensive, the securing of another medium for bringing our coal to market enhances rather than decreases the value of the property and gives an increased value to other portions of the property which have been carried on the books of the company at a very low valuation. If the coal property is earning now 5 per cent, and we can make a change by which the earning power can be increased to 6½ per cent, the value of the property is so much increased. The canal has stood on our books as an asset of $5,500,000 and the gravity road of about $3,500,000. Our coal lands, on the other hand, have never been marked up, and appear on our books some as low as 50 cents an acre. It is simply a question of a change in the relation of assets governed by earning power." V. 67, p. 843.

Detroit & Lima Northern Ry.—Receivership.—The report that the Manhattan Trust Co., as mortgage trustee, is dissatisfied with the present receiver and has applied for the appointment of a new receiver, is pronounced untrue. The amount of bonds outstanding against the property is as follows: Lima Northern Ry. first 5s, $1,194,000; Detroit & Lima Northern 5s, $2,335,000.—V. 67, p. 680.

Elyton Company.—Reorganization Committee.—A reorganization committee has been formed at the request of the directors of the company, consisting of William Hallo, Jr., cashier of the Hanover National Bank; August W. Kelley, Vice-President of the Union Trust Co., New York; Alexander D. Seymour, Vice-President of the Continental National Bank, New York, and Thomas G. Jones, ex-Governor of Alabama. Holders of stock and bonds are requested to deposit their securities with the Union Trust Co. of New York, the Birmingham Trust & Savings Co. of Birmingham or the Whitney National Bank of New Orleans. Upon deposit of a majority interest the committee will draft a plan of reorganization which, when accepted by the security holders, will become operative.—V. 67, p. 73.

Fair Haven & Westville RR.—New Haven Street RR.—Purchased.—The stockholders of the Fair Haven & Westville RR. on Monday ratified the merger with the New Haven Street Ry. Co. and on Tuesday their company took possession of the latter's property. The capital stock of the Fair Haven & Westville will be increased in the consolidation from $900,000 to $2,000,000. Of the new issue $900,000 will be given outright to the stockholders of the Fair Haven & Westville and the remaining $200,000, together with $500,000 cash, will be paid for the merged road. The cash is to be obtained by means of $500,000 one-year notes. While the merger is accomplished under the title of the Fair Haven & Westville RR., the New Haven Street Ry. interests are the ones dominant in the consolidation.—V. 67, p. 843.

Federal Steel—Lorain Steel.—Application to List Stock.—Application has been made to the Stock Exchange to list $51,938,700 preferred and $45,436,500 common stock of the Federal Steel Co. The formal transfer of the business of the Johnson Co. has been made to the Lorain Steel Co. The original intention was to make the transfer Jan. 1, but the deal by which the Federal Steel Co. secured control made the transfer necessary at this time.—V. 67, p. 842, 530.

Galveston La Porte & Houston Ry.—Galveston Houston & Kansas City Ry.—Sale Confirmed.—The sale of the Galveston La Porte & Houston Ry. to L. J. Smith was confirmed Oct. 27 by Judge Bryant of the United States District Court. Mr. Smith's motion, asking that the property be turned over to him at once, without the payment of the remainder of the purchase price, was denied, but the Court gave him until April 1, 1899, in which to make the payment due, the amount being $375,000. In the meantime the road will be operated by the receiver, T. W. House. The Galveston Houston & Kansas City Ry. is reported formed to take over the property.—V. 67, p. 736.

Georgia & Alabama Ry.—Savannah Terminals.—President John Skelton Williams writes us as follows:

Replying to your esteemed favor of the 17th inst., I beg leave to advise you that we have not progressed sufficiently far with our terminal plans to give you full particulars in regard to them. We are now advertising under the Georgia laws for a company to be known as the Georgia & Alabama Terminal Co., which proposes to make an issue of $1,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, of which $ 50,000 have already been subscribed for, the proceeds to be used for terminal purposes. The Georgia & Alabama Ry. expects also to make large expenditures on account of the terminals in addition to the money realized from the Terminal bonds. The Terminal Co. will own about 1,000 acres of land, including about one mile of water front at Savannah.—V. 67, p. 786.

Glucose Sugar Refining.—The directors have declared a first dividend of 1¼ per cent on the common stock, payable Dec. 1.—V. 67, p. 481.

Illinois Central RR.—Fort Dodge & Omaha RR. Co.—Extension to Omaha.—The Fort Dodge & Omaha RR. Co. was incorporated in Iowa last September with authorized capital stock of $5,000,000 to build a road from Fort Dodge, Iowa, to Omaha, Neb., via Council Bluffs, a distance of about 125 miles. John F. Duncombe of Fort Dodge, long the solicitor for Iowa of the Illinois Central RR., is the President of the company, which, it is generally understood, is organized as an extension of the Illinois Central. Construction, it is said, will be pushed rapidly, but we have been unable to secure from official sources any statement as to the project. —V. 67, p. 575, 578, 580.

International Packing & Provision.—Interest Not Paid. —The directors this week voted to pass the half yearly interest of 3 per cent on the debenture bonds, resolving in brief:

Whereas, There have been no net profits during the six months ended Nov. 1 last, and there is no surplus on hand; and

Whereas, based upon the foregoing and the terms of the trust agreement dated Feb. 1, 1898, the counsel of the company has given his opinion that this company cannot legally pay on Nov. 1, 1898, any interest on its debentures.

Resolved, that this company do not pay on Nov. 1, 1898, any interest on said debentures.—V. 66, p. 1031.

Iowa Central RR.—Iowa Central & Western RR.—Extension to Des Moines.—L. M. Martin, General Manager of the Iowa Central RR. and others have incorporated in the interest of the Iowa Central RR. the Iowa Central & Western RR. to construct a line of railway from Oskaloosa to Des Moines, a distance of about 55 miles, touching Pella and utilizing the tracks of the Wabash from Cordova. L. M. Martin is the President of the new company. It is expected that the line will be in operation by July 1 of next year. An extension is also projected from Belmond to Algona, 38 miles. This latter line will give connection with the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul.—V. 67, p. 787.

Jamaica Water Supply.—New Mortgage.—The company's new mortgage, we are now informed, is for $100,000, and is made to the People's Trust Co. of Brooklyn, as trustee, to secure a like amount of $1,000 5 per cent gold bonds due Oct. 13, 1928. Sufficient of the new loan is reserved to retire $250,000 of the bonds of the late Jamaica Township Water Co. assumed and guaranteed by the Water Supply Co. due in 1903.—V. 67, p. 788.

Jamestown & Lake Erie Ry.—Sold.—This property was purchased at foreclosure sale on Tuesday, Nov. 1, by Bertron & Storrs of 40 Wall Street for $200,000, for the benefit of the first mortgage bondholders.—V. 67, p. 371.

Joint Traffic Association.—Dissolved.—The presidents of the various roads concerned yesterday voted to dissolve the Joint Traffic Association.—V. 67, p. 901.

Kings County Elevated RR.—Trains on the Bridge.—At midnight Monday the cars of the Kings County road began to cross the Brooklyn Bridge. Through trains are run between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. At all other hours passengers from the Borough of Manhattan buy coupon tickets at the station and deposit the one marked "Bridge ticket" before entering the Bridge train. This system was established some time ago in operating the Brooklyn Elevated road, all through trains to New York during the "rush" hours being withdrawn. The plan will probably be pursued until the trains can be operated through by electricity without the present change of motive power and the delay incident thereto.—V. 67, p. 901.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry.—Offer to Exchange Bonds Due July 1, 1900.—Holders of 7 per cent consolidated mortgage and sinking fund bonds due July 1, 1900, are offerred by Speyer & Co. the privilege, until Dec. 31 next, of exchanging their bonds at their value on Dec. 1 next, calculated to maturity on a 3 per cent basis, for Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Co. 3½ per cent gold bonds due 1997, at the price of 105 per cent and interest.—V. 67, p. 428.

Manitoba & Northwestern Ry.—Receivership.—The receivership of A. M. Nanton has been extended over the entire road. H. Montague Allen, of Montreal was previously receiver of the Western division.

Bondholders' Meeting.—A meeting of the bondholders will be held on Nov. 11, at which the Trustees will make "a statement as to the position of matters."—V. 66, p. 472.

Manufacturers' Natural Gas.—Bellevue & Glenfield Gas Co.—Purchased.—The Manufacturers' Natural Gas Co., it is stated, recently purchased for $150,000 the property of the Bellevue & Glenfield Gas Co., consisting of 3,000 acres of oil and gas territory in Washington and Allegheny counties, on which there are 80 oil and gas wells. The production of oil is close to 120 barrels a day. Pittsburg "Gazette" says:

The gas plant, part of the purchase, with its franchises, is the main factor to be considered in the big deal. It consists of 70 miles of pipe line and supplies the towns of Carnegie, Glenfield, Kimsworth, Ben Avon, Avalon and Bellevue, as domestic consumers, and in addition a number of glass factories on the South Side, and the county building. H. B. Beatty, President of the Manufacturers' Company, stated that the main object in purchasing the Bellevue & Glenfield plant was to secure a market, or rather customers, for their large surplus of the natural fluid for fuel. The holdings of the Manufacturers' Company are represented by Oil City capital, and the company has never passed its monthly dividends.

Metropolitan Street Ry. of New York.—Cost of Operating Underground Trolley.—President Vreeland has furnished the "Street Railway Journal" some interesting statistics as to the relative earning capacity of the horse, cable and underground electric lines of his company's system. The results will naturally be more or less modified when the electric lines, so recently placed in operation, shall begin to require normal renewals, but for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1898, the statement furnished shows the following:

Per cent of total car mileage	27·4%	39·0%	33·6%
Receipts per car mile (cents)	33·3	26·0	28·8
Operating expenses per car mile (cents)	17·6	10·0	17·0
Net earnings per car mile (cents)	15·7	16·0	10·9
Proportion operating expenses to gross	52·7%	38·6%	62·1%
Detailed expenses per car mile:
Power (cents)	2·0	1·4	7·0
Maintenance of way and equipment (cents)	6·1	1·3	1·1
Transportation (cents)	8·0	6·4	8·2
General (cents)	1·4	0·9	1·6

The conclusions drawn are thus stated:

From a careful study of these figures, we believe that were all the lines in New York City to be equipped with a single motive power, electricity would have a permanent advantage over the cable of at least 3·5 cents per car-mile in maintenance of way; a slight disadvantage in maintenance of equipment; and an advantage of at least 1·25 cents in power, of 1·5 cents in transportation, and of ·5 cent in general expenses; a total of nearly 6·75 cents per car mile. In comparison with horse traction, electricity would be at a disadvantage of perhaps ·5 cent per car mile in maintenance of way and ·5 cent in maintenance of equipment; while it would have an advantage of at least 6 cents in motive power, 1·5 cents in transportation, and ·5 cent in general expenses; a net difference of 7 cents. Besides this, electric cars would earn more than either horse or cable cars with equivalent mileage.

Eighth Avenue Line Opened.—The company has opened its Eighth Avenue line from Fourteenth Street to 155th Street, and expects the road will be completed with underground trolley as far as Canal Street by Nov. 15. The line may be extended to the Battery next spring.—V. 67, p. 941.

Minnesota Transfer.—Bonds Authorized.—The stockholders on Oct. 25 voted to issue the $400,000 bonds required to pay for the recently purchased New Brighton stock yards, as described in V. 66, p. 1238.

National Linseed Oil.—Reorganization.—The addition of Mr. Linley to the Reorganization Committee, noted last week, was made in the interest of the St. Louis and Iowa stockholders, who, it is stated, are now disposed to co-operate with the Olcott interests. A plan is being mooted to unite the National Company with its twelve competitors, whose combined capacity is said to be nearly as great as that of the larger corporation. If the plan succeeds, the new organization, according to reports, will be entirely independent of those hitherto identified with the management of the old National Linseed Oil Co.—V. 67, p. 902.

New England Gas & Coke.—Official Circular.—The following circular sent to the patrons of the Brookline Dorchester & Jamaica Plain Gas Light Cos., under date of Nov. 4, refers to the Massachusetts Pipe Line Co., whose capital stock is wholly owned by the New England Gas & Coke Co.:

The undersigned hereby give notice that, having arranged with the Massachusetts Pipe Line Co. for the purchase of coal gas at a lower price than that for which they have hitherto been able to manufacture it, they will supply coal gas in place of water gas whenever the said Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Co. is ready to furnish it. From and after that time, the price of gas used for fuel, when supplied through a separate meter, will be 75c. per thousand; when used in gas engines, of a type to be approved by the company furnishing the gas, 1 1-5c. per horse power per hour up to 100 horse power; in engines of from 100 to 200 horse power 1 1-10c. per horse power per hour; in engines of 200 horse power and over, 1c. per horse power per hour; for gas to be supplied to gas furnaces of a type to be approved by the company furnishing the gas, 50c. per thousand cubic feet.

BROOKLINE GAS LIGHT Co., DORCHESTER GAS LIGHT CO.
By E. G. STOREY, Treasurer. By F. P. ADDICKS, Treasurer.

The Jamaica Plain Gas Light Co. will join the prices above named, and will reduce its price for illuminating gas from $1 25 to $1 per thousand cubic feet, whenever the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Co. is prepared to supply the gas for which the company has already contracted.

JAMAICA PLAIN GAS LIGHT CO., By E. N. FOSS, Treasurer.

V. 67, p. 369.

Newark Gas.—New Negotiations.—The United Gas Improvement Co. is negotiating for the purchase of this company and it is thought will acquire and consolidate it with the other gas companies of Essex County. The new company, it is suggested, may be called the Consolidated Gas Co. of Newark and be capitalized for $15,000,000, half in bonds and half in stock.—V. 67, p. 739.

North Hudson Light, Heat & Power Co.—Incorporated.—This company, with $3,000,000 of capital stock (par $100), was recently incorporated in New Jersey as successor of the Hudson Electric Light Co. The incorporators are: Albert B. Carlton of Elizabeth, Frank M. Stillman of Rahway, Samuel Hathaway and George W. Waite of Jersey City; David Young and George W. Roe of Newark and Arthur K. Bonta of Hoboken. Vice-President David Young of the North Jersey Street Railway Co. is one of the incorporators. The company, it is stated, will continue to supply the North Jersey Street Railway Co. and some of the lines of the North Hudson County Ry. Co. with power. The company's principal office is at Bloomfield Street, near Fourteenth Street, Jersey City.—V. 67, p. 320.

Pacific Coast Co.—New Officers.—The following officers, etc., were elected yesterday:

Chairman of the board, Henry W. Cannon; President, J. D. Farrell; Treasurer, John Keane; Secretary, H. H. Durand. Executive Committee: Henry W.

Cannon, E. H. Harriman, Daniel S. Lamont, T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr., and Grant B. Schley.

President Farrell, lately a resident of Spokane, was formerly General Superintendent of the Western Division of the Great Northern Ry. His headquarters will be at Seattle.—V. 67, p. 789.

Port Norfolk Electric Ry.—Receiver Appointed.—In the United States District Court at Norfolk, on Oct. 27, Judge Edmund Waddill, upon application of M. E. Decker of New Jersey and the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. of Baltimore, the latter mortgage trustee, appointed B. Watkins Leigh as receiver. The company is alleged to be insolvent.

Pullman's Palace Car.—Decision.—The decision rendered last week by the Supreme Court of Illinois reverses the order entered by the Circuit Court of Cook County four years ago and remands the cause with directions to proceed further in conformity with the opinion. The property involved represents several millions, but it is not essential to the conduct of the company's affairs, and if it cannot be owned directly or through a proprietary company, it will be otherwise disposed of, there having been at no time any wish by the company to act without due authority of law. The decision does not affect the real estate embracing the company's shops at Pullman or its office building at Chicago. On the other hand it does deny the right of the company to purchase the real estate upon which the town or city of Pullman is built, or to construct the buildings in said town or city, or to engage in the business of renting dwellings, storerooms, market places, etc. It holds also that the company cannot own stock in the Pullman Iron & Steel Co., but that it may sell liquors to the passengers on its cars. The company may properly own 25 acres of land near the Belt Line railroad for the reception of its cars, and may properly furnish power to the Allen Paper Car Wheel Co. As to the ownership of the town of Pullman the decision says:

"Our interpretation of the law, as applied to facts appearing from the averment of the pleas, is that the appellee corporation, at and before the time of the filing of the information, was exercising power and performing acts not authorized either by the express grant of the charter or any implication of law, and further, that by some of such unauthorized acts the corporation assumes and exercises powers and functions which the general law of the State contemplates shall be possessed and exercised only by municipal authorities of cities or towns and the public school authorities, and that other of its unauthorized acts tend to restrain competition in various branches of trade, to remove real estate from the operation of our statute of descent, and place the title thereto in a corporation having perpetual succession and unending existence, and thereby withdraw it from the channel of trade and commerce; to create monopolies in the business of selling the necessaries and comforts of life, and that its acts and doings are opposed to good public policy. We do not think the demand that usurpations so clearly antagonistic to good public policy shall be restrained can be defeated by any imputations of laches, or upon the ground that acquiescence is to be inferred from the failure to invoke the aid of courts at an early day."—V. 67, p. 902.

Richmond Nicholasville Irvine & Beattyville RR.—To Be Re-Sold.—As a result of the protest of the lien holders, Judge Barr at Louisville on Oct. 26 refused to confirm the sale made on Oct. 6 to the syndicate of London capitalists represented by Col. Bennett H. Young, and ordered the property to be re-sold. Col. Young declined to receive back the money already paid, amounting to $58,828, and was given ten days by the Court to prepare and file a bill of exceptions. The Court also directed John Stites, trustee, who represents a syndicate claiming to be ready to purchase the road for $210,000, to deposit with the Court $100,000 guarantee for the lowest bid that will be received. Col. Young, it is understood, is making preparations to appeal the case first to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.—V. 67, p. 737.

St. Louis Peoria & Northern Ry.—New President.—At a meeting of the directors this week in St. Louis, John N. Faithorn was elected President. Mr. Faithorn was formerly Chairman of the Southwestern Railway and Steamship Association of St. Louis, and has since been Vice President and General Manager of several transportation companies having their headquarters in Chicago.

The New Capitalization.—The new capitalization of the St. Louis Peoria & Northern is $16,250,000 of stock and an authorized issue of 4 per cent bonds for the same amount. The old first mortgage bonds and the Mt. Olive mortgage bonds have been, or are about to be, canceled.

Construction.—The Laclede Construction Co. of St. Louis has been organized with a merely nominal capital to build and equip the extensions. A syndicate agrees to purchase from the Construction Company the bonds, bearing interest from July 1, 1899, and shares of the capital stock for the sum of $13,000,000, to be paid by the subscribers to the Central Trust Co. for account of the Construction Company, in such instalments and at such times as may be required by the Construction Company, provided that not more than 20 per cent of any subscription shall be called in any one month.

Chicago Terminals.—An official statement as to the terms on which the Chicago terminals will be leased will be found under the heading "Chicago Terminal Transfer RR."—V. 67, p. 902.

Southern Pacific Ry. of California.—Bonds Purchased.—Speyer & Co. have bought $10,000,000 of first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, due 1937, principal and interest unconditionally guaranteed by the Southern Pacific Company. These bonds are part of about $20,000,000 which have been issued during the last few years by the company in exchange for underlying bonds and for new construction. The bonds will probably be offered shortly for public subscription here and in London, Frankfort, Berlin and Amsterdam, thus securing an international market.

Standard Distilling & Distributing Co.—On Unlisted—Official Statement.—The company's $8,000,000 preferred stock and $16,000,000 common stock was admitted to quotation in the unlisted department of the New York Stock Exchange on Nov. 1, 1898. The official statement to the Exchange follows:

Taxation of Foreign Corporations.—New York Law Upheld.—The United States Supreme Court on Monday upheld the constitutionality of the New York law taxing foreign corporations upon the amount of their capital employed within the State. Judge Shiras, in announcing the decision, said that the law was settled that a State might impose such conditions for permitting a foreign corporation to do business within its limits, as it might judge expedient, and that it might make the grant dependent upon the payment of a specific license tax, or a sum proportioned to the amount of its capital used within the State. Judges Harlan and Brown dissented.

Toledo St. Louis & Kansas City Ry.—$150,000 Receivers' Certificates Paid.—Receiver Pierce has taken up $150,000 certificates, reducing the amount outstanding to $280,000.—V. 67, p. 843.

Tradesmen's National Bank of New York.—Receiver.—Comptroller Dawes yesterday appointed Bank Examiner Kimball to be receiver of the Tradesmen's National Bank. This action, it is explained, was rendered necessary by the recent decision of Judge Lacombe that an execution may be levied against the assets of a national bank in the hands of the Comptroller at any time prior to his appointment of a receiver. The Comptroller has appealed from Judge Lacombe's decision, as it has long been believed that the assets of a bank, when under the protection of the Comptroller, were safe from attachment. The receivership, it is stated, will not be allowed to interfere with the efforts of the stockholders' committee to put the banks into voluntary liquidation, and if the Comptroller shall be satisfied later that all the interests at stake will be properly protected by such liquidation he will discharge the receivers and permit it to proceed.—V. 67, p. 802.

Union Pacific Denver & Gulf Ry.—Colorado & Southern Ry.—Plan Operative.—The plan of reorganization has been formally declared operative. The assets exceed 99 per cent of the consolidated mortgage bonds, 90 per cent of the first mortgage bonds of the Denver Texas & Gulf RR Co. and of the Denver Texas & Fort Worth RR. Co. and 87½ per cent of the stock. The name of the new company, it is said, will be "The Colorado & Southern Ry. Co.—V. 67, p. 905."

Union Pacific Railway.—Branch Lines Taken Over.—On Tuesday the company obtained legal possession of the 772 miles of road which, prior to the foreclosure sale of those properties, was owned by the Omaha & Republican Valley Ry., the Kearney & Black Hills Ry. and the Union Pacific Lincoln & Colorado Ry. These, with the properties mentioned in the recent annual report, have been virtually owned by the company ever since the reorganization, but have been operated separately by receivers. The Junction City & Fort Kearney Railway, 88 miles long, has not yet been turned over to the Union Pacific.—V. 67, p. 905.

Western New York & Pennsylvania.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported:

3 mos. end. Sept. 30.	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes, etc.	Balance,
1898	$846,897	$242,038	$32,858	$230,460	$44,436

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 4, 1898.

The volume of merchandise which has changed hands during the week in most lines of trade has been of only moderate proportions. There has been nevertheless a general feeling of confidence in the business situation, and following the end of the present political campaign a general revival of business activity is anticipated. The political situation in Europe has continued to receive more or less attention as a factor in speculative circles. The export business in breadstuffs, while still of fair proportions, has shown a further shrinkage from the abnormal demand latterly experienced. Progress towards a settlement of negotiations between the United States and the Spanish Peace Commissioners has been slow.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery has continued spiritless. There have been no developments during the week to attract buying for investment account, with the result that prices have continued to gradually sag. The movement of the crop has been unusually large; in fact, the receipts for the week have been exceptionally heavy, being about 27,000 bales in excess of the previous maximum total, which was 456,000 bales, the receipts for the week ended Nov. 1, 1894. Offerings of cotton from the South have been on a liberal scale, particularly from Texas, and at low prices. The cotton offered has been of the grades middling and below, as exporters have been free buyers of the better grades, and at relatively high values. Increased crop estimates, together with generally favorable climatic conditions at the South for the late crop, have also had their influence against an improvement in values. Foreign advices have been easier, and there has been some selling for foreign account, principally for the Continent. To-day there was a quiet market and prices declined a few points, under limited offerings, prompted by the continued large movement of the crop. The close showed prices 4@5 points lower for the day. Cotton on the spot has been dull and prices declined 1-16c. on Monday. To-day the market was dull and easy, closing at 5 5-16c. for middling uplands.

The rates on and off middling, as established Sept. 15, 1893, by the Revision Committee, at which grades other than middling may be delivered on contract, are as follows.

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

Egyptian Crop.—Mail advices to Mr. Fr. Jac Andres, of Boston, dated Alexandria, Oct. 15, are to the effect that Careful inspections of the plantations in the interior confirm damage by drought and fogs to the extent of 15 per cent. This year's crop will not exceed 5½ million cantars, against 6½ last year. Our real estimates are 6 million. Receipts are still small and all that is put on the market is taken up at high prices. The market continue strong, with no declining tendency. We think that at the end of this month receipts will increase and prices may temporarily decline slightly for lower grades.

Exports of Cotton Goods from Great Britain.—Below we give the exports of cotton yarn, goods, &c., from Great Britain for the month of September and since October 1 in 1897-98 and 1896-97, as compiled by us from the British Board of Trade returns. It will be noticed that we have reduced the movement all to pounds.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 4, 1898.

Only a very moderate volume of business has been transacted in the local market for wheat flour. The home trade has continued a small buyer, due to the fact that its wants are largely supplied for the present. The export demand has been held in check, owing to high ocean freight rates ruling and the scarcity of ocean freight room. During the latter part of the week, however, a moderate amount of flour was taken for export, principally by the Continent. Advices from the Northwestern mills reported fair sales, part for export. Rye flour has been in moderate demand and firm. Buckwheat flour has been quiet but steady. Corn meal has had only a limited sale but prices have been unchanged and steady.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has been moderately active, but the tone has been somewhat unsettled. Immediately following our last report there was a fractional decline in prices, in response to weaker foreign advices and under a full movement of the crop and realizing sales by longs. During early 'Change on Monday there was a further decline in prices, reflecting weaker foreign advices and continued liquidations by longs. Subsequently, however, a renewal of the talk of unsettled political relations existing between England and France turned the market stronger, and the decline in the spot market was more than recovered. Tuesday the market opened at a sharp advance, in response to stronger foreign advices. During the day, however, the advance was lost under moderate selling, prompted by reports of a large increase in the supply of wheat in sight. Wednesday there was an easier market early, but later reports of an active export demand advanced prices. Thursday there was a quiet market, and prices weakened slightly under the continued free movement of the crop. Business in the spot market has been fairly active, as exporters have continued buyers, although their purchases have not been on as extensive a scale as noted latterly. Wednesday was the only day of the week when a large export business was transacted, the sales for this day amounting to about 1,200,000 bushels. For the remainder of the week the export sales reported averaged about 500,000 bushels daily. To-day the market was easier in response to weaker foreign advices and under large receipts. Business in the spot market was active. Sales for export here and at outports were 504,000 bushels, and it was also stated that 415,000 bushels were sold at Chicago for export.

Indian corn futures have been quiet and no changes of an important nature have occurred in values, the tone of the market holding steady. Early in the week an active export demand offset easier foreign advices and favorable weather at the West for the crop. Subsequently there were predictions of an increased movement of the crop, but in the face of this was good buying, largely by shorts to cover contracts, and values held quite steady. Business in the spot market has been fairly active. Exporters have continued fairly good buyers and the local demand has been moderate. To-day the market was easier in sympathy with the decline in wheat and under an increased crop movement and continued favorable weather. The spot market was only moderately active. The sales for export here and at outports were 350,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery in the local market have continued at a standstill. At the West there has been only a limited amount of activity to the trading, but the tone of the market has held steady, in sympathy with corn. Some buying by shorts to cover contracts also has had a tendency to give tone to the situation. Exporters have been only limited buyers in the spot market, but the home trade has been a fair buyer. To-day the market was easier, in sympathy with the decline in other grains. The export business was dull.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 4, 1898

The export demand for heavy brown cottons has been well in evidence again this week, and is still the best feature in the cotton-goods situation. Business on home account has shown little variation from previous conditions in either cotton or woolen goods. Heavy brown cottons are supported by the export business, and print cloths by the Fall River agreement, but outside of these the tendency of the market is easy under the influence of the continued decline in the price of raw material. A drop in raw wool during the week is also an unfavorable factor so far as goods already manufactured are concerned. Outside of the wholesale markets the course of business is fairly encouraging; reports from the West particularly show that with more seasonable weather the consumptive demand has expanded considerably. With fall trade so nearly over at first hand, spring business is more fully occupying attention and encouragement is drawn from the fact that although the demand for cotton specialties can hardly be called free, it has been broad enough to cover a considerable aggregate business. Reports on collections are generally satisfactory, few complaints on the score or slow payments being heard.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The demand for men's-wear light-weight woolens and worsteds has again been on a moderate scale. Buyers are impressed by the declining tendency in raw material and are holding off in expectation of a weaker market for goods. The tone of the market in most lines of both staple and fancy woolens is easy, but prices are not quotably lower. Worsteds are in somewhat better position than woolens, as the demand runs more upon them. Reorders for heavy goods are fair for the time of year and prices generally steady. Satinets are dull and doeskin jeans in limited request. Overcoatings rule quiet and without special feature. Cloakings are inactive throughout, buyers evidently at a loss as to the trend of fashion in these lines. Business in flannels has been light, and moderate in blankets at unchanged prices.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 3 were 1,293 packages, valued at $74,753, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $9,426,410 in 1898, against $8,860,861 in 1897.

The market for standard and 3-yard brown sheetings and drills is firm and occasionally ⅛c. dearer under continued demand for export. In 4-yard goods and lighter business has been moderate, and tone of market easy. Brown Osnaburgs quiet and easy. Ducks in moderate request at previous prices. There is no improvement in the demand for bleached cottons, buyers being under the impression that lower prices are probable, keeping their orders well within bounds. Sales of wide sheetings limited. Cotton flannels and blankets steady, with moderate demand. Denims are steady on a low price level, with more business doing. Plaids in moderate request and leading makes steady. Other coarse, colored cottons quiet and easy to buy. Kid-finished cambrics dull and unchanged. Fancy prints irregular; demand moderate. Business in indigo blues, mournings and other regular prints of average dimensions at previous prices. Fine specialties for spring in steady demand. Fine ginghams well sold up. Staple ginghams steady. Print cloths have ruled dull all week, but prices steadily adhered to.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—The seasonable demand is of a purely piecing out character, and with no special feature. Orders for spring are indifferent in all lines, and next season's business continues backward.

MUNICIPAL BOND SALES IN OCTOBER.

The total of the municipal bond sales for October was, according to our records, smaller than that for the same month of previous years, with the exception of 1896 when the market was greatly disturbed over the Presidential campaign. The aggregate of the disposals for the month reaches but $4,809,307, as compared with $6,173,665 for the preceding months The aggregates for October of the last four years have been as follows: $6,872,293 in 1897, $4,688,463 in 1896, $6,697,012 in 1895 and $8,685,435 in 1894.

The number of municipalities issuing bonds in October was 111 (emitting 125 separate issues), as against 147 (emitting 172 issues) in September. In October 1897 there were 122 municipalities and 145 separate issues. That the totals should be small is not at all surprising, considering that in the issue of new bonds in most instances both legislative and elective authority must first be obtained. As the legislatures of the various States meet but once in two years in a majority of the States, and then generally early in the odd years, it is obvious that the authority obtained in 1897 has by this time in many cases been exhausted. The elections next week and the coming legislative sessions will provide authority for further issues. For instance, we have on our records over eighty places which will on November 8 vote for or against the issuance of bonds, amounting to over 19¼ millions of dollars. The demand for bonds continues strong and healthy and the high prices obtained during previous months still prevail. A few examples at this time may be of interest. Troy, N. Y., during the month sold an issue of building bonds on a 3·09 per cent basis; Worcester, Mass., sewer bonds on a 3·116 per cent basis; Fall River, Mass, water bonds on a 3·143 per cent basis; Elmira, N. Y.. funding bonds on a 3·15 per cent basis, and Cleveland Ohio, river bonds on a 3·185 per cent basis.

The principal sales of the month were as follows: Norfolk, Va., $599,000 4 per cent 30-year bonds awarded to Mottu, de Witt & Co., Norfolk, at 101·333; Worcester, Mass., $300,000 4 per cent 30-year sewer bonds, awarded to Blake Bros. & Co., Boston, at 117·17; Cleveland, Ohio, $250,000 4 per cent 30-year river and harbor bonds, awarded to W. J. Hayes & Sons, Cleveland, at 115·676, and $250,000 5 per cent public library bonds, awarded to Denison, Prior & Co., Cleveland, at 118·10. These constitute all the sales of $250,000 or over.

In the following table we give the prices which were paid for October loans to the amount of $3,818,147 issued by 84 municipalities. The aggregate of sales for which no price has been reported is $991,160, and the total bond sales for the month $4,809,307. In the case of each loan reference is made to the page of the CHRONICLE where a full account of the sale is given.

Bayler County, Texas.—Bonds Legal.—On October 23, 1898, Judge Harris, in the District Court, handed down a decision affirming the validity of the court-house bonds issued by this county. The suit was brought by the City National Bank of Paducah for unpaid interest. The county failed to make a tax levy to provide for a sinking fund and for the payment of interest, as required by law. This violation of the statutes, it was claimed, made the bonds illegal. Judge Harris in his decision declared that the State Supreme Court has held in similar cases that such curable irregularities did not affect the validity of the bonds.

Cook County, Minn.—Bond Issue Illegal. The Supreme Court has handed down a decision declaring illegal the $8,000 bonds issued last March for building roads and bridges. The Legislature in 1895 passed a law authorizing county bonds to the amount of 2% of the valuation for roads and bridges and two weeks later passed another law authorizing bonds for the same purposes to the extent of 1% of the valuation. On June 16, 1898, Judge Ensign, declared that the 1% law must be construed to add 1% to the amount previously allowed, making the total amount allowed for the purposes mentioned 3%. This decision has now been reversed by Justice Collins, who declares that the 1% law repealed the earlier statute, thus limiting the amount of bonds that may be issued to 1% of the valuation, while the $8,000 issue, if made, would bring the aggregate of bonds for the purposes referred to to above the limit.

Duluth, Minn.—City Enjoined from Issuing Bonds.—On October 31, 1898, the Supreme Court decided that the city could not issue any more bonds for water-works purposes. The suit was one brought by Harry T. Moore. In 1895 the city voted to issue $1,800,000 water bonds and $1,100,000 was borrowed under this authority. In 1897 the city again voted water bonds, this time for $1,250,000, for the purchase of the old plant. The city recently proposed to issue $300,000 of the remaining $700,000 authorized in 1895, but the decision of the Court now rendered prevents further issuance of bonds. The Court holds that the elective authority conferred at the latter election supersedes that of the former.

Georgia.—Legislature Convenes.—On October 26, 1898, the Legislature convened in regular session.

Healdsburg, Cal.—Temporary Injunction.—The Healdsburg Electric Lighting Co. has commenced suit in the Superior Court to restrain the city from delivering the $80,000 5% gold water-works and electric-light plant bonds sold last August. Judge Burnett has granted a temporary injunction.

Iowa.—Warrant Decision.—On October 28, 1898, the Supreme Court held that municipal warrants can be paid only in the year in which they are drawn, and that the holders of warrants issued prior to the year of their presentation for payment, have no claim upon the revenues of that year, at least not until after the current debts are paid. The Court said that if these warrants are valid, they can be put in judgment and be collected by proper process.

Kent, Ohio.—Litigation.—A suit recently heard by Judge Hammond in the United States Circuit Court, resulted in favor of Edward Dana, who received $2,464 87 interest on unpaid coupons attached to refunding bonds of this village.

Mercer County, Ky.—Bonds Valid.—Chief Justice Lewis of the Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision of the Mercer Circuit Court, which declared valid the $145,000 4% refunding bonds sold last September. The suit was brought by H. C. Smith to enjoin the delivery of the bonds.

New Jersey.—City, Town and County Debts.—The State Bureau of Labor and Statistics has just compiled figures relative to the city, town and county debts of New Jersey, which make some interesting comparisons. The report states that the total funded debt of all cities, towns and counties of the State is now $69,370,094, against $50,976,324 in 1890, and $42,455,670 in 1880. In addition to the funded debt many municipalities have outstanding a floating indebtedness created for immediate needs or preliminary to the issue of bonds. The amount varies, and except in the large cities and counties it is not heavy. The total funded and floating debts in the years mentioned are given below:

Funded debt	$69,370,094	$50,976,324	$42,455,670
Floating debt	5,908,301	3,237,833	5,094,435
Total	$75,278,395	$54,214,157	$47,550,105

In the following table the total county debts and city and town debt is given separately; also the total amount held in sinking fund, with the percentage of each class to the total:

	1898.	P. C.	1890.	P. C.	1880.	P. C.
County debt	$11,955,373	15·9	$5,514,973	10·2	$6,591,880	13·9
City and town	63,323,020	84·1	48,695,181	89·8	40,958,225	86·1
Total	$75,278,395	100·0	$54,214,157	100·0	$47,550,105	100·0
Sinking fund	8,686,493	11·5	6,951,546	12·8	5,303,002	11·1
	$66,591,902	88·5	$47,262,611	87·2	$42,247,103	88·9

The total debt, less sinking fund, has varied but a trifle for the years given, but has varied considerably in the different counties. In the following table is given for each county the total city, town and county debt, funded and floating, less the amount held in the sinking fund:

* Decrease.

We hope to give the budget in greater detail at a future date.

Paducah, Ky.—Possible Bond Litigation.—As stated in the CHRONICLE of March 19, 1898, the City Council agreed to sell Roberts & Co. of New York $100,000 of refunding St. Louis & Paducah Railroad bonds on Dec. 1. The city attorney recently decided that the original bonds, now held in St. Louis, are illegal and cannot be refunded, but the Common Council has not yet refused to comply with the contract. According to local reports, W. E. Coffin of the New York firm, has agreed to compromise for $1,500, but the city has refused and a lawsuit will be the result.

Portland, Ore.—New City Charter.—A feature of the new city charter granted at the recent special session of the State Legislature is that section which provides that no warrants can be drawn on any fund unless there is money in that fund to pay them. This section is causing some anxiety among the city officials at present, as the funds contain but little money, and the question of providing payment for the city employes has become quite a problem.

Tacoma, Wash.—Warrant Litigation.—On October 7, 1898, an important point in the city's warrant suits, according to the Seattle "Post," was gained by the city, when the case as a whole came up for hearing in the city's demurrer to the complaint. The demurrer was sustained by Judge Carroll. The decision affects the five suits against the city, embracing warrants amounting to nearly one million dollars, illegally issued by ex-Treasurer Biggs. The city argued that the complaint did not allege that these warrants had ever been presented to the City Treasurer for payment, and payment refused; that this is required under the law, and that until the complaint is amended to show this the plaintiffs have no action against the city under their original complaint. The plaintiffs, on the other hand, contended that inasmuch as the city had denied the validity of the warrants, they are not compelled to show they had presented their warrants for payment and were refused such payment. The decision is directly against the plaintiffs, and with it is an order that they amend complaint as prayed for in the demurrer.

Principal will mature one note yearly on February 9 from 1900 to 1903, inclusive. Notes are issued pursuant with Section 62, Title 7, Chapter 385 of the Laws of 1862, as amended by Chapter 294, Laws of 1890, and Chapter 31, Laws of 1895.

Shreveport, La.—Bond Election.—An election will be held on November 30, 1898, to vote on the question of issuing $40,000 street improvement bonds.

Swampscott (Town), Mass.—Bonds Voted and Offered.—At a special town meeting held October 24, 1898, it was voted to issue $20,000 3½% gold water bonds. Interest will be payable February 1 and August 1 at the Manufacturers' National Bank, Boston, and the principal will mature August 1, 1928. The Town Clerk writes us that "bids will be received now," but that he does not know the time of opening.

Sweetwater, Texas.—Bonds Approved and Registered.—The Attorney-General has approved and the State Comptroller has registered an issue of $10,000 6% water-works bonds of this city.

Tekamah, Neb.—Bond Offering.—Proposals will be received until December 1, 1898, at the office of A. M. Anderson, City Clerk, for $2,000 5% 10-20-year (optional) water-extension bonds. Securities were authorized by a vote of 67 to 43 at the election held October 11, 1898.

Texas.—Proposed Purchase of Bonds by State.—Our correspondent in Austin, Texas, writes us that it is very possible that the next Legislature, which meets in January, will provide for the purchase of all county bonds issued in Texas for an investment of the State Permanent School Fund, as the matter is advocated by the dominant political party. This will remove from the field a favorite class of bonds with some bond houses, and bonds which recent decisions of the courts have made it practically impossible for a county, even if so inclined, to repudiate.

Topeka, Kan.—Bonds Proposed.—We are advised that nothing will be done for three or four months looking toward the issuance of $16,000 refunding bonds.

Valparaiso, Ind.—Bond Award Postponed.—We are advised that the $51,000 4% refunding bonds were not awarded on October 28, 1898, the date on which bids were received, but that action has been postponed for two weeks.

Wamego, Kan.—Bond Election.—An election will be held this month for the purpose of submitting to the people the question of issuing $25,000 bonds for a water-works system.

Wayne County, Neb.—Bond Election.—At the November election (November 8, 1898,) the question of issuing $25,000 5% court-house bonds will be voted upon. These bonds, if authorized, will be in denomination of $500, dated December, 1, 1898. Interest will be payable June 1 and December 1, and the principal will mature $2,500 yearly on December 1 from 1904 to 1913 inclusive.

Wellston, Ohio.—Bond Offering.—Proposals will be received until 12 M. November 28, 1898, by T. P. Wangler, City Clerk, for $7,480 60 5% street-improvement bonds. Securities are issued pursuant with sections 2704 and 2705, Revised Statutes of Ohio. Ten bonds will be in denomination of $412 26 and ten of $336 80 each, dated December 1, 1898. Interest will be payable annually and the principal will ma-

The occurrence of election day in the week of the current year accounts for the decrease in clearings.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

We present below our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, November 5, and the results for the corresponding week in 1897, 1896 and 1895 are also given. In comparison with the preceding week, there is an increase in the aggregate exchanges of over one hundred and seventy million dollars, and at New York alone the gain is seventy-nine millions. Contrasted with the week of 1897 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 16·2 per cent. Compared with the week of 1896 the current returns record a gain of 41·3 per cent, and the excess over 1895 is 35·9 per cent. Outside of New York the increase over 1897 is 11·2 per cent. The excess over 1896 reaches 37·0 per cent, and making comparison with 1895 the gain is seen to be 21·7 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The remarkable proportions of the victory sound money has gained at the elections this week will no doubt serve to relieve the country of all apprehension with reference to currency affairs. The Republican Party stood everywhere unequivocally for a gold standard, and the result is it has secured by a large majority the control of both branches of the legislative department of the Government; almost every State outside of the Southern section has elected a legislature in accord with the Republican Party's platform, so that a United States gold-money Senator will be returned in almost every Northern State where a vacancy occurs the coming fourth of March.

The last statement made above indicates a more fruitful result, and therefore a more gratifying condition of Congressional affairs, than some realize. It has been the Senate at Washington that has given to the Silver Party all the dignity and all the vital force it has ever possessed. Indeed that body has been the seat of the fermentation that has produced and disseminated the error which has infected so large a portion of our population. Moreover, the chief agency within the Senate which has done the most to favor this growth and has hitherto prevented the adoption of a wise financial system has been not the representatives from the silver States or the Southern States, but the coterie of Northern Senators misrepresenting Northern States; these have always stood ready to aid in defeating sound and wholesome legislation and to encourage by their votes and advice the mischief-making devices with which Senators have met and obstructed every currency reform measure. One after another during the last four years the people have been withdrawing from Senatorial life that little band, and this fall they have laid to rest the most of its few remaining members. New York and New Jersey have representatives of that class factiously hindering reform legislation; the elections just held have decreed that these men will be replaced the fourth of March by representatives of a different cast —men not afraid of their convictions. There is, too, a hope indulged that Pennsylvania has elected a legislature likely to adopt a similar course; if it does, there will still be left one representative of the old coterie from a New England State, who will be conspicuous for his lack of companionship. Perhaps the logic of events may convert him.

But the removal of these mischief makers is not the only gain the country will derive from having so completely secured possession of both houses of Congress in the interest of sound money. To have obtained a very considerable majority in the Senate (probably 20) means more than a much larger proportion of the House. The Senate is a body the political character of which cannot be so easily or so quickly changed. Starting the fourth of March in the form now anticipated, the presumption is that a majority for sound money will be a continuing condition there, not for two years only, but for several times two years if need be; that is, until the silver question is dismissed wholly from the policies of both parties this most important branch of our legislative machinery will stand as a protection against any attempt towards unsound currency legislation. We have, therefore, in the interest of stability not only a President with a veto power but a Senate with legislative power. Whatever therefore might be the result of the elections two years hence, it is not within the range of possible events that the political character of the Senate should be changed, even though the politics of the President should be. This latter thought however we suggest only because it may help assure the more timid. We are not permitted to doubt that soon after the fourth of March the country will have secured legislation settling these currency questions and putting them out of politics. Laws should be at once and we believe will be passed definitely stating that "coin" in our Government bonds means gold; also making gold the standard of our currency and banks the issuers. After those matters have been accomplished no party will ever be found so foolhardy as to raise the silver question again.

Not much light was thrown upon the intricacies of the European situation by Lord Salisbury in his speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet Wednesday night. The account the cable gives of his address makes one feel as if the Prime Minister knew he had an anxious audience, and that he had to say something about Great Britain's war preparations, about the Fashoda settlement, and about Europe or China, and that he contrived to speak of them all without saying anything in particular. This vagueness might indicate great tension and gravity in the situation or it might only mean that there is sufficient delicacy and incompleteness connected with the negotiations to make it desirable for him not to take the public just now into the confidence of the Government. The Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council of Ministers, who was a guest at the Mayoral banquet at Eastbourne the same evening, seems to have been more frank. Of course he has not the same responsibilities to restrain his speech. He is reported to have said that "there is no reason to desist from the work of strengthening our naval forces and general defenses since Fashoda is only an incident in a much larger question." We think we have a hint from Lord Salisbury as to what "that much larger question" is. In speaking of Great Britain's position in Egypt, and after denying the suggestion that the Government was about to declare a protectorate over that country, he added, "I do not venture to prophesy, if we are forced by others into a position we do not now occupy, what may occur." In other words, if Europe interferes and questions Great Britain's position in Egypt, the inference we draw from the foregoing is that the Government will declare a protectorate and support its declaration by force if need be.

These speeches lead to the belief that war in Europe is not imminent. Our London correspondent explains to-day the situation in that particular. He explains likewise the sharp fall in consols and British railway stocks the closing week of last month and helps one to understand what has transpired since then. The Fashoda incident was only in small part the inciting cause of the disturbance at the European monetary centers in October, the principal cause being the financial embarrassment at Berlin. The important event this week connected with the same state of facts has been an advance in the rate of discount by the Imperial Bank of Germany to 5½ per cent from 5 per cent, to which it was advanced October 10. This further rise is important because it indicates continued tension at Berlin which, while it prevails, must necessarily more or less influence the discount markets at other European centres. The disturbance at Berlin has been almost wholly due to over speculation, but also in part to a demand for moving the German crops. When the Bank rate was raised October 10 the open market failed promptly to respond because unofficial banks at Berlin contributed to keep the market easy, so as to prevent a sudden collapse of the speculation, which would naturally have had an injurious effect upon other interests. Gradually the open market rate followed the Bank rate and last week the unofficial discount rate was 4½@4⅝ per cent. Concurrently with the rise this week in the Bank rate to 5½ per cent there was an advance on Wednesday in the unofficial rate at Berlin to 4¾ per cent and at Frankfort to 5¼ per cent. The German banks were last month reported to be borrowing large amounts of gold from Paris bankers. Our London correspondent under date of October 15 stated that they had applied to Vienna and St. Petersburg for assistance so as to avoid making requisitions upon London. It is not believed here that there will be any necessity, at least at present, for a further rise in the Bank of England rate. The open market rate at London is close to the Bank rate and the Bank seems to have full control of the market. There is no reason for the assumption that any present danger exists of a serious crisis in Berlin; that is assuming of course that peace is not disturbed, which is the obvious outlook to-day.

That our Stock Exchange market, with so many doubtful questions removed, should take a start upward on Wednesday, and that the movement should continue since that date was to be expected. There is no issue so dead as free silver now; not enough substance is left in it to disturb the rest of even the lightest sleeper. Moreover there is no immediate prospect of war in Europe; indeed, more than that, war is improbable, for no one wants war, and no government, except Great Britain and perhaps Germany, is prepared for war. To expect, under these circumstances, that the nations of Europe are about to bestir themselves and for the fun of the thing get a casus belli out of the prosperity of Egypt under British rule, is to assume that they are thirsting for a fight. Then there is the Dreyfus case, which only a short time since even threatened the Government of France and disturbed all Europe and America as well—what has become of it? The truth is, the new French Cabinet has thus far displayed marvelous poise and judgment. When it assumed power it was beset with difficulties; it had a highly sensitive and already excited Parisian populace to deal with, the Fashoda embroilment to get out of, the military party to soothe, and the civil and judicial power to uphold. Who can say it has not done it all with dignity and credit to itself and to the nation? With, then, our domestic sources of financial irritation removed, and European entanglements—for the time at least—arranged, it seems to us quite reasonable that our Stock Exchange should show strength, and that good properties should sell for what they are worth.

To the other favorable conditions must be added very good crops as the result of the present year's harvests. The thought is suggested by the appearance Thursday afternoon of the customary monthly report of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, giving more definite indications as to the yield of the leading crops than could be obtained from the previous reports. The Bureau has not yet, it should be understood, put out any statements purporting to show the precise aggregate of any of the crops; that will not be done until the close of the year, when the final report is made. But the Department furnishes figures of the yield per acre in the various States, and applying those to the previous estimates of acreage it ought to be possible to indicate pretty closely what the results are likely to be in the final report. The crop with reference to which most interest is felt is the corn crop, not only because it is the largest of all our productions, but because private advices as to the aggregate yield have been somewhat conflicting.

The Bureau's figures confirm current opinion as to the grade of the crop being inferior to that of last year, but are more favorable than popular estimates as to the size of the crop. The average per cent of quality is reported at 82·7 for 1898 against 86·3 for 1897. But according to our computations based on the data furnished by the Bureau the aggregate yield will be somewhat heavier than that for 1897, the figures working out 1,926 million bushels for 1898 against 1,902 million bushels for 1897. As concerns the separate States there is a marked falling off from the previous year in the case only of Nebraska, where against a yield of 241 million bushels for 1897 the indications for 1898 point to a total of but 158 million bushels. The differences in the other States are all very much smaller, though this in several instances follows from the fact that the yield had already undergone some contraction in the previous season. We give comparisons for five years for the leading States on another page (page 1018), and therefore extended reference here to the results is not necessary. We may say, however, that in Kansas and Missouri the yield is very close to that of last year—in the first 157 million bushels against 162 million and in the second 154 million against 171 million—while in Iowa there is an increase, with a crop of 233 million bushels against 220 million. In the Middle West Illinois has produced 199 million against 232 million, but Indiana 129 million against 109 million, and Ohio 100 million against 92 million. The Southern States generally have enlarged crops, and Texas comes close up to its best previous record with a product of 105 million bushels, against 72 million in 1897 and but 32 million bushels in 1896.

With the size of the corn crop thus approximately known it will be interesting to make a summary of all the leading grain crops. Accordingly we furnish the following statement covering the last five years. It shows in a graphic way the agricultural situation in this period as far as the relative and absolute outturn of the harvest is concerned.

[1] Estimated for 1898 on acreage and condition percentages.

Thus the aggregate product of corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye for 1898 stands at 3,295 million bushels, against 3,225 million bushels for 1897, 3,512 million bushels for 1896, 3,556 million bushels for 1895 and 2,423 million bushels for 1894, the latter a year of great shortage. We hence see that while the present has not been a season of such exceptional and extreme abundance as 1896 or 1895, yet it has yielded full average crops, the aggregate out-turn as it happens, differing but slightly from that of last season. It is proper to say with reference to the wheat yield that the Bureau has not yet completed the special investigation into the subject which it has undertaken and the figures we use are a repetition of those we gave on a former occasion and which were based on the Department's report of the condition in September; judging from current estimates of the size of the crop, the final report will show a larger crop than that indicated in the above summary.

An important increase in the output of iron occurred during the past month. The usual monthly compilation of the "Iron Age" shows that on the 1st of November the gross capacity per week of the furnaces in blast was 228,935 tons, against only 215,635 tons per week on October 1. This is an augmentation, it will be observed, at the rate of about 700,000 tons per year. The production has been expanding month by month since the 1st of August, but the rate of growth in the preceding months was much smaller than that recorded for October. As against the weekly product now of 228,935 tons, the amount August 1 was 206,777 tons, and the difference between the two amounts reflects an addition to the output at the rate of 1¼ million tons per year. Still, even after this expansion the production is not as large as it was six months ago, when the capacity per week of the active furnaces was reported at over 234,000 tons. Moreover, judging from the reports as to stocks, consumption is still running ahead of the production. The "Age" computes the aggregate of furnace stocks on November 1 only 586,487 tons, against 621,728 tons October 1, and 823,382 tons June 1.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned at the Stock Exchange at 4 per cent and at 1¾ per cent during the week, with the bulk of the business and the average 2 per cent. The higher rate was recorded on Wednesday afternoon, for a brief interval, and it was attributed to a sudden demand induced by the active and broad market for stocks and bonds. On the following days, however, though the trading in the stock market was larger, the rate for money did not rise above 2½ per cent. Bank officials look for a better demand for money at the Stock Exchange as the result of the increased business and also the employment of money in loans upon sterling collateral. Banks and trust companies quoted 1¾ per cent as the minimum for their loans on Monday but on Wednesday they marked up their rates to 2 per cent and some obtained 3 per cent on that day. Time money is in better demand, though the supply seems abundant. Rates are 2 per cent for thirty days, 2½ per cent for sixty days and 3 per cent for ninety days to six months on good Stock Exchange collateral. The offerings of commercial paper are increasing but, at the same time, the demand is good, not only from city but from out-of-town buyers. Rates are 3 per cent for sixty to ninety day endorsed bills receivable, 3½ to 4 per cent for prime and 4 to 5 per cent for good four to six months' single names. The ruling rate for prime single name paper is 3½ per cent, though there are some names which sell at 3¼ per cent.

Bankers report a very confident feeling among their correspondents as the result of the sound money victory, and especially the large majority secured in the United States Senate. Business in the West and South is increasing, and some slight improvement is noticeable in the Middle States and in the East. The movement of money by the banks has been chiefly to the Northwest this week, and the transfers through the Treasury have been principally to New Orleans. Last week's bank statement was a surprise, owing to the fact that it showed a loss of $3,917,700 specie and of $1,272,500 legal tenders, together $5,190,200. This loss could not be accounted for by any known movement of money, and the most reasonable explanation was that it was due to the financing of the recently issued new Tobacco stock. One notable feature of the statement is that the loans and the deposits are now the highest on record, the former exceeding the previous maximum September 3 by $6,671,200, and showing a gain of $43,272,300 compared with October 1, this improvement being largely due to loans upon long sterling collateral. Deposits are higher by $4,073,600 than the maximum previously recorded on August 13, but there has been a gain of $68,334,100 compared with September 24. The deposits of public money in the specially-designated depository banks are increasing, and they now amount to $95,879,329.

The political tension in Europe seems to be greatly relaxed, and the Fashoda incident may be regarded as closed. The British admiral in Cretan waters has enforced his order requiring the evacuation of Crete by the Turks. This event was referred to by Lord Salisbury, in his speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet on Wednesday. He said: "Patient application, combined with the moral strength of Europe, has at last succeeded in fulfilling the promise given to the Cretans of giving them autonomy under the suzerainty of the Sultan." It is reported that Great Britain, France and Italy have accepted Russia's proposal to appoint Prince George of Greece High Commissioner of the Powers in the island of Crete.

The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Imperial Bank of Germany advanced its rate of discount on Tuesday to 5½ per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety-day bank bills in London 3⅝@3¾ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 3 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 4¾@5 per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £147,889 bullion during the week and held £32,020,436 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to the imports of £641,000 (of which £296,000 were from France, £50,000 were from the Cape, £20,000 from Australia and £275,000 bought in the open market), to the export of £105,000 (of which £100,000 were to Germany and £5,000 miscellaneous), and to shipments of £388,000 net to the interior of Great Britain.

There are no specially new developments regarding the treatment by foreign bankers of cable transfers as checks, to which exclusive reference was made in this column last week. All the foreign bankers, with one exception, are affixing a two-cent stamp to these cable orders, or memoranda, instead of a four-cent ad valorem stamp. The attention of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has been called to the fact, but it is not expected that a decision will be made by the Department at present and it is probable that the advice of the Attorney-General will be asked by the Commissioner. Trading in these memoranda has been quite active during the week. Competition in the foreign exchange business is increasing. In addition to the two national banks in this city which have established foreign exchange departments, one more bank has this week made arrangements to conduct such business. The tone of the market has been easier, and it was notably so after the election holiday. The mails on Wednesday morning brought a large supply of commercial bills, chiefly cotton. There were liberal offerings of grain drafts and, during the day, purchases of stocks for European account still further augmented the supply of bills, and as the demand was light, rates yielded on the following day. The slight flurry in money on call on Wednesday had some influence, inducing speculators in exchange to unload part of their holdings, fearing that money might grow more active, thereby endangering their profits. Though there has been some buying of long sterling for investment there is a disposition to operate cautiously in view of possible important changes in the discount markets abroad and in the monetary situation here. There is reported to be a very large amount of investment bills now being carried in this city, and these would prove a serious menace to the exchange market in case of a relaxation in the European financial tension. Gold arrivals from Europe during the week have been only $73,882.

Though the range for nominal rates for exchange remained unaltered during the greater part of the week, at from 4 83 to 4 83½ for sixty day and from 4 86½ to 4 87 for sight. Brown Bros., Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co. and Lazard Freres reduced their posted rates on Thursday. On Friday further reductions made rates uniformly 4 83 for sixty day and 4 86½ for sight. Rates for actual business opened on Monday unchanged compared with those at the close on Friday of last week, at 4 82½@4 82¾ for long, 4 85¾ @4 86 for short and 4 86½@4 86¾ for cable transfers. The tone was easy though not quotably lower. On Wednesday the market continued easy, but the only change in rates for actual business was a reduction of one-quarter of a cent in cables to 4 86¼@4 86½. On Thursday the tone was weak, in consequence of a light demand and a pressure of bills, and rates for actual business were reduced one-quarter of a cent for long sterling and cables, to 4 82¼@4 82½ for the former and 4 86@4 86¼ for the latter, while short sterling was reduced half a cent to 4 85¼@4 85½. The tone was firmer on Friday with an advance of one-quarter of a cent in short sterling and in cable transfers. The following shows daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

THE ELECTIONS.

Tuesday's Congressional elections, taken as a whole, amount to a decided victory for the Administration and its party. The Fifty-fifth House of Representatives, chosen in 1896, contained a clear Republican majority of 52 votes over the combined opposition. The Fifty-sixth House, chosen this week, will contain a Republican majority of about 15. On the other hand, the present United States Senate contains a Republican majority of only 5, whereas the numerous reversals of majorities in State legislatures ensure for the next Senate an Administration majority not much, if any, less than 20. The significance of this general result will be apparent to those who know that in practically all States where Congressional seats have thus changed hands, the successful party based its canvass on opposition to depreciated money, and that the Senate's conservatism is now assured for years to come.

But the vote of this week is peculiar in some other ways, which make it one of the most noteworthy results in our recent electoral history. The citizen is often perplexed after an important election by the readiness and fluency with which political oracles explain the result by this or that specific cause. The motives ascribed for the majorities may be confused or conflicting, but each adherent of a particular policy or candidate is ready to point out the manner in which his own special object of interest has governed the general result. It is our wish, in this review of last Tuesday's achievements, to base our examination on some larger general principles.

In the first place no study of this year's Congressional elections can be at all satisfactory which does not take account of the well-known tendency to political reaction two years after the Presidential vote. This tendency has been so uniform throughout our history that it may be described not only as a political probability but as a political certainty. It will be remembered that not even the most optimistic leaders of the Administration party predicted at the opening of the canvass the return of the full majority existing in the present Congress. Their highest estimate was that the majority would be reduced nearly one-half. The causes for the tendency thus officially recognized are not at all obscure. The political reaction may at times amount to a positive rebuke by the people for actual bad government; there are instances of the kind in our past history, as in that of every other representative system. But the reaction may, and often does, arise without any such extreme provocation.

No Presidential canvass passes without the making of promises which are mutually conflicting. Party leaders and stump speakers will invariably, in the heat of a Presidential contest, promise in behalf of their party such policy as is best pleasing to the constituency immediately addressed. But since the wishes of these constituencies will differ from one another—the East from the West it may be, the cities from the country, or the manufacturing from the agricultural districts—it follows that of the numerous pledges made some must be left unredeemed. We doubt if any Presidential canvass has ever been carried through without such conflicting promises. But it is easy to see that while support for the Presidential candidate may by such a process be attracted in all parts of the country, there is left after election the absolute certainty of displeasing, and perhaps of alienating, certain important elements of the Administration party. Once elected, the new Administration and its Congressional adherents must adopt some definite lines of policy. But when its campaign representatives have promised one thing in one section of the nation and something incompatible with it in another, the result is perfectly evident.

We state this as a matter of general principle, applying in the United States as well to one political party as to another, and applying as well in Great Britain, for instance, as in the United States. No other theory, we think, can explain the unvarying recurrence of reaction in our so-called "mid-term" elections. We doubt if most people are aware that there has not been one Congressional election during the present generation (the exceptional vote of 1866 alone excepted) when the party successful in the Presidential vote has not lost ground in Congress by the vote of two years later. More than this, the remarkable fact is witnessed in the history of Congress that from the reconstruction period to the present year the opposition party has gained an actual House of Representatives majority in every "mid-term" election but one. That one exception, it may be added, was the exception that proves the rule; for the Administration chosen in 1884 was unable, because of an opposition Senate, to fix its plans in legislation. Therefore it had not alienated its supporters to the usual extent, and although its House majority was greatly reduced by the 1886 elections, it still retained control.

From this review of our own precedent, it will at once be seen not only that a reduction in the House majorities of the present Administration by last Tuesday's vote followed an unvarying rule, but that an actual reversal of majorities would not have been at all unusual. The question then arises—since such reactions are inevitable and in a certain sense automatic—how are we to use such results for a test of public sentiment on national issues? This is not altogether a simple matter; more particularly in a Congressional campaign like that of the present year, when no single and overshadowing issue has been presented to the voters for their decision. In 1894, every voter understood that he was passing judgment on the action of the Fifty-third Congress on the currency; in 1890, the question of the tariff was squarely submitted to the voters In each of those years the resultant opposition majority in the House was very large, and the majorities were accepted as an unmistakable verdict of the people. This year it has been hard to say at any time what was the political issue at stake in the canvass. Questions of State and local policy have been entangled to an unusual degree with questions of national administration. Even where national politics were granted the foremost place, appeals on totally different grounds have been made to voters in different sections of the country. The administration newspapers and canvassers have variously asked support on the ground of a successful war; of a critical peace negotiation; of the party's championship of sound money. Similarly, the opposition has rested its case on the several grounds of the blunders in the War Department's care of our soldiers; of the dangers of a colonial expansion policy; and on the old plea of 1896 for free silver coinage.

To read any distinct conclusions from the results of such a canvass, it is necessary to consider separately the various sections and interests of the country. Reviewed in this way, the first and most striking phenomenon of the elections is the fact that while the opposition gained ground materially in the East it lost overwhelmingly in the West. For instance, the four States of Kansas, South Dakota, California and Washington have long been classed as doubtful. The vote of 1896 gave the Democrats and Populists ten more Representatives from those States than the Republicans obtained. But last Tuesday's vote, it appears, so far shifted majorities that the Administration Representatives from these same States exceed by twenty the successful opposition candidates. Here is an actual gain of 30 votes in Congress from one group of Western States. As against this gain, let us observe the returns of three typical Eastern States—Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey In 1896, there were chosen as Representatives in these three States 47 more Republicans than Democrats; last Tuesday's vote so far reduced this Administration membership that the Republican Congressmen from the three states noticed exceed the opposition by only 7. In other words, the Administration party has by the poll in that section of the country lost 40 votes in Congress.

Now it appears to us that these diametrically opposite results, far from confusing the significance of Tuesday's vote, make it much plainer. The most obvious comment will be that the opposition lost ground this year where its leaders were known to be committed to free silver coinage, and gained decidedly where the party's genuine sentiment was known to be against it. In each of the Granger States whose results we have summarized, the opposition party inserted in its platforms distinct adherence to the free silver theory. In all but one of the three Eastern States to which we have similarly referred, the opposition conventions refused deliberately to incorporate free coinage in their platforms, and in the one State which did revive the "silver plank," the free coinage policy was repudiated by the opposition candidates who have since received majorities. Under such circumstances, the heavy opposition gains in the East and its almost equally heavy losses in the West teach the plainest lesson conceivable. A party which, in a year when gains were normally to be expected, was overwhelmed in every quarter where it proclaimed adherence to a given policy, is not likely to fix that policy on its standard in the next Presidential canvass.

It will similarly be remarked that the Administration gains were made in sections of the country to which the great and profitable harvests of the last three years have brought prosperity. In this regard, another maxim of political history is verified, which foreshadows support to any Administration in power during a period of good times. The elections of 1879 and 1880 were perhaps the most striking illustrations of this principle which our history can provide. But it must be remembered that this argument cannot supersede the other argument based on party policies. Prosperity in the farming district would in any case have helped an Administration party in its appeal for the farmers' votes. But this could happen only because the farmer, in his hour of prosperity, was ready to endorse the Administration's policy; and in the view of the Granger States, that policy has distinctly been maintenance of the sound money standard.

One other notorious piece of evidence should be mentioned corroborative of the foregoing conclusion. We refer to the fact that in the Eastern and Middle States, where the opposition distinctly ignored the silver issue, numerous leaders in the Democratic gold party publicly announced their determination to vote with their party. In the West all of the developments in this respect were of a strictly opposite character; the standard-bearer of the gold Democrats in the last Presidential election is only one, but a notable and highly significant, instance of the policy the gold Democrats adopted throughout the West. In the East many of the leaders returned to their old party, but we are knowing to the fact that a considerable proportion of those who deserted in 1896 did not return. In the West they voted as a body, substantially as they did in 1896.

It is not so easy to read from the returns the voters' verdict on the Spanish war, or on the policy of colonial expansion. It was in the East, where the greatest number of volunteer soldiers came home sick, that the opposition vote was large; the West saw little of that side of the war. On the colonial issue there has been something not unlike a sectional difference of opinion. In general it has appeared during the canvass that the "expansion issue" was unpopular in New England, that it divided public opinion in the larger Eastern States, but that in the Middle West it was pretty widely approved and on the Pacific Coast was endorsed with great enthusiasm. Even the California Democratic State Convention of August 18 approved the policy of territorial acquisitions in the Philippines as plainly as the Massachusetts Democratic Convention of October 4 condemned it.

The mere fact, however, that the Congressional elections as a whole have resulted in what is recognized as a victory for the Administration will probably be accepted for an indorsement of the Administration's foreign policy, so far as it has been thus far unfolded. This we regard as a highly fortunate result. It is not possible for any public man to claim, with the net results of the Congressional elections, that the American people have rushed wildly and overwhelmingly into a demand for empire. But it certainly is possible to affirm that the people have not expressed a disapproval of the pending negotiations such as would embarrass the Peace Commission. Undoubtedly the electoral results have been awaited with much curiosity by European statesmen. They will easily conclude from the returns that while opinions among our people differ widely as to the prudent policy to adopt in the control of our new possessions, there is no dissension such as would prevent our Government from maintaining in the vexed diplomatic problems its strong and dignified position. Furthermore, it must be remembered that the question how our new acquisitions shall be governed or disposed of will be settled, not alone by the Administration, but by the present Congress.

TEXAS RAILROADS AND THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The railroads of Texas are engaged in a new contest with the Railroad Commission of the State, or rather the old contest on the subject of rates is again being waged in the courts. Early last month the Commission framed a new schedule of rates on cotton traffic, materially lower than the previously existing charges. The new tariff was to have become effective on the 2nd of this month, but on October 31 Judge McCormick, in the United States Circuit Court at Dallas, on the application of the bond holders of the various roads, issued a temporary restraining order enjoining the roads from putting into effect the new tariff and also enjoining the Commission and the Attorney-General of the State from enforcing or attempting to enforce such tariff or the penalties connected therewith. Moreover, notice was given that on November 10th application would be made for an injunction against all the tariff schedules of the Commission, though at the request of the Attorney-General the date for this injunction hearing was subsequently postponed until November 21.

The case of the Texas roads, as is known, is one of peculiar hardships. It will be remembered that when the Commission first exercised the right to fix rates, an injunction against it was secured, and that on appeal the U. S. Supreme Court in May 1894 sustained the constitutionality of the law creating the Commission, but declared the rates which it sought to put into effect unjust and unreasonable, because noncompensatory, and upheld the action of the lower courts in enjoining their enforcement. Since then the roads have tried in every way to pursue a conciliatory course and have yielded compliance to many different orders of the Commission. But the latest promulgated tariffs taken together with those previously established threaten such a serious reduction of the revenues of the lines, according to the statements and calculations of the railroad officials, that to adopt them would be equivalent to sacrificing completely the interests of the security holders. Indeed in the bill of complaints the averment is made that the tariffs and charges already established and those sought to be established will reduce earnings to a greater amount upon the same tonnage of freight transported than did the rates which the Commission was enjoined from enforcing at the outset of its career. Consequently the result must be, it is declared, a serious and irreparable impairment of the value of the property and plant of the roads and of the interest of the security holders therein.

In carrying the matter to the courts the railroads are acting collectively; and they have evidently taken the step with great reluctance. The fact that they have put into force all the previous schedules of the Commission for a period of four years is evidence of this. After the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in 1894, already referred to, the first of the tariffs prepared by the Commission was promulgated on August 15 of that year and went into effect twenty days thereafter. From that time on the Commission has kept actively at work, and new tariff schedules have followed one another at very short intervals—some special in their provisions, others general, but all tending to cut down the revenues of the carriers. The Commission has taken no pains to conceal the effect of these tariff changes. In the report for 1895, for instance, writing under date of December 26 1895, it points with pride to the fact that "by the reductions made by this Commission, on this commodity alone [cotton], during that year [the year ending June 30 1895] about $825,000 was saved to the people."

The railroads accepted the action of the Commission as to these various reductions in rates, though they knew that the effect must be injurious to the properties, for a variety of reasons. They desired, as already noted, to adopt a conciliatory attitude. They no doubt also thought it would be good policy from a public standpoint not to oppose the Commission unless it became absolutely necessary to do so. They wished furthermore to give the schedules of the Commission a fair trial, thinking that the results might perhaps be more favorable than their sober judgment led them to expect. Lastly, they were in hopes that with the lapse of time the Commission might be induced to modify its course—that when the members saw that the new tariffs were working to the obvious harm of the roads and their security holders, either by actually decreasing their revenues or by preventing that increase in the same which should come with the growth of tonnage and the revival of prosperity, they would recognize that justice and fair dealing required the adoption of a different policy and act accordingly. Instead of that, and on top of it all, the Commission has now ordered a further reduction in cotton rates more serious than any previous reduction and which in the language of the bill of complaint will "most materially and disastrously affect the revenues" of the roads. In self protection, therefore, the companies find themselves obliged to take steps to check the Commission by legal means. We say "the companies;" technically the actions are brought by the trustees for the bondholders, and the companies are made defendants the same as in the cases which were carried to the Supreme Court.

We think there will be universal regret that the occasion should have arisen for renewed recourse to the Courts, though, as we have seen, the carrying interest had no alternative. No doubt in making its latest reduction the Commission has been impelled by a desire to help the cotton producer. It must be admitted, too, that the position of the cotton grower now is very much less favorable than it was before the recent heavy decline in the price of the staple. Middling Gulf cotton at Galveston was quoted last night at only 4¼ cents per pound. Contrasted with the price of 7 9-16 cents at the corresponding date in 1896 and of 8⅝ cents in 1895, this marks an important shrinkage, and under the circumstances it is easy to see that to the producer in the interior, who realizes only what remains of the Galveston price after deducting the freight charges to that point, a reduction in such charges would naturally be welcome. It is evident, likewise, that in such a situation the carriers will be promoting their own interests by making all the concessions they can to the producer in the way of lower transportation rates so as to offset as far as possible the decline in price. But it is equally obvious that there is a point beyond which the roads can not go; and their power of extending relief in this way has been greatly impaired through the many reductions in rates which the Commission has ordered in the past.

If at a time when the planter is in distress the Commission should seek a temporary moderate reduction in rates, to be effective only so long as the period of distress lasted, we are sure it would find the roads ready and willing to co-operate. But that unfortunately is not its method now and has not been in the past. It has pursued the persistent but short-sighted policy of continous reductions—in good times and bad times alike. One illustration will suffice. The Commission in 1894 made the famous reduction in cotton rates which, according to its own statement, put $825,000 in the pockets of the planters. The price then was low—only 5 cents at Galveston. But the next year (1895) the price went up again to 8⅝ cents (we are giving the November figures); did the Commission then restore the old rates, and allow the carriers to get some of the advantage resulting from the higher price? Far from it. Instead, it has made further repeated revisions in the direction of a lower scale—if not wholesale revisions, at least partial revisions; and now follows all this up by another general cut, which if acquiesced in by the roads would mean little short of ruin to the security holders.

It should be noted that low though the price of cotton now is, particularly as compared with the quotations in 1896 and 1895, yet it differs very little from the price in that other low period, 1894, (the comparison being for Galveston 4¾ cents against 5 cents), when the Commission ordered the celebrated reduction already referred to. Nevertheless, it is reasonable to suppose the roads would be ready to make a further contribution in the same way for the relief of the producer, provided they could be assured the concession would not be regarded as permanent, and provided a chance were given to make up the resulting losses through slightly higher charges in other directions. It is to be remembered that a cut in cotton rates to Texas points means a corresponding reduction in inter-State rates, since the two classes of rates are related; and a further cut of that kind therefore is a serious matter. Outside the planting interest, however, business prosperity rules in Texas, and naturally too the general revival of trade all over the United States must tend further to promote trade activity in that important commonwealth. If therefore some of the reductions on other commodities could be rescinded, the way might be paved for moderate and temporary concessions in cotton rates.

One fact stands out prominently on a careful study of the matter. Further arbitrary and wholesale reductions in rates are out of the question. The condition of the properties forbids that. The position of the Texas roads has always been an unfortunate one, and there has been no change for the better, but rather the contrary, since the Commission law has been passed. We do not intend to go over the ground we have covered so often in the past, but it is well to recall that there is to-day not a prominent road in Texas which is paying dividends. Even among the minor roads there are only one or two that enjoy the distinction of giving anything to their stockholders and these only because their old bonded obligations have recently been wiped out through foreclosure and given place to stock; the Texas Central belongs to that class. Moreover, in turning the leaves of the Commission's yearly report and scrutinizing the annual returns of the different roads, no one can help being struck with the ominous way in which the word "deficit" stares one in the face from page after page of the report.

The Commission seeks to justify its action by undertaking to say that the real value of the properties is far less than that appearing on the books and the printed returns. To show to what length the Commission has carried this idea, we may note that in its last report it presented a table giving the aggregate of stock and bonds outstanding on 8,964 miles of road at 369 million dollars ($369,623,186), whereas its estimate of the real value was only $141,192,215. The weight to be attached to this estimate (the Commission calls it the "ascertained" value) will appear when we say that it is equal to less than $16,000 per mile of road.

But even on a capitalization thus reduced over 228 million dollars, what rate of return is the Commission able to show? Only 5·69 per cent. The effect of the lower schedules of rates enforced by the Board is also very apparent. In 1895 the Commission reported 7·45 per cent earned on the "ascertained" value. The very next year this dropped to 5·07 per cent, and in 1897 the recovery was only to 5·69 per cent. Moreover, the larger systems all show very much smaller ratios than this—the Texas & Pacific, according to the Commission's figures, records only 4·14 per cent earned, the Missouri Kansas & Texas only 3·63 per cent, the Gulf Colorado & Santa Fe 3·90 per cent and the St. Louis & Southwestern but 1·21, all on a capitalization cut down one-half to three-quarters.

These and other similar figures that might be cited make it evident not only that a further general lowering of rates is beyond the power of the roads to grant but also that the Commission is sure to be defeated in its efforts in the courts, as it was on the former occasion. Why would it not be much more rational and sensible for the Commission and the railroads to come together on some such ground as that above suggested, the Commission recalling its ruinous cotton tariff and also the other schedules operating in the same way, and the roads undertaking to determine for themselves what concessions they can make for the time being to the cotton grower without inviting disaster if they are not hampered with orders commanding the general scaling-down of rates.

RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS FOR OCTOBER.

Notwithstanding a number of drawbacks affecting adversely special roads and groups of roads, railroad gross earnings as a whole continue to record satisfactory improvement over the results for the corresponding period last year. And the improvement is all the more noteworthy as comparison is with pretty good earnings in 1897. Altogether 128 roads have contributed returns to our compilation for the month of October, and these show a gain of $2,628,854 or 4·91 per cent over the same month of last year. This follows a gain of $4,602,179 or 8·97 per cent in October 1897. Thus the showing is a very encouraging one. The following carries the comparison back a number of years.

While the leading conditions were nearly all favorable there were some circumstances and influences, as already indicated, of an opposite nature. General trade was held under restraint by reason of the near approach of the November elections and the important consequences dependent upon the same. Still it seems fair to say that the volume of trade was heavier this year than last. Yellow fever in the South was a harmful influence, the epidemic growing in severity the early part of the month, and as a consequence the quarantine restrictions were also extended and more rigorously enforced. The latter part of the month, however, frosts and cold weather put an end to the disease, leading to the relaxation and removal of the quarantines. Moreover, as yellow fever also prevailed last year and in much the same part of the South, it is open to question whether there was much difference in this respect between the two years. It cannot be said that the demoralization in rates was increased by the ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court adverse to the legality of the Joint Traffic Association, yet the demoralization could hardly have been more severe in the territory east of Chicago than it actually was; and the seeming indifference with which the decision was received may be referred to the belief that things in that respect were already so bad they could hardly be any worse.

As far as those controlling influences in the traffic of the roads—the grain and cotton movements—are concerned, both tended to add to the revenues of the roads. In the grain movement the expansion was almost entirely in wheat, the other cereals showing only small additions or positive losses—as a result of which considerable irregularity is noticeable in the returns of the different grain-carrying roads. In the cotton movement, after the falling off the previous month arising out of the backwardness of the crop the shipments during October were of unusual dimensions, as will be evident when we say that at the Southern outports the receipts aggregated 1,692,822 bales for the month, against but 1,391,180 bales in October 1897, though the shipments overland amounted to only 199,466 bales, against 223,543 bales in 1897. Besides this some of the Southern trunk lines still derived important advantages from the movement of U. S. troops, while on the other hand in the West the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha tended to swell the passenger revenues of the roads. The Exposition closed on October 31, after having been open since June 1.

Dealing specifically with the grain movement, the wheat receipts were fully 10 million bushels larger than last year, though nevertheless there was one important point, namely Minneapolis, where there was a decrease of two million bushels. This decrease at that point may seem strange in view of the unusual crop of spring wheat harvested in the Northwest the present year, but the contraction appears to have been strictly local, as at Duluth there was an increase of almost six million bushels. In corn and oats the totals did not vary much in the two years, though the variations at some of the separate points were quite marked, as will appear from the following detailed statement in our usual form.

Chicago was favored with enlarged receipts of every one of the cereals, as will be more clearly apparent from the following statement giving the figures for the even month. The receipts of live hogs for the same month, it will be seen, were also larger than a year ago, though it is only proper to say that when we consider live-stock receipts of all kinds the result is a loss, the deliveries having been only 23,906 carloads against 24,451 car-loads.

When we come to examine the returns of earnings of the separate roads, we find Southern roads and the grain-carrying roads of the Northwest and the Southwest unusually prominent for improved results. Thus in the Northwest the Milwaukee & St. Paul reports $498,609 increase, the Great Northern $386,941 increase and the Northern Pacific $225,164 increase; in the Southwest the Missouri Kansas & Texas $134,968 increase and the International & Great Northern $103,744 increase; and in the South, the Louisville & Nashville $211,351 increase and the Southern Railway $183,355 increase. We annex a list of all gains and losses exceeding $30,000.

Monetary and Commercial English News

[From our own correspondent.]

LONDON, Saturday, October 29, 1898.

At the beginning of the week there was a sharp fall in consols and British railway stocks, and generally there was a decline in all departments. To some extent the apprehension of war with France was the cause of this, but to a much less extent than is generally represented by the London papers. All along the belief has been very general in London that the French Government would not engage in war. Firstly, because it is notorious that France is not prepared. Secondly, because it would be impossible for France to send reinforcements to Fashoda. And thirdly, because it is known that the moment is most unfavorable for Russia to engage in hostilities. Still, the position taken up by the French Mint isters did cause some uneasiness, and there is no doubt that a certain number of professional operators sold consols speculatively as a "hedge" against other operations.

But the principal cause of the decline was the financial embarrassments in Berlin and the fear that money might become exceedingly scarce and dear. There has been, as previously explained in this correspondence, a mild speculation for a long time past in Berlin, and the Berlin banks drew heavily both upon London and upon Paris a couple of months ago. It is estimated by a good authority that the acceptances of German bank bills in London amounted to at the very least 10 millions sterling. But during these two months the acceptances have been paid off on a great scale, and now it is believed that those current here do not exceed 3 millions sterling. On the other hand, the acceptances in Paris are estimated at as much as 20 millions sterling. It is quite possible, of course, that this may be an extravagant calculation. But it is certain that the acceptances are on a very large scale.

For a considerable time the rate of interest in Berlin has been between 3 and 4%; while in Paris it has been little more than 2%. And the unsettled state of things in France has induced large numbers of French bankers to invest their money in all sorts of foreign securities, German bank acceptances preferably. At the end of September the speculation in Berlin broke down and a period of liquidation began. Then came the rise of the German Imperial Bank rate of discount to 5%, that of the Bank of England to 4% and that of the Bank of France to 3%. Immediately the Bank of England began to borrow in the open market on a large scale, and at the same time the usual autumnal outflow of coin and notes for the interior set in; while, of course, the usual autumnal demands for abroad had to be met.

Therefore money became comparatively scarce and the rate of discount rose very nearly to 4 per cent. At the very end of last week some of the Scotch banks called in loans and this created a kind of scare among operators lest the banks generally should refuse to lend on the usual scale at the fortnightly Stock Exchange settlement which began this week.

The selling, then, upon Monday and Tuesday was chiefly due to a fear not so much of dear money as of extreme difficulty in getting money on any condition. Once the fall began "bear" selling of course increased, and that in its turn alarmed many timid people. And no doubt there was a certain amount of selling, especially from the interior by holders who are easily alarmed. The fall of the Brisson Cabinet led to a very general belief in this country that the Fashoda incident would be arranged amicably. At the same time the Stock Exchange settlement had proceeded far enough to allow of operators buying for the new account. Those who sold on Monday in the fear that they could not carry over comfortably bought on Wednesday with the knowledge that a fortnight would pass before they would have to face another account.

That this is the true view of the disturbance in the markets on Monday and Tuesday is borne out by the fact that the fall was greatest in consols—that is, in the very best of our securities, while the purely speculative stocks fell very little, such as South African mining shares, and especially those South African mining shares which are usually dealt in in France. If there was a real political scare it is the securities in which both France and England are largely interested that might reasonably be expected to give way most. But it is precisely these which were least affected on Monday and Tuesday.

While all this is true, however, there is no doubt at all that there is a good deal of uneasiness regarding the state of France. Opinion in this country is absolutely and firmly united that there must be no yielding on the Fashoda question; that France must withdraw or war will follow. At the same time there is a universal belief that France is utterly unprepared for war, and consequently would be defeated if she rushed into hostilities. But, though the general expectation is that her public men will recognize all this, and will yield, there is the lamentable fact that the army is master; that the Republican Party is split up into little groups; that the leaders of those groups are jealous of one another and often personally hostile; that the great public, the real people of France, fail to make their opinion felt; that the General Staff, the Military Governor of Paris, and the late Minister of War are, if not actually hostile to the Republic, at all events pursuing a course which may have the most disastrous circumstances; and that lastly, the President of the Republic himself is believed to have a strong leaning towards the Military Party. In such circumstances it is natural that there should be a widespread fear all over Europe that there may be internal disturbances, and that that in its turn may lead to external war.

In this situation it follows, as a matter of course, that investment is practically at a standstill. Everybody is keeping what money he has, and the more prudent are gradually selling out, so as to be able to take advantage of any fall that may occur.

The Bank of England on Thursday made no change in its rate of discount. For the present there is no occasion for it to do so, since it practically has got the outside rate up to its own level. Indeed it, for the time being, has got such control of the market that it has been able to pay off some of the loans it contracted a week or two ago. Moreover, it has been able to lend very considerable sums to the outside market.

At the same time the Continental exchanges have all turned in favor of this country, and money in considerable sums is coming here both from Paris and Berlin. The money from Berlin is, as explained above, in payment of bank acceptances held here. The money from Paris is believed to be chiefly remitted here for safe-keeping by Frenchmen alarmed at the condition of the country, and especially by some of the leading Jewish houses.

There is a report, likewise, that the Russian Government is transferring money both to London and to Berlin. It has of course to make certain payments in both cities, and has to meet these. But it is doubtful whether it is transferring money merely through apprehension. Meantime the India Council continues to sell its drafts wonderfully well. It offered for tender on Wednesday 40 lacs and the applications exceeded 141 lacs. It sold the whole amount offered, Rs 28,05,000 in bills at 1s. 4 1-32d. per rupee, and Rs 11,95,000 in telegraphic transfers at 1s. 4 1-16d.

Messrs. Pixley and Abell write as follows under date of Oct. 27:

Gold—All inquiry for export has entirely ceased, and the recent arrivals from the Cape and Australia will go into the Bank of England. The total purchases since our last amount to £380,000, while £50,000 has been withdrawn for Egypt and £12,000 for Buenos Ayres. Arrivals: Australia, £102,000; China, £8, 00; Capetown, £191,000; West Indies, £73,000; total, £174,000. Shipments: Bombay, £22,500; Calcutta, £5,000; total, £27,500.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 11, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—Business in Wall Street has responded quickly to the sound-money victory, which later election returns have emphasized. Nothing in recent years has gone so far to restore confidence in financial circles as the assurance that both branches of the next Congress will have a majority in favor of establishing permanently the gold standard. Moreover, there is a strong probability that the silver craze, which has hung so long as an incubus over all our industrial and financial interests, will never again obtain a foothold in this country.

Transactions in railway bonds at the Stock Exchange on Thursday were the largest in the history of that institution, and the stock market has been exceptionally buoyant since the election returns were given out. A significant fact about this large volume of business is the increased foreign demand, especially for railway bonds—the more significant because of the firm money markets at all European centres. No doubt a part of this demand is speculative in character, but on the whole it is generally understood to reflect a more favorable public sentiment abroad. Recent purchases of wheat for export are now coming forward and the capacity of some of the grain carrying roads is being tested. As noted below, rates for foreign exchange are lower. This may be due in part to a slight irregularity in the local money market, which was a feature earlier in the week, and to the higher rates for call loans.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 1¾ to 4 per cent. To-day's rates on call were 1¾ to 2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3 to 4 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £147,889, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 52·00, against 49·70 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows an increase of 1,075,000 francs in gold and a decrease of 2,600,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 5 showed a decrease in the reserve held of $5,190,200 and a surplus over the required reserve of $19,023,050, against $26,091,550 the previous week.

State and Railroad Bonds.—Sales of State bonds at the Board include $107,000 Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 at 79⅛ to 79⅜; $21,000 Virginia 6s deferred trust receipts, stamped, at 7; $3,000 No. Carolina consol. 4s at 104; $3,000 Louisiana consol. 4s at 106½, and $1,000 Ala. Class A at 108½.

The market for railway bonds reflects the confidence which election results have inspired in investment circles. The demand for this class of securities is unprecedented, the transactions on Thursday amounting to nearly $10,000,000, par value, and the active list has advanced without exception, the advance averaging about 2 points. Bankers with foreign connections are in the market as buyers for their customers abroad, a feature which has not been conspicuous for a long time past. Notwithstanding the large volume of business, there is an absence of high-grade issues, the transactions having been specially heavy in Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio when issued, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Missouri Kansas & Texas, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Oregon Short Line, Reading, St. Louis & Iron Mountain, San Antonio & Aransas Pass, Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific, Union Pacific, Union Pacific Denver & Gulf, Wabash and Wisconsin Central bonds.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The market for stocks was firm and active on Monday, stimulated by increasing confidence in favorable election results On Wednesday the transactions were larger than on any day for many weeks past, but the significance of Tuesday's victory was more fully comprehended on Thursday, when the market was decidedly buoyant, and sharp advances were common throughout the list. This business was well distributed, and stocks which have been neglected for a long time were in demand at advancing prices. To-day's market was slightly less active and heavy realizing sales caused some reaction from the highest prices.

Atchison preferred has been, through the week, the most active stock on the railway list, and steadily advanced to 40¾, a net gain of 4⅜ points. The grangers were favorites and advanced an average of over 3 points. Union Pacific and Northern Pacific were strong on a foreign demand and commission-house buying. The anthracite coal group and Manhattan Elevated were almost the only stocks which failed to participate in the general advance. Transactions in the miscellaneous list were limited when compared with the heavy dealing in railway shares. Federal Steel issues have steadily advanced on what is called inside buying and Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway was strong on rumors that it will be absorbed by the Federal Steel Co. New York Air Brake fluctuated over a range of 8 points. Pullman's Palace Car recorded an advance of nearly 9 points.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of every STEAM railroad from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the period from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns, and the latest statement of this kind will be found in the CHRONICLE of October 29, 1898. The next will appear in the issue of November 19, 1898.

(Report for year ending June 30, 1898.)

The full text of the remarks in the annual report of President Stilwell and Mr. Gillham, the General Manager, will be found on pages 1005 to 1007, together with the balance sheet, income account, tables of operations, etc.

The management points out that the results from the year's operation were obtained under very unfavorable conditions. The road was not completed through to Port Arthur until September 11, 1897. On the very next day quarantine was established, which lasted until the middle of November, 1897. This was followed by an unusual rainy season, so that the traffic south of Shreveport was seriously hampered by the effect of the severe rains upon the material of which the new road was necessarily constructed. In May a series of storms swelled the Arkansas River ten feet above the highest point ever before reached, washing away the approach to the Arkansas River Bridge, thus cutting the road in two for twenty-one days, and forcing the K. C. P. & G. to pay large charges to other roads for handling its trains over their tracks.

Complications in the matter of rates and divisions with connecting lines was a further unfavorable condition.

The total interest for one year on the bonds outstanding July 1, 1898, exceeds by $280,237 the amount deducted from the income for the fiscal year, owing to the fact that the interest on certain bonds did not begin to accrue until April 1, 1898, but it is claimed that the aforesaid adverse conditions conspired to reduce the net revenue of the company by an amount exceeding the difference in interest mentioned.

The income account shows as follows:

INCOME ACCOUNT YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1898.

Credit balance as of July 1, 1897		$171,319

Detroit & Mackinac Railway.

(Report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898.)

President and General Manager J. D. Hawks says in part

The main business of the road continues to be in the handling of logs and lumber, but the decrease in the pine, which is now practically exhausted, is more than made good by the increase in the shipments of hardwood logs, lumber and manufactured products. It will take many years to work up the hardwood, and unlike much of the land on which pine grew, the hardwood land is all good farming land.

During the year all money earned in excess of fiscal charges has been put into permanent improvements, extensions of the main line and logging branches. The most important work was the extension of the main line from La Roque to Onaway, a distance of 19 miles. This was begun and finished during the year. Late in the year orders were placed for 50 box cars, 10 flat cars and 1 locomotive. These have been delivered since the fiscal year ended and will enable the road to handle the business of its increased mileage with satisfaction to its patrons. One resorts at Linwood and Tawas Beach did a good excursion business in spite of the fact that the road has to do most of such business in rented cars. The popularity of the shore points between Bay City and Alpena as health resorts is steadily growing, but summer business will not assume large proportions until the road is finished to Mackinac.

The resources of the country along the line of the road in coal, gypsum and limestone have attracted considerable attention during the year. A spur track to Alabaster was started during the year and since finished. This track is 4½ miles long and gives a rail outlet for the extensive plant at Alabaster, which has always depended on water for the shipment of the large quantities of the products of gypsum manufactured at that point.

While several new coal mines have been opened in the Saginaw Valley during the year, it was only since the close of the fiscal year that the first shaft was started north of Bay City. This is near the mouth of the Kawkawlin River, and the mine will give us considerable freight and insure cheap coal for our locomotives. The beet sugar works at Bay City have been completed and the road will get some shipments of sugar beets this fall.

Montreal Street Railway.

(Report for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1898.)

President L. J. Forget say ;

The company's business continues to increase in a satisfactory manner and the percentage of operating expenses shows a further reduction on last year's figures. The road-bed, rolling-stock and other property have been maintained in a high state of efficiency, the cost thereof having from year to year been charged to operating expenses. Your directors consider it advisable, however, to set aside a portion of the accumulated earnings to provide against heavy or special renewals. They have consequently transferred $100,000 from the surplus to the credit of a contingent account. A fire occurred on Sept. 16, destroying a car shed and a considerable amount of equipment. The loss, however, was fully covered by insurance, and the equipment will be replaced at the company's shops, according to the latest standard. The rolling-stock has been increased by the addition of 22 closed motor cars and 60 open motor cars, all of which have been constructed in the company's shops. There are also under construction 40 motor cars, which will be ready for this winter's service, and 75 open motor cars, which will be ready for next summer's traffic. A system of cast-welding of the rail-joints has been introduced, which, judging from the results obtained elsewhere, is calculated considerably to reduce the expense of track maintenance.

The following tables show the earnings for five years past, the income account for several years and the balance sheet of Sept. 30, 1897 and 1898:

Mergenthaler Linotype Co.

(Report for the year ending Oct. 1, 1898.)

The annual report says in substance:

Financial.—The year has been one of continued success and good profits. No indebtedness has accumulated. All bills have been promptly paid. The property holdings of the company have increased, and $2,000,000 have been paid in cash dividends, making the total dividends since August, 1894, $5,365,000. The linotype has displaced other machines in more than forty offices. It is already used in book offices to a greater extent than any other machine.

Improvements and Patents.—Within the year a simple improvement, devised by one of the officers of the company, has been incorporated in the machine, enabling it to carry italics and small capitals in addition to the body faces. This improvement attains an end long sought by inventors and gives the first machine of any kind adapted to meet the requirements of book publishers and law printers.

Some of the more important patents have many years to run and will prevent, it is believed, the production of competing linotype machines in any form. During the year the company has come into possession of numerous new patents for improvements in the standard machine and for adjuncts and attachments in enlarging the scope of its operations. The noted Paige patents on a machine for setting, automatically justifying, and automatically distributing type have become the property of the company. Two new patents will soon be issued to the company for seventeen years, covering broadly the so-called monoline machine and analogous machines with circulating matrices having characters in multiple.

National Typographic Co.—Owing to the existence of certain contracts with the National Typographic Co. it was considered advisable to gain control of that company. This was done by the purchase of the stock, the objectionable contracts were modified and the stock thereafter sold at a substantial cash profit.

Business.—All the manufacturing of the company is now carried on in its own works in Brooklyn. There were on rental at the end of the year 1,248 machines, at a total rental value of $650,325 per year, including duplex attachments. There are in existence and in use 4,251 machines of American manufacture. A gratifying evidence as to the increasing confidence of the public in the machines is found in the fact that there is a steadily increasing tendency of printers to purchase rather than to rent them. The net gain for the year, machines owned by the company being inventoried at $1,000, was $1,883,253, a gain over the preceding year of $140,306.

Various other particulars as to the business appear from the following regarding the number of machines built, sold, etc.

According to newspaper reports, the number of concerns acquired was forty-three, including the A. Booth Packing Co. of Baltimore, which has twenty four branches, and packs oysters and vegetables. A list published several weeks ago to show the principal companies controlled includes:

Cincinnati Fish & Oyster Co., of Cincinnati; Chase-Davidson Co., of Louisville; Chase & Co., of Nashville & Chattanooga, together with the branches controlled by those companies at West Point and Baltimore; Lake Ontario Fish Co., Cape Vincent, N. Y.; C. M. Clark & Co., New York; W. J. Emerson, Boston; Davis Fresh & Salt Fish Co., of Detroit; Killarney Fish Co., of Detroit; James Craig & Sons, Detroit; Charles Willis & Co. and Frederick Olarsen & Bro., Chicago; Buffalo Fish Co., Davis Fish Co. and Erie Fish Association, Buffalo; Sandusky Fish Co., Sandusky, O.; E. R. Elson Co., Cleveland; Baltimore Packing Co., Minneapolis; Stenhenbach & Co., Green Bay, Wis.; Ainsworth & Gauly, Sault Ste. Mr. W. Vernon Booth, of Chicago, is President of the new company; Gen. A. E. Booth, of Baltimore, Vice-President; W. G. Robbins, of Buffalo, N. Y., Treasurer, and E. D. Carter, of Erie, Pa., Secretary. The general offices are in Chicago, with branch offices in New York and Boston.

Alabama Steel & Wire Co.—New Enterprise.—This company, recently incorporated with $2,000,000 of capital stock, has let contracts for the erection by June 1, 1899, of a wire rod and wire nail mill at Eueley City, Ala. The plant will adjoin the new Alabama Steel & Ship Building Company's plant, and will use the product of that mill. The output of the wire and nail mills will be 300 tons daily, which eventually may be increased. The product, it is said, will not be brought into competition with the Northern mills, but will be sold in European and Asiatic markets, and will be shipped through Southern ports.

The officers were formerly connected with the Consolidated Steel & Wire Co. They are: President, E. T. Schuler, of Chicago; Vice-President, C. E. Robinson, of Joliet; Secretary and Treasurer, G. H. Schuler, of Cleveland.

American Malting Co.—Election of Directors.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Malting Co., held on Thursday, the following directors were elected: Alexander M. Curtiss, Charles A. Parcell, Elverton R. Chapman, Charles M. Warner, Adolph C. Zinn, Charles A. Stadler, Charles Schurgen, Theodore L. Hansen, D. D. Weschler, Robert Nunnemacher, Seymour Scott, Girard B. Schley and Randolph Rodman. All of them served last year, except Mr. Schley, who was elected to fill a vacancy.—V. 66, p. 898.

American Steel & Wire Co.—Washburn & Moen Co.—Possible Acquisitions.—The Old Colony Trust Co., of Boston, has issued a circular inviting stockholders in the Washburn & Moen Manufacturing Co. to deposit their shares with that institution at a price of 162½. The Washburn & Moen Co. is owned in the East, having its two principal plants at Worcester, Mass., but it also has a plant at Waukegan, Ill., and one at San Francisco. The presumption is that the American Co. has renewed negotiations. The stock is $4,000,000.

The American Steel & Wire Co. has bought the McMullen wire plant at Evanston, Ill., for $100,000; also, it is said, the McMullen Woven Wire Fence Co., which has a plant at Evanston, Ill. The McMullen Company produces, it is stated, about one-fourth of the country's total product of woven wire fencing, such as is used to enclose poultry yards. The capitalization of the McMullen Company is understood to be about $300,000.—V. 67, p. 682.

American Tobacco Co.—Listed.—The New York Stock Exchange has listed the $2,065,000 preferred stock recently issued, making the total tobacco stocks listed to date $14,000,000 preferred and $21,000,000 common. The company says: "The proceeds of the sale of the 61,000 shares of common stock listed on the Exchange in May, 1898, were used in the purchase of the business, property and assets of the Brown Tobacco Company, of St. Louis, Mo., and the Drummond Tobacco Co., of St. Louis, Mo. The proceeds of the sale of the preferred stock now asked to be listed are to be put in the company's treasury, to be used in the prosecution of its general business." The report for the half-year ended June 30, 1898, as compiled from the statement to the Exchange appears under the heading "Annual Reports."—V. 67, p. 935.

Meeting.—The stockholders will vote Dec. 8 upon the question of selling the plug tobacco business of the company, the property, assets, trade marks, good will and rights, to the Continental Tobacco Co., and upon the question of amending the by laws by altering Sections 1 and 2 so that it should read as follows:

"No director or officer shall during his term of office engage directly or indirectly in any business similar to that in which this company is or is to be engaged or in the manufacture or sale of any supplies for or connected therewith without consent of two-thirds of the directors of the company. Any violation of this provision shall be treated by the board of directors, after notice to the offender, as a vacating of his office, in addition to it to be subject to a penalty of $ and to such damages as can be legally collected."—V. 67, p. 935.

Baltimore & Annapolis Short Line RR.—New Bonds.—The stockholders have voted to issue $400,000 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, to be dated Dec. 1 and to run 25 years. The proceeds will be used to pay off the floating debt of $300,000 and to provide funds for future requirements.—V. 67, p. 934.

Baltimore Traction Co.—Final Dividend.—The dividend of 1¼ per cent announced last week is a final payment, and distributes what was left of the company's assets after the absorption of the property by the Consolidated Railway. The dividend is payable to stock of record of June 30, 1897.—V. 66, p. 893.

Boston & Maine.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported:

Calumet Electric Street Ry.—South Chicago City Ry.—Chicago Electric Traction.—Negotiations Looking to Consolidation.—Negotiations, it is stated, are pending for a consolidation of these companies, and it is thought may be successfully completed within a short time.—V. 64, p. 1088; V. 63, p. 970; V. 66, p. 81.

Centennial Copper Mining.—New Stock.—The stockholders will vote on Dec. 7 on the proposed increase of the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, to be divided into 100,000 shares. A circular says:

"It is the purpose to offer for subscription at $10 per share 10,000 shares of the new stock to shareholders of record Dec. 15, 1898, in the proportion of one share of new stock for every eight shares of the old. This will leave 10,000 shares in the Treasury.

"Your directors believe that by the recent purchase of 40 acres of land from the St. Mary's Land Mineral Land Co., which gives us the outcrop of the Keweenaw lode, and also by the purchase of about half mile on Torch Lake, directly opposite the town of Lake Linden and the Calumet & Hecla stamp mill, they have acquired very desirable territory for Centennial.

"The Keweenaw lode is one of the strongest and most persistent amygdaloid lodes of Lake Superior, and if it is true to its history in the territory lately purchased, the question of additional stamping facilities will soon have to be met. The present showing on the Osceola lode in Centennial is excellent, and continues to improve with depth. With this lode more extensively opened, and with the new Kearsarge territory to draw from (work upon which has already commenced), a larger number of stamps will soon be a necessity.

Central Passenger Association.—Constitution Modified and Organization Maintained.—At a meeting in Chicago on Wednesday instead of disbanding the association it was voted to change the constitution, eliminating such parts of it as appeared contrary to the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of the Joint Traffic Association (V. 67, p. 901). The agreement for the establishment and maintenance of rates was cut out, and in its place was inserted one setting forth that the objects of the organization are to interchange authentic information regarding tariffs and unreasonable rates, and to co-operate with the Inter-State Commerce Commission in preventing and investigating illegal cuts. F. C. Donald will continue to act as Commissioner of the amended association. The Central Freight Association took similar action.

Chicago Fort Madison & Des Moines.—Foreclosure Decree.—Judge Woolson in the United States Court at Keokuk, Iowa, has signed a decree for the foreclosure sale of the property.—V. 67, p. 222.

Chicago & Ohio River RR.—Peoria Decatur & Evansville RR.—Cincinnati Hamilton & Dayton Ry.—Foreclosure.—At Springfield, Ill., on Nov. 8, in the United States Circuit Court, Judge Allen entered a decree of foreclosure sale in the case of the New England Trust Co. against the Chicago & Ohio River RR. on the first mortgage of 1886, interest on which is in default. The road has belonged to the Peoria Decatur & Evansville system, but in May last Cincinnati Hamilton & Dayton interests arranged to acquire it (see V. 66, p. 1043).—V. 67, p. 1043; V. 67, p. 635.

Citizens Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis.—Application for Receiver.—John M. Sellers and E. A. Noonan recently filed a petition in St. Louis for a receiver and an accounting for the St. Louis Underground Service Company and the Citizens' Electric Light & Power Co. on the ground of conspiracy to defraud stockholders. A reorganization of both companies is requested.—V. 66, p. 573.

Clearwater Short Line Ry.—Northern Pacific Ry.—New Cut Off.—The Clearwater Short Line Railway has been incorporated by William Wallace, counsel for the Northern Pacific in Montana, and A. D. Edgar, General Agent in Helena, to build a road from the main line of the Northern Pacific, in southeastern Washington, and near the confluence of the Columbia and Snake Rivers, up Snake and Clearwater Rivers to the Bitter Root Range, and across the mountains, by the Lolo Pass, to the main line, near Missoula. It has long been the intention to build such a cut-off for the main line, as a long distance (one report says "more than 300 miles") will be saved compared with the old route.—V. 67, p. 690.

Consolidated Gas Co. of Newark, N. J.—Essex & Union Gas.—Newark Gas Co.—United Gas Improvement Co.—Consolidation.—New Bonds.—Lease.—Redmond, Kerr & Co., of this city, and the Fidelity Trust Co. of Newark have purchased and will receive subscriptions at 102½ and interest for $4,600,000 new 5 per cent consolidated mortgage 50 year gold bonds of the Consolidated Gas Co. of Newark, N. J. This is a new corporation formed by the consolidation of the Newark Gas Co. (whose capital stock has recently been the subject of much negotiation, as already noted in this column) with the Montclair Gas & Water, the Summit Gas, the People's Gas Co. of Irvington and the Clinton Gas. The ownership of the entire capital stock of the East Newark Gas Co. and the Orange Gas was vested in the Newark Gas Co. and so passes to the Consolidated Gas Co. The new corporation, therefore, owns all the gas plants in the territory between Passaic and Elizabeth, N. J., subject only to $1,025,000 of first mortgage bonds, viz., $1,000,000 Newark Gas 6s, due 1944 and $25,000 Montclair Gas & Water bonds, and to the new loan.

The total authorized issue of the new consolidated mortgage 5s is $10,000,000. Of this amount $4,600,000 are issued for the acquisition of the constituent properties, $1,025,000 are reserved to retire underlying bonds at maturity and $1,375,000 are held for future improvements and extensions. The loan is a first lien on the property of the former Summit, People's and Clinton companies and a second lien on the rest of the plants. The loan consists of $1,000 5 per cent gold bonds, due Dec. 1, 1948, with interest payable semi-annually in June and December. The bonds are registrable as to principal, are free of all tax in the State of New Jersey and are not subject to call. The Fidelity Trust Co. of Newark is mortgage trustee. The capital stock of the Consolidated Gas Co. is $6,000,000, all of one class. The earnings, as indicated by the combined results of the constituent properties, it is stated, are more than enough to pay the interest on its bonded indebtedness, and it is expected the surplus remaining will be materially increased as a result of the consolidation and of the improvements and economies now in progress.

The entire property of the new corporation has been transferred under lease for 999 years to the United Gas Improvement Co. of Philadelphia, and this lease will be assigned by the latter to a new company, to be organized under the laws of New Jersey, probably with the title of the "Essex & Union Gas Co." The Essex Company will have $6,500,000 of capital stock (of which $4,325,000 will be owned by the United Gas Improvement Co.), and it will assume all the rights and liabilities of that company under the terms of the lease. The United Gas Improvement Company, however, for the first six years will be directly responsible for all payments required by that contract. These include all operating and maintenance expenses, all taxes, interest and other fixed charges of every description, and after Jan. 1, 1900, in semi-annual instalments (payments to begin July 1, 1900), cash available for dividends on the $6,000,000 stock of the Newark Consolidated Gas Co., as follows:

Year.	Amount.	Year.	Amount.	Year.	Amount.
1900-1	$30,000(½%)	1904-5	$150,000(2½%)	1908-9	$270,000(4½%)
1901-2	60,000(1%)	1905-6	180,000(3%)	1909-10	300,000(5%)
1902-3	90,000(1½%)	1906-7	210,000(3½%)	Thereafter	$300,000
1903-4	120,000(2%)	1907-8	240,000(4%)	(5%) y'ly to end of lease

The United Gas Improvement Company further agrees that $1,000,000 in cash shall be paid in on the capital stock of the Essex Company prior to transfer of the lease and also that $1,000,000 cash shall be in the treasury of the Essex Co. at the end of the six years. The lease to the United Gas Improvement Co. will go into effect Dec. 1 and will be assigned as soon as possible to the Essex Company. The liability of the United Gas Improvement Co. under the lease, however, is to continue, as said above, for six years; at the end of which time the assignee company alone becomes responsible, except that the United Gas Improvement Co. agrees not to enter into the territory occupied by the Newark Consolidated Gas Co.

It is said that $3,600,000 of the new bonds have already been sold, leaving only $1,000,000 for public subscription.—V. 67, p. 956; V. 66, p. 906.

Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Co.—Statement to New York Stock Exchange.—On a subsequent page will be found at length the official statement just made to the New York Stock Exchange in connection with the listing of the balance of the authorized issue of $2,000,000 preferred stock. Co. and the West End Street Ry. Co. The dates are to be announced later. The foreclosure suits were brought on Sept. 28 by the Central Trust Co., as mortgage trustee, the mortgages being for $1,000,000 and $300,000 respectively, and in each case Edward C. Bagge was appointed receiver. The "Denver Republican" says: There is a rumor that the lines are to be consolidated with the Denver Tramway Co. It is said that David H. Moffat is now in New York negotiating the plan. A prominent banking house of Boston is reported to be concerned in the proposed consolidation.

A decree also was entered in the District Court Nov. 1, ordering the sale of the Colfax Avenue Electric Railway, another suburban street car line, to satisfy defaulted bonds and interest to the amount of $216,000.—V. 67, p. 842.

North Hudson Light, Heat & Power Co.—New Mortgage.—The company has filed a mortgage of $2,000,000 to the New Jersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co. as trustee.—V. 67, p. 936.

Northwestern Gas Light & Coke Co. of Evanston, Ill.—Stock Increased to $2,000,000.—At a meeting of the stockholders on Wednesday the capital stock was increased from $700,000 to $2,000,000. The company has outstanding $485,000 of 6s improvement equipment bonds due June 1, 1915, interest payable June and December at the Equitable Trust Co., Chicago.

Norwalk Gas Light Co.—Sold.—A press dispatch says: "Negotiations for the purchase of the property by a syndicate of New York capitalists have culminated in the sale of the plant, stock and all its valuable franchises, including the charter of the Gas Supply Company, with privileges for the whole of Fairfield County outside of Bridgeport. The total amount of money paid for the plant was $227,500. The new company will spend $30,000 to $300,000 in enlarging and developing the plant here."

Pacific States Telephone Co.—Consolidation—The San Francisco "Report" said recently:

The four great telephone and telegraph systems of this coast will hereafter be known as the Pacific States Telephone Co These companies are the Oregon Telephone & Telegraph Co., with lines covering the greater part of Oregon, the Inland Telephone & Telegraph Co., taking in Eastern Oregon and Washington; the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., comprising the lines in the city and county of San Francisco; the Sunset Telephone & Telegraph Co., whose lines cover nearly all of California, the lower portion of Oregon and Eastern Washington.

People's Ry. of St. Louis.—Foreclosure Decree.—Judge Wood has ordered the sale of the property under foreclosure of the third mortgage, the upset price to be $900,000.—V. 67, p. 789.

Petersburg (Va.) Electric Railway.—Sold.—This property was purchased at foreclosure sale on Thursday for the bondholders for $55,000.—V. 67, p. 435.

Pittsburg & Western RR.—Cleveland & New Castle Ry.—Lake Erie & Western Ry.—Deal Pending.—As already stated in this column, the recent purchase of a majority of the second mortgage bonds of the Pittsburg & Western was made by Lake Erie & Western interests. Subsequent to the purchase work was stopped on the Cleveland & New Castle Ry., which was building as an eastern extension of the Lake Erie & Western and parallel to the P. & W., from Akron, O., a distance (including branch) of about 85 miles, to New Castle, Pa., there to connect with the Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburg system. Calvin S. Brice, when asked this week if he was negotiating for the Pittsburg & Western, replied, "Yes, a deal is in progress, but not closed. Such things cannot be done in a week, but require time. Although I am not an officer of the Cleveland & New Castle Ry., it is probable work will be resumed on it soon. Capitalists do not expend a million in an enterprise and then abandon it."—V. 67, p. 789; V. 66, p. 837; V. 67, p. 788.

Richmond Nicholasville Irvine & Beattyville RR.—Sale. The road has been advertised for re-sale on Dec. 3, but Col. Bennett Young, representing the original purchasers, has taken steps to appeal from the decision of the Court refusing to confirm the sale of Oct. 6. With the placing of the supersedeas bond by the original purchasers, all action in the further disposal of the road, it is expected, will be suspended until the appeal is settled.—V. 67, p. 957.

Schoenhofen (Peter) Brewing Co.—No Dividend.—The company has decided not to pay the usual 3½ per cent semi-annual dividend on its preference shares for the six months ended Sept. 30. The dividend, it is claimed, was earned, but in view of the fact that $50,000 was spent on new headquarters it would have been necessary to borrow in order to make the disbursement. The dividend is cumulative, and has always heretofore been regularly paid. The company's sales of beer for the fiscal year amounted to about 192,000 barrels, against about 184,000 barrels last year and 189,000 barrels in 1896. There are outstanding £200,000 common and £200,000 preferred stock; also £217,000 five per cent debentures, due in 1910.

Seneca Electric Light & Power Co.—Receiver.—This company owning the plants a Seneca Falls and Waterloo, N. Y., has been placed in the hands of H. H. Crowell of Syracuse as Receiver on application of the Old Colony Trust Co., the mortgage trustee.

Standard Oil.—Further Litigation.—A press dispatch from Cleveland, O., Nov. 10, says that State-Attorney General Monett filed a petition against the Union Tank Line Co. of New Jersey. The stockholders of the Union Tank Line Co. are practically the same as those of the Standard Oil Co., and it is alleged the company was organized simply for the purpose of furthering the Standard Oil Co. in its efforts to evade the decision of the Ohio Supreme Court. The petition asks that the defendants be compelled to show cause why they should not be ousted from doing business in Ohio.—V. 66, p. 1239.

Standard Telephone Co.—Central Missouri Telephone Co.—Purchase.—The Kansas City "Star" recently said:

"The Standard Telephone Co. bought all the lines and equipment of the Central Missouri Telephone Co. yesterday. This new purchase gives the Standard Company about 1,000 miles of line in the State, and when all the connections are made it will give Kansas City communication with 150 Missouri towns. The Central Missouri system started at Versailles and ran north to Tipton, Boonville, Fayette and Moberly. From Moberly it ran to Mexico and Brunswick. It also connected Moberly with Macon Gallatin and Trenton."

Tradesmen's National Bank of New York.—Liquidation.—The Controller of the currency, it is stated, has agreed to allow a committee of directors, whom he will name, to proceed with the liquidation provided, the directors will buy $100,000 of the Wool Exchange stock carried by the bank if deemed necessary to give further assurance against a deficit. V. 67, p. 957.

Union Pacific Denver & Gulf Ry.—Final Instalment Payable by Nov. 28.—The second and final instalment of $5 per share payable on the stock under the plan of reorganization must be paid by holders of assented certificates on or before Nov. 28, 1898, at the office of the Central Trust Co., in New York, or at its agency, the American Loan & Trust Co., in Boston. Failure to pay this instalment when due will forfeit all rights in respect of the new securities and all rights on account of payment of the first instalment.—V. 67, p. 957.

United States Envelope Co.—First Dividend.—The company has declared its first dividend, viz., 2 per cent on its preferred stock, payable Dec. 1. Books close Nov. 15 and reopen Dec. 2.—V. 67, p. 275.

Westinghouse Air-Brake—American Brake Co.—Consolidation.—The stockholders of the American Brake Co. on Nov. 15 will vote on a proposition to consolidate with its present lessee, the Westinghouse Air-Brake Co., which will give two shares of $50 each for each three shares of $100 each of the American Company. At this basis the equivalent on the present stock is 6⅔ per cent dividend. The American Company is to declare a dividend of 1¼ per cent from the last quarter's earnings, and is to reserve for distribution to the stockholders all cash, bonds, stock and other funds which it now owns. The Westinghouse stock given in exchange will carry dividends from Sept. 30. The American Brake Co. has $2,000,000 of capital stock, to retire which, at the rate above named, will require the issue of $666,666 of Westinghouse stock. This latter issue was increased last July from $5,000,000 to $11,000,000. From the increase a dividend of 100 per cent was paid, and the balance of $1,000,000 remained in the treasury available for the purchase of the Boyden Company recently effected, and for the present acquisition. The Westinghouse Company has been paying dividends of 20 per cent per annum.—V. 67, p. 843 128, 20.

KANSAS CITY PITTSBURG & GULF RAILROAD COMPANY.

REPORT FOR FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1898.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.

KANSAS CITY, MO., October 26, 1898.

To the Stockholders of the Kansas City Pitts. & Gulf RR. Co :

I herewith submit the Annual Report covering operations of the road for the year ending June 30, 1898. I deem it proper to go into details regarding various matters which have to do with the present business and future outlook of the property. I will classify them under three heads:

First—Operations of the road.

Second—The development of the road and adjacent industries.

Third—The future of the property.

It would be quite difficult to find more obstacles than those which the management have had to contend with.

In the first place through business only commenced in November, 1897.

At the inception of the Company it was arranged that the bonds should not bear interest for four years unless earned, and it was believed the road would be completed and in operation six months previous to the expiration of that period, so that by the time interest began to accrue all operations would be fairly started. But, owing to the general depression, the road was not completed until a year after the time anticipated, and interest charges began to accrue on a large portion of the bonds at a time when the road was in an incomplete condition. Notwithstanding this, as the annexed report shows, the road has earned the interest on its bonded indebtedness accruing to July 1, 1898, and $17,000 in addition.

The road south of Shreveport, having been constructed in the summer months, became almost impassable in the winter, during which time an unusual rainy season prevailed, and from December 1, 1897, there was the greatest difficulty in operating trains over this section, even at reduced speed. It would have saved much money to have detoured trains for at least four months until the track could have been put in suitable condition, but it was deemed unwise to do this, as it would have hindered the development which had begun. Therefore, at great expense the track was maintained so that short trains could be hauled over it and the industrial development of the road continued. As fast as possible this section of the roadbed was repaired and the track is now in good condition, but this was accomplished only at an outlay of large sums of money. These expenses, however, will not recur on this division.

During the last eighteen months the road, in addition to the serious rains mentioned above, which crippled one-third of its mileage, has encountered two epidemics of yellow fever, which for weeks at a time prevented the movement of trains.

In May a series of storms swelled the Arkansas River ten feet above the highest point ever before reached, washing away the approach of the Arkansas River Bridge, thus cutting the road in two for twenty-one days, and forcing us to pay large charges to other roads for handling our trains over their tracks.

DEVELOPMENT.

The management believes that the commercial, industrial and agricultural developments during the last two years are unprecedented. At the inception of the road the fact that we would run through a country unexcelled in natural resources was fully appreciated, and every effort was made to develop the land and mineral deposits. Experts were employed to investigate the coal and other mineral lands; competent agriculturists were sent down to examine and report on the productiveness of the soil. Experts in rice culture carefully examined the land most suitable for growing rice and experienced lumber men were sent down to inquire into the extent and quality of the pine forests, in order to ascertain the points where mills could be most favorably located.

I will mention some of the results which have been achieved. The immigration department, during the last two years, has located agents in the more populous sections of the North, and through these agencies it has been able to locate thousands of settlers along the line. Many towns have been built during the last two years. One of them is Mena, with a population of at least 2,500. This city has now arranged for an electric-lighting plant and water works and has a telephone service established. Good brick buildings have been erected and the result of this two years' work is highly gratifying. The freight receipts for twelve months to and from Mena have amounted to $75,000 00.

Only a short distance from Mena is the town of De Queen, started only eighteen months ago, and it now has a population of 1,700 people. Numerous saw and stave mills have been erected. Freight revenues to and from this station during the last twelve months amounted to $60,335.

I could refer to 30 or 40 other towns which have been built up, but these examples will suffice.

The timber experts sent to the South were instructed to ascertain the owners of the timber lands in the different sections and to concentrate as nearly as possible tracts of from twenty to thirty thousand acres. This work required a great deal of time, patience and good judgment. During three years four Companies were formed which own a large portion of the timber land. One of these Companies bought 100,000 acres at a cost of about five hundred thousand dollars; two Companies purchased tracts costing $165,000 each, and one Company paid $120,000 for land. These Companies were able to offer the mill men large tracts of land on which to erect mills.

Within a few weeks after the completion of the road the erection of several mills was begun, and freight earnings from this section in the last three months from Shreveport to Port Arthur have amounted to $179,000 and passenger earnings to $21,000.

The Lumber Tonnage for one year is as follows:

One of the best features of the road is the development of fruit growing, especially in the Ozark region. It was almost impossible to get outside capital to invest therein, but in order that the Railroad might obtain revenue, a Company was formed (with a capital of $175,000), which began by buying 4,500 acres of land for fruit raising, of which 1,600 acres are now planted. Another Company was formed, and it has planted 600 acres of fruit trees. From the confidence which has been inspired by these undertakings, at least 3,000 acres of land outside that held by these Companies have been planted. These orchards will begin bearing next year and a large revenue will be derived therefrom.

The Geologist employed discovered a large quarry of fine building stone near Neosho. A company was formed to develop the property and sufficient stone has been taken out to build a large commercial house at Neosho, two school buildings in the State and one of the largest churches in Kansas City. The Geologist called attention to the blue trap rock in the vicinity of De Queen, which was brought to the notice of the Park Board of Kansas City, and after investigation it was adopted for street construction. Other cities are now using this material.

In connection with the improvement of the harbor of Sabine, which forms the approach to Port Arthur Canal, the Contractors employed by the Government arranged with the Railroad Company to secure all the rock required for this work from quarries developed on the line of the road. This involves the movement of 450,000 tons of rock to Port Arthur, a distance of about one hundred and thirty miles. About twenty-five cars of this material are moved daily, and this will continue for a period of eighteen months.

The experts who examined the land in the vicinity of Port Arthur found it to be excellent for rice growing. In order to demonstrate the value of the land for rice culture, 3,000 acres were bought by a company organized for that purpose. Irrigating ditches were constructed and the crop which has just been harvested proves that this is a most successful venture. The average production of rice is from 8 to 12 sacks per acre, but the production has gone as high as 22 sacks per acre. From the 700 acres which the Rice Company has planted this year, it will have a revenue of about $25,000. The good results obtained by this Company will induce others to engage in this cultivation. Thus cars carrying wheat to Port Arthur can, in part, be used for hauling rice north bound.

The Company has made special efforts to encourage those enterprises which aid in the development of the natural resources of its territory, but in no case has the Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf Railroad Company acquired any financial interest in any of these enterprises.

A feature of the business for 1899 that will prove of great importance is the opening of the Indian Territory under the Curtis Act. In the section now to be opened and which is traversed by 127 miles of the Company's main line, valuable deposits of lead, zinc, coal and marble will be developed. Forests of great value exist and thousands of acres of excellent farming land will be thrown open soon after January 1st, 1899.

If the road had been sufficiently equipped its gross earnings for the last few months would have been much larger and the net earnings would have shown well in excess of the interest on the bonds. During the last two months the road has not been able to furnish over one-half of the coal cars required for the business offered.

The saw-mills (of which there are about one hundred and twenty) are all demanding more cars than the road can furnish. The equipment problem is the most important one which the management has to deal with. Fifteen (15) ten-wheel engines will arrive in a few days from the Baldwin Locomotive Works and 400 coal cars, 150 flat cars and 489 box cars have been ordered for delivery commeno-ing about November 5th. This will largely increase earnings, but at least 1,500 more box cars are needed, and steps should be taken at once to issue $2,500,000 in equipment bonds. The management feels assured that the property with ample equipment will show large net earnings above the interest on the bonds and that $10,000 will in the near future be the minimum daily earnings.

The steamship business from Port Arthur is developing rapidly. A line of steamers is now conveying freight to and from Mexican ports every two weeks. Owing to the growth of this business it is expected that the number of vessels engaged will soon be doubled. A contract has been made with Furness, Withy & Co., of London and a line of steamers has been established by that firm between Port Arthur and European ports. From November on, three or four vessels a month will be loaded. Messrs. de Poorter & Co., of Rotterdam, are under contract to establish a regular line of steamers between Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Port Arthur, sailing regularly every twenty days, as soon as the canal is finished. This will result in giving the railroad a large amount of packing-house freight, etc., which can not be handled except by regular steamship service. The inauguration of this steamship service involves no financial obligations on the part of the railroad company.

The development of the coal business must of necessity be large. "Smokeless" coal has found great favor with the several railroads which the Pittsburg & Gulf crosses, and it is being used by numerous systems. As soon as the new equipment arrives several other coal contracts can be closed.

The management is confident that few instances can be shown in which a road barely completed as this road is has so soon secured such a large and varied business.

The Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf Railroad has virtually changed the railroad map of the West. It is the shortest line to deep water. Through its connections the distance to Galveston is shorter than by any other line from Kansas City; and in like manner the line to New Orleans is shorter than any other line from Kansas City. It thus has the advantage of three ports. It can carry the grain of the great producing region of which its terminus is the heart to deep water, and it has lumber, rice and fruit to bring back. The record which it has made in the last five months on loads north has been most satisfactory.

As regards future results the conditions are very encouraging.

It is proper to refer to our relations with our connections. The building of this road entailed so many new conditions in the railroad business of this section that natural antagonisms were aroused. Our management was, from several causes, unable to take steps to reconcile the differences which existed, and results hurtful to the Company's revenue obtained for some time. I am glad to be able to state that all difficulties have now been cleared away, and that the Company's relations with its connecting lines are in a most satisfactory condition.

For further information I desire to call your attention to the annexed reports of the General Manager and the Auditor, feeling confident that the next report will prove in many respects that the property possesses all the merits claimed for it. Respectfully,

A. E. STILWELL, President.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL MANAGER.

KANSAS CITY, MO., October 26, 1898.

Mr. A. E. Stilwell, President:

Dear Sir:—I submit this, my annual report, with the General Balance Sheet, and other compilations prepared by the Auditor relating to the operation of the road during the fiscal year.

COMPLETION OF RAILROAD.

The main line between Kansas City and Port Arthur was not completed until September 11, 1897, at a time when yellow fever prevailed in the South and quarantine had been established along the line in Louisiana and Texas, preventing a free movement of traffic. It was not until November that we were able to move business through to Port Arthur with regularity and despatch. The epidemic was followed by the rainy season in the South, which caused unusual trouble and expense in the movement of trains, due to the settling of the newly made road-bed in many places, making the track almost impassable.

It will be noted that while the report covers the entire year, July 1st, 1897, to June 30th, 1898, there were only eight months (November 1st, 1897, to June 30th, 1898) during which the road was operated as a completed line to Port Arthur.

A very short time after the completion of the railroad to Port Arthur disturbing elements in railway circles caused the company much trouble and loss of revenue. This I consider as unavoidable, and the Company's experience in this regard was only such as is met by every new road of considerable mileage. The building of this road changed many existing conditions which could naturally not be re-arranged for some time. It affords me pleasure to state that all complications with connecting lines have been adjusted, and a free and liberal interchange of traffic is now being encouraged by all the railways with which we have business relations. With the rapid development of local and through business now in progress these conditions will contribute largely to increased earnings.

It should be remembered that owing to shortness of time normal conditions have not been established either in the matter of earnings, cost of transportation, or conditions of track. In my opinion we should not expect to secure these conditions for from four to five years hence. In the meantime, however, we can confidently look forward to a steady improvement.

TRACK.

I may state that the management is working with the intention of securing the best possible track conditions. Large quantities of ballast are being placed in the track every month. The intention is to continue this work until the entire system is covered.

EQUIPMENT.

With the development of the property there is a demand for additional motive power and car equipment that cannot be disregarded. We have contracted for and will receive 15 new locomotives, four hundred coal cars, one hundred and fifty flat cars and four hundred and eighty-nine box cars this fall, which will materially aid the transportation department in the movement of business. A greatly increased tonnage in coal and lumber can be secured provided the power and car equipment to handle it are furnished, and arrangements should be made at once for equipment additional to that now contracted for. The plan of paying for all the equipment out of earnings by monthly payments of lease warrants is a tax on the earnings that should be avoided. I urge the adoption of some plan that will reduce the amount of monthly payments of lease warrants and extend the payments over a longer period than that called for in the ordinary car trust agreements.

OPERATING EXPENSES.

The operating expenses for the year amounted to 74·33 per cent of the gross receipts. Considering the extraordinary and unavoidable conditions existing, this result is not unsatisfactory. In every new road much time, care and unremitting attention are necessary to establish an economical and efficient standard. The train service must be organized and the employes must be drilled in their respective duties. It is not possible to judge of efficiency by comparison with other roads in the same section. A new road cannot be compared with an old road of like character in the same section. A road can best be compared with itself, that is, results of the present year should be compared with those of the previous year. This Company has no past history to compare this fiscal year (1897-98) with. Hence I am not able to discuss the units of cost shown in the Auditor's tables. I can only say that the closest supervision is exercised, and that while insisting on the greatest economy, care is yet taken that efficiency be not impaired. With the assistance of my subordinates I have been able to make several economies, and I am satisfied that the result of the present fiscal year will show considerable improvement.

INCOME.

The complications in the matter of rates and divisions with connecting lines and the unfavorable conditions under which the road was operated, with the track unfinished to Port Arthur, yellow fever restrictions during the summer of 1897, washouts during the spring, and early summer floods, all made it impossible to secure a minimum cost of operation and a maximum of gross receipts.

With increased mileage came increased interest charges, and also conditions that made it impossible to show the earning power of the railroad.

Notwithstanding these unfavorable conditions, the income account shows a surplus of $17,993 96 at the close of the fiscal year. There has been a decided and steady improvement in the earning power of the property during the year just closed.

Reports of the operation of the road for August, 1898, the most favorable in its history, show that with inadequate equipment and a deficiency of motive power, the road was operated for 66 25-100 per cent.

The statistics for August, 1898, are as follows:

Gross Earnings	$312,572 11
Operating Expenses	207,065 25
Tons Carried for Revenue	153,897
Average Haul in Miles per Ton	323
Revenue Freight Train Mileage	183,717
Rate per Ton per Mile	·502c.
Tons of Revenue Freight in Train	271
Revenue per Ton	$1·62
Movement Expenses per Ton per Mile	·093c.
Average Load per Car	22 Tons.

The average haul, as will be seen by the foregoing table, is 323 miles, which for a road of 800 miles is exceptional. The average revenue load per train of 271 tons is high and the average load per car of 22 tons is a good record.

Attention is called particularly to the long average haul per ton of freight, being 302·60 miles during the year 1897-8 and 323 miles during August, 1898, showing that on account of favorable local conditions the development of the business tends to increase the average haul per ton. This long and increasing average haul per ton is a sufficient answer to any criticisms that may be made upon the average earnings per ton per mile.

The Company enters a new fiscal year with all controversies disposed of, with closer friendly relations with connecting lines, with evidences of a satisfactory and increasing business, with an organization complete and compact, and with favorable conditions generally.

Respectfully,

ROBERT GILLHAM, General Manager.

FEDERAL STEEL COMPANY.

APPLICATION TO NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TO LIST PREFERRED AND COMMON STOCK.

NEW YORK, November 4, 1898.

The Federal Steel Company hereby makes application for the listing of 532,610 shares of its Preferred Stock and 464,843 shares of its Common Stock.

The Federal Steel Company is a corporation of the State of New Jersey, incorporated on September 9, 1898. The company, by its articles of incorporation, is authorized (among other things) to engage in "Mining of all kinds, manufacturing of all kinds; transportation of goods, merchandise, or passengers, upon land or water; building houses, structures, vessels, ships, boats, railroads, engines, cars, or other equipment, wharves or docks; constructing, maintaining and operating railroads (other than railroads within the State of New Jersey), steamship lines, vessel lines, or other lines for transportation; the purchase, improvement or sale of lands."

The articles of incorporation further provide that "The Board of Directors shall have power, without the assent or vote of the stockholders, to make, alter, amend and rescind the by laws of the corporation, to fix the amount to be reserved as working capital, to authorize and to cause to be executed mortgages and liens upon the real and personal property of the corporation, and from time to time to sell, assign, transfer or otherwise dispose of any or all of the property of the corporation; but no such sale of all of the property shall be made except pursuant to the vote of at least two-thirds of the Board of Directors."

We hand you herewith copy of certificate of incorporation.

The authorized capital of said company is $200,000,000, viz.: $100,000,000 Preferred Stock and $100,000,000 Common Stock, being 1,000,000 shares Preferred Stock and 1,000,000 shares of Common Stock of $100 par value each.

The distinction between the two classes of stock is set forth in its certificate of incorporation, as follows:

"The Preferred Stock shall be entitled, out of any and all surplus net profits, whenever declared by the Board of Directors, to non-cumulative dividends at the rate of, but not exceeding, six per cent per annum for the fiscal year beginning on the first day of January, 1899, and for each and every fiscal year thereafter, payable in preference and priority to any payment of any dividend on the common stock for such fiscal year. In addition thereto, in the event of the dissolution of the corporation, the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to receive the par value of their preferred shares out of the surplus funds of the corporation before anything shall be paid therefrom to the holders of the common stock.

"The Common Stock shall be subject to the prior rights of the holders of the preferred stock, as herein declared. If, after providing for the payment of full dividends for any fiscal year on the preferred stock, there shall remain any surplus net profits of such year, any and all such surplus net profits of such year, and of any other fiscal year for which full dividends shall have been paid on the preferred stock, shall be applicable to dividends upon the common stock, when and as from time to time the same shall be declared by the Board of Directors, and out of any such surplus net profits, after the close of any fiscal year, the Board of Directors may pay dividends upon the common stock of the corporation for such fiscal year, but not until after the dividends upon the preferred stock for such fiscal year shall have been actually paid, or provided and set apart."

Pursuant to an arrangement with the syndicate hereinafter referred to, an offer was made in its behalf, through the Colonial Trust Company of New York and the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, to issue, in exchange for shares of Minnesota Iron Co. stock, Illinois Steel Co. stock and Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway Co. stock, shares of this company's stock on the following basis:

Each existing share of Minnesota Iron Co. (upon payment thereon of the sum of $27 10 in cash) to be entitled to $\frac{265}{1000}$ share in preferred stock of Federal Steel Company and $\frac{184}{1000}$ shares in common stock of Federal Steel Company.

Each existing share of Illinois Steel Co. (upon payment thereon of the sum of $20 in cash) to be entitled to 1 share in preferred stock of Federal Steel Company and 9-10 of 1 share in common stock of Federal Steel Company.

Each existing share of Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway Co (upon payment thereon of the sum of $17 50 cash) to be entitled to $\frac{7}{10}$ of one share in preferred stock of Federal Steel Company and 7-10 of one share in common stock of Federal Steel Company.

The company has acquired from the syndicate and owns 184,147 shares out of a total of 165,000 shares of the Capital Stock of the Minnesota Iron Company; 184,083 shares out of a total of 196,596 35-100 shares of the Capital Stock of the Illinois Steel Company; and 60,000 shares, being the total of Capital Stock of the Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway Co.

It has also received the sum of $14,075,000 in cash.

The company has also acquired and owns 30,000 shares preferred stock and 60,000 shares common stock of Lorain Steel Company, being the entire Capital Stock of said company; also 20,000 shares stock of Johnson Company of Pennsylvania, being the entire Capital Stock of said company.

In payment for the said shares of the above-named companies and for said cash this company has issued, or is under obligation to issue, to a syndicate and otherwise, 527,670 shares of its Preferred Stock and 464,843 shares of its Common Stock; and, in addition thereto, as part of the purchase price of the Lorain and Johnson Stocks and for extensive additions to the Lorain property, now being constructed, the company has agreed to pay out about $5,000,000 in cash.

After the acquisition of these properties and the completion of extensive improvements in progress, the company will have upwards of $9,000,000 in cash.

Without creating any right in favor of outstanding stockholders of the Minnesota Iron Company or the Illinois Steel Company, it is willing at the present time to issue its Preferred Stock for outstanding shares of said companies at the following rates:

For each share of Minn. Iron Co. 1 $\frac{765}{1000}$ shares in Preferred Stock:
For each share of Illinois Steel Co. one share in Pref. Stock.

If all of the few outstanding shares are thus acquired it will be requisite to issue 4,934 shares additional Preferred Stock of the Federal Steel Company.

This will make a total issue of Federal Steel Company stock as follows: 532,610 shares of Preferred Stock and 464,843 shares of Common Stock. All shares are of the par value of $100 each.

CONSOLIDATED KANSAS CITY SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY.

APPLICATION TO NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TO LIST REMAINDER OF PREFERRED STOCK.

NEW YORK, November 1, 1898.

The Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Company hereby makes application for listing 45,147 shares of the Preferred Stock of the company, of the par value $25—a total of $1,128,675, making a total issue of Preferred Stock of 80,000 shares, aggregating $2,000,000.

The Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Company is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York under date of April 1, 1887. It conducts a general smelting and refining business, and owns and operates mining properties in the United States and Mexico. The company was created by the consolidation of four previously existing companies: The Arkansas Valley Smelting Company, the El Paso Smelting Works, the Kansas City Smelting & Refining Company and the Mexican Ore Company.

INTERNATIONAL METAL COMPANY.—For the proper conduct of the business of the Consolidated Company, especially with a view to the separation of the manufacturing and mining departments of the company, it was deemed expedient and advisable to organize the International Metal Company in December, 1894. This company was organized under the laws of the State of New York, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. The entire capital stock of the Metal Company is owned by the Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Company. The property of the International Metal Company is free from encumbrances.

Properties and their capacity:

1. Arkansas Valley Smelting Works.—At Leadville the smelting works have a capacity of 300,000 tons per annum.
2. El Paso Smelting Works. At El Paso the smelting works have a capacity of 240,000 tons per annum.
3. Argentine Smelting & Refining Works.—The smelting works have a capacity of 150,000 tons per annum. The refining works have a capacity of 60,000 tons of lead-silver bullion per annum, of 40 000 tons of pig lead, 24,000,000 ounces of silver, and an unlimited quantity of gold. The chemical works for the manufacture of blue vitriol have a capacity of 600 tons per month, and for the manufacture of zinc sulphate a capacity of 50 tons per month.
4. Mines. At Cook's Peak, New Mexico, the company owns mines producing approximately 1,000 tons of lead-silver ore per month.

The property of the International Metal Company consists of

1. A smelter at El Carmen with a capacity of 30,000 tons per annum.
2. Crushing and sampling works at the following points in Mexico: Pachuca, Jimenez, Chihuahua and Hermosillo.
3. Mining properties in Mexico as follows: At El Carmen, Sierra Mojada, Parral and Chihuahua, producing on an average 4,000 tons of ore per month.

CAPITAL STOCK.—At the time of the organization of the company the Capital Stock was $2,000,000, divided into 80,000 shares of the par value of $25 each. This stock was listed upon the Stock Exchange in January, 1888.

On May 1, 1890, $1,000.000 Six Per Cent Gold Bonds were issued, a mortgage being placed upon the works at Argentine, Leadville and El Paso.

On the 22nd of February, 1892, the Common Capital Stock of the company was increased to $2,500,000. Of the increase of $500,000, $250,000 was listed on the 24th of February, 1892, and the remaining $250,000 on the 8th of March, 1893. This $500,000 (less $35,000 set aside for sale at par to employes of the company) was distributed to stockholders in the form of scrip dividends in February, 1892, and March, 1893, such dividends being declared and paid as against current net earnings.

On the 25th of January, 1894, the stockholders authorized the issuance of $1,000,000 Seven Per Cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, and on the 4th of January, 1896, a further $1,000,000 of similar preferred stock was authorized. Of this preferred stock there was listed under your authorization of June 24th, 1896, $721,825, and under your authorization of April 7th, 1897, $350,000, making a total of $971,825, divided into 38,873 shares.

The conditions governing the Preferred Stock are set forth in the resolution adopted by the stockholders of the company June 4, 1896:

[For text of the resolution see CHRONICLE issue of July 4, 1896, page 33].

The authorized and outstanding issue of capital is as follows: $2,500,000 common stock, $1,000,000 bonds, $2,000,000 preferred stock. The increase in capital since the organization of the consolidated company, by issuance of $1,000,000 bonds, $500,000 common stock and $2,000,000 preferred, is represented by direct expenditure, for increase of investment and plant, of $1,686,813·52 as per list filed herewith, and by additional payments for construction charged directly to profit and loss, amounting to $1,892,530·06.

INCREASE IN PRODUCTION.—The growth of the company may be shown by a comparison of product as follows:

We present herewith condensed balance sheet of the Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Company and of the International Metal Company, both as of June 30, 1898. Also statement showing the amount of money expended for construction in each year during the years 1890 to 1897, inclusive, and the corresponding increase in the capitalization of the company for the same period.

The increase in capacity of plant, and in improvements of appliances and machinery were deemed necessary in order to meet the natural increase of the business of the company, and also to permit a reduction in the cost of operating.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 11, 1898.

The principle feature of the week has been the elections held on Tuesday in most States of the Union. The result has been such as to create general confidence, as the party identified with sound money has met with sufficient success to give it control of both houses of Congress. The losses which the free silver party met with in its own strongholds has had the effect to emphasize the fact that the silver fallacy is fast losing its supporters. Business has been interrupted to some extent by the election. During the latter part of the week, however, there were indications of a general revival of activity, reflecting the confidence shown in nearly all lines of trade. Slow progress has continued to mark the work of the Peace Commissioners at Paris. Lord Salisbury's address on Wednesday has received much attention, as it is thought to have important bearing upon the present tension in European political circles.

Lard on the spot has sold slowly, as both exporters and refiners have been light buyers. Offerings have been fairly free and prices have declined, closing at 5·25c. for prime Western, and 4⅞c. for prime City. Refined lard has had only a small sale, and prices have declined to 5·50c. for refined for the Continent. Speculation in lard for future delivery has been quiet and prices have declined under aggressive selling by bear operators and packers.

Fresh eggs have been firm for choice stock, closing at 23c. for choice Western.

Brazil grades of coffee have had a slightly better distributing sale, although higher prices have held business in check to some extent. The market for invoices has been moderately active and firmer. A falling off in the crop movement has been the principal strengthening feature. The close was steady, with Rio No. 7 on the spot quoted at 6⅛@6¼c. Speculation in the market for contracts has been more active, and prices have advanced on buying for European and local account, stimulated by a small movement of the crop and stronger advices from Brazil. Following are the final asking prices:

Speculation in cotton for future delivery has been of the same spiritless character noted for some time past, prices being on too low a basis to admit of extensive operations on the bear side of the market, and there have been no developments of a nature to stimulate buying for investment account. Naturally with such conditions existing the outside interest shown in the market has been small and regular operators have confined their ventures to scalping transactions. Weather conditions in the cotton belt have been of a less favorable nature, inasmuch as there has been a sharp drop in the temperature, with rains reported in some sections. These reports sufficed to advance prices several points on Wednesday and during early 'Change Thursday. Subsequently, however, following the receipt of the monthly report by the Government's Agricultural Bureau, which made the average yield of cotton lint per acre 219 pounds, against 181·9 pounds, the Government figures last year (which were about 45 pounds short of the actual yield), there developed an easier tone under increased pressure to sell by operators who interpreted the Government report as bearish, and nearly all the improvement was lost. The movement of the crop has continued large and has also served to keep prices on their present low basis. To-day the market was easier during early change in response to weaker foreign advices. Subsequently, in the absence of sellers and some buying for investment account, and to cover short sales, prices advanced, closing 2@4 points higher for the day. Cotton on the spot has been quiet and unchanged at 5 5 16c. for middling uplands.

The rates on and off middling, as established Sept. 15, 1898, by the Revision Committee, at which grades other than middling may be delivered on contract, are as follows.

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

Quotations Nov. 11 at Savannah, for Floridas, common, 8¼c.; medium fine, 9¼c.; choice, 13c.

Charleston, Carolinas, medium fine, 17 to 18c.; fully fine, 21c.; extra fine, 40 to 50c.

Agricultural Department's Cotton Report for November 1.—The report on yield per acre issued by the Agricultural Department on November 10 is as follows:

Preliminary reports to the Statistician of the Department of Agriculture indicate an average yield of 209 pounds of cotton per acre. The State averages are as follows: Virginia, 144; North Carolina, 227; South Carolina, 245; Georgia, 183, Florida, 117; Alabama, 195; Mississippi, 229. Louisiana, 272; Texas, 212; Arkansas, 200; Tennessee, 181; Missouri, 206; Oklahoma, 219; Indian Territory, 325.

In the determination of these preliminary figures reference has been made not merely to the estimated number of pounds per acre reported by correspondents, but also to the quantitative comparison made by correspondents with last year's crop and other criteria. An increase of about 150,000 acres has been made by the Department to its preliminary estimate of the acreage in Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. The indications point to a total cotton crop not far short of ten million bales.

DOMESTIC EXPORTS OF COTTON MANUFACTURES.—We give below a statement showing the exports of domestic cotton manufactures for September and for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1898, and for purposes of comparison like figures for the corresponding periods of the previous year are also presented:

COMPARATIVE PORT RECEIPTS AND DAILY CROP MOVEMENT.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for seeing the exact relative movement for the years named. The monthly movements since September 1, 1898, and in previous years, have been as follows:

This statement shows that up to October 31 the receipts at the ports this year were 221,835 bales more than in 1897 and 52,442 bales greater than in 1896. By adding to the totals to Sept. 30 the daily receipts since that time we shall be able to reach an exact comparison of the movement for the different years.

This statement shows that the receipts since Sept. 1 up to to-night are now 322,709 bales more than they were to the same day of the month in 1897 and 363,087 bales greater than they were to the same day of the month in 1896. We add to the table the percentages of total port receipts which had been received to Nov. 11 in each of the years named.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—There has been a fair demand for jute bagging during the week under review, but quotations continue as last reported, viz., 6¼c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6⅝c. for 2lbs. standard grade. Car-load lots of standard brands are quoted at 6⅛c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6½c. for 2 lbs., f. o. b. at New York. Jute butts have been very dull at ·90c. for paper quality and 1¾c. for mixing.

NEW ENGLAND COTTON MILLS SITUATION.—The Border City Cotton Mills, Nos. 1 and 3, of Fall River, started up with practically all the help required on Monday morning last after a stoppage of over two months, due to a strike.

NEW YORK COTTON EXCHANGE—PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE RULES.—The members of the New York Cotton Exchange, at a meeting to be held Monday, Nov. 14, at 12 o'clock, will consider the proposed amendment to Section 81 adopted at a recent meeting of the Board of Managers.

At that meeting it was voted to strike out the words "and a separate receipt for each lot" from the first paragraph of Section 81, making the paragraph read:

Section 81.—After cotton has been sampled and weighed, negotiable warehouse receipts, stating the marks of bales and lot numbers shall be immediately issued to owners of cotton; no receipts to be for more than about 100 bales, or 50,000 pounds; such receipts shall be lettered and numbered by each warehouse consecutively, and no two receipts shall bear the same letter or number.

From the second paragraph it was decided to strike out the words "he shall also issue a certificate stating the name of the warehouse, number of letter of the warehouse receipt, marks of bales and lot numbers" and to substitute the following:

"He shall also issue for each lot number contained in the receipt a certificate, stating the name of the warehouse, the number or letter of the warehouse receipt, the marks of bales and lot numbers, and the weight of the same, making that paragraph read:

"Upon presentation by the owner of such warehouse receipts to the Inspector-in-Chief at his office, it shall be the duty of the Inspector-in-Chief to stamp thereon the weight of the cotton, in accordance with the records of his office. He shall also issue for each lot number contained in the receipt a certificate stating the name of the warehouse, the number or letter of the warehouse receipt, the marks of bales and lot numbers, and the weight of the same, whether compressed or uncompressed, and also the number of bales of each grade, in accordance with the certificate rendered to him by the Classification Committee or the Appeal Committee on Classification. Then following shall be a certification, signed by the Inspector-in-Chief, that the grade as specified is correct. Provided, however, that the Bureau in case no responsibility for errors in the statement of cotton, compressed or uncompressed."

It was also resolved to insert as a new paragraph to follow the second paragraph of the same section the following:

When any lot number included in a receipt is delivered, the warehouse company must indorse the same mark and lot number on the back of the receipt, and the Inspector-in-Chief stamp opposite the indorsement the weight of that particular lot; provided, however, that all warehouse receipts tendered on the contract delivered must be without any indorsement upon delivery.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 11, 1898.

The volume of business transacted in the market for wheat flour has been of only very moderate proportions, as both the home trade and exporters have been slow buyers. There has been slightly increased pressure to sell spring patents, and it has been possible to obtain slight concessions in values. Other grades have held steady, and as buyers have held off endeavoring to obtain supplies at lower prices, it has held business in check. Rye flour has had only a jobbing sale, but values have been well maintained. Buckwheat flour has been in better demand and at higher prices. Corn meal has had a fair sale at steady values.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has been on a moderate scale only, and no radical changes have occurred in values for the week, although the tendency has been towards slightly lower prices under some aggressive selling by bear operators prompted by the heavy movement of the crop in the Northwest and a further falling off in the export business. Saturday there was an easier market and prices declined ¾@⅞c. under moderate offerings, prompted by weaker foreign advices, a falling off in the export demand and reports of increased estimates of the Russian crop. Monday there was a quiet but steady market. Tuesday was a holiday. Wednesday prices advanced ½@¾c. in response to decidedly stronger foreign advices and a more active export business. Thursday the market was again easier, prices declining ⅝@⅞c. under easier foreign advices accompanied by selling orders, and selling for local and Western account prompted by the free movement of the crop. Business in the spot market has been only moderately active as the demand from exporters has fallen off to some extent. To-day the market was firmer on buying by shorts to cover contracts, stimulated by a revival of the export demand, closing at an advance for the day of ½@⅝c. The spot market was active and higher, the sales for export here and at outports late Thursday and to-day amounting to about 1,000,000 bushels.

Indian corn futures have been quiet, but the tone of the market has held steady. Saturday there was a slight decline of ¼c. in prices, in response to weaker foreign advices and a free movement of the crop. Subsequently, however, the loss was recovered.. There was a demand from shorts to cover contracts. There was also some buying for investment account, stimulated by unfavorable conditions in the corn belt and a fairly brisk cash trade. Business in the spot market has been fairly active, as exporters have continued buyers, although not on as extensive a scale as noted latterly. To-day the market was easier during early 'Change on the favorable Government report. Subsequently there was an advance in sympathy with the improvement in wheat. The spot market was only moderately active. The sales for export here and at outports amounted to about 210,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery in the Western market have been quiet, and the changes in prices have been unimportant. Early in the week, under free offerings, prices eased off a fraction, then recovered the decline on unfavorable weather reports, but again eased off a fraction in sympathy with a decline in values for other grains. Business in the spot market has been only moderately active, but values have held fairly steady. To-day the market was quiet but steady, both for futures and on the spot.

Agricultural Department's Report.—The Agricultural Department's report on the cereal and other crops was issued on November 10, and is given below:

The November report of the Statistician of the Department of Agriculture will give 24·9 bushels as the average yield per acre of corn, according to the preliminary returns of the Department's correspondents. The preliminary estimate last year was 23·7 bushels, and that of 1896, 27·3 bushels. The indicated yield in the principal corn States is as follows: Pennsylvania, 32; Ohio, 36; Indiana, 36; Illinois, 30; Iowa, 32; Missouri, 16; Kansas, 19, and Nebraska, 21. The average per cent of quality is 92·7, as compared with 86·3 in 1897, and 88·4 in 1896. Reports indicate that about 7·35 per cent of the crop of 1897 is still in the hands of the farmers.

The preliminary estimate of the average yield of buckwheat is 17·3 bushels per acre, against 20·7 bushels last year and 18·7 bushels in 1896. The averages in New York and Pennsylvania, the two States of principal production, are 16·4 and 17·2 bushels per acre respectively. The average per cent of quality is 85·2, as compared with 94·2 in November of last year.

The estimated average yield of hay is 1·35 tons per acre, as compared with 1·42 tons last year. The present indicated average is the highest on record, and the crop of 1898 was unquestionably the largest ever gathered. In point of quality the average is 95·3, against 92·8 last year and 92·9 in 1896.

The estimated average yield of Irish potatoes is 75·2 bushels per acre, as compared with 64·5 bushels last year and 86·8 bushels in 1896. The average per cent of quality is 84·7, against 81·3 in November last and 89·2 in November, 1896.

The special wheat investigation is approaching completion. It is believed that it will not only serve its primary purpose of indicating with approximate accuracy the wheat production of the present year, but will prove of permanent value to the Department in its bearing upon the existing methods of reporting this important crop.

The indicated yield of corn for the whole country for 1898 makes the following comparison with the results for the four preceding years:

THE DRY GOODS TRADE

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 11, 1898.

The general demand on account of the home trade for seasonable supplies of cotton and woolen goods has shown little variation from recent weeks, being governed entirely by a piecing-out policy on the part of buyers. The elections and the holiday were something of an interference, but not materially so. The best feature of the business now in progress is the demand on spring account for the various lines of cotton fabrics on the market for next season. While this can hardly be described as active, it is of considerable extent in the aggregate and encouraging as an indication of the estimates jobbers and others form of the probable distribution for next season. Spring business in more staple lines should develop shortly, and it is expected to reach a good sized volume. The cotton market is not exercising any new influence and the Governmental estimate of total yield issued this week has been quite ignored. The only changes in prices have been in shirting prints as noted below. Business in woolen goods of all descriptions is still unsatisfactory, although gradually expanding for spring.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The new business and re-orders on spring account for men's-wear woolens and worsteds show some increase over recent weeks, but the expansion is by no means sufficient to put this division of the market in anything like a satisfactory condition. The tone of the market is easy and sellers find it difficult to resist the influence of insufficient demand and a declining market for raw wool. The re-order business for heavy-weights is fair for the time of year. No business has been done openly as yet for next heavy-weight season. The demand for overcoatings is moderate and prices irregular. Cloakings are inactive. Dress goods are quiet and no more satisfactorily situated than men's wear goods. Flannels and blankets steady but demand light.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 7 were 10,544 packages, valued at $381,959, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $9,808,389 in 1898, against $8,925,505 in 1897.

Export grades of heavy brown sheetings and drills continue very firm in price, but the business doing is on a more limited scale than of late. Home buying in heavy brown goods is moderate, but fine yarn, light weights, have sold more freely at steady prices. Ducks are dull and irregular, and brown osnaburgs slow and easy. Leading agents have not made any change in prices of bleached cottons, and pending action on their part the demand continues indifferent. Wide sheetings slow. Cotton flannels and blankets quiet but steady. Denims have been sold to clean up stocks at very low prices. Market now steadier. Ticks dull and easy. Plaids steady. Other coarse colored cottons quiet and in favor of buyers. Kid-finished cambrics dull and unchanged. American shirting prints have been reduced to 3c. per yard, the lowest price on record, similar lines following suit. Considerable sales have been made. In other printed lines the market has been without material change. Ginghams well sold up in fine grades and firm. Print cloths have been in better demand at 2c. for regulars, considerable sales being made thereat.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—Complaints of the poor business secured thus far for spring are quite general, particularly in the woolen goods division of the market. Silks and cotton fabrics for spring have been in moderate demand. Ribbons quiet and linens dull.

Lampasas City, Texas.—Historical Facts Concerning Outstanding Bonds.—Messrs. Matthews & Browning, attorneys-at-law, send us some facts that will be interesting to the holders of the outstanding bonds of this city:

In 1873 the city of Lampasas was incorporated by Special Act of the Legislature, and in 1876 it ceased to elect officers or carry on any municipal business. In 1883 the citizens residing within the boundaries prescribed by the Act of 1873 and those residing in the surrounding territory, ignoring the Act of 1873 and treating the old municipal corporation as abolished, organized a municipal organization under the name of the City of Lampasas, and in 1885 issued bonds to the amount of $10,000 to pay for a system of water works.

In 1887 the organization of 1883 was by the Supreme Court of the State of Texas declared to be illegal and the corporation created in 1873 declared to be the only existing municipal corporation. This decision was considered as holding all acts of the organization existing from 1883 to 1889 to be void.

In 1889 the city was reorganized under the charter of 1873, and soon afterwards legally added much of the territory that had been included within the boundaries of the attempted incorporation of 1883, and has since continued its municipal organization. In 1894 it issued bonds to the amount of $15,000 to build a public-school building.

In 1897 some of the holders of the water-works bonds instituted suits in the United States Circuit Court at Austin on coupons of the water-works bonds, and other suits are about to be instituted.

One of these suits was tried in July, 1898, and resulted in a judgment against the city, as stated in the CHRONICLE July 16, 1898.

The Court held that the proceedings under the incorporation of 1883 were but irregularities, and that in fact but one incorporation had existed since 1873; that the acts of the officers acting from 1883 to 1889 were not void, and that the water-works bonds were valid obligations against the present city. The effect of this judgment unreversed is to establish the validity of the water-works bonds, on which there is now due principal and interest amounting to $65,000, and the further effect is to destroy the value of the bonds issued to build the public-school building. It has this effect for two reasons, viz.:

First—Owing to the decreased assessed values of property of the city the total amount that can be raised by taxation to pay interest is less than $2,000 per year and this will not pay the interest on the water works bonds, to which it must be first applied.

Second—If the water works bonds are valid, then by their issuance the city exhausted its power to issue bonds and the school house bonds are void.

The question is an interesting one and the city has appealed the case. For their own protection the holders of the school bonds are asked to correspond with J. W. Townsen, Mayor.

Nassau County, N. Y.—County Seat.—The proposition to make Mineola the county seat of the new county of Nassau was carried at the general election held November 8, 1898.

Paducah, Ky.—Litigation.—The City Council has stopped payment of interest (pending suit to determine their legality) on $100,000 railroad-aid bonds issued about ten years ago. These bonds were to be refunded on Dec. 1, 1898, and the contract for the sale of the new bonds was closed last spring.

Rhode Island.—New Constitution Rejected.—At the general election held November 8, 1898, the new Constitution failed of adoption, the proposition lacking about 1,000 votes of the required three-fifths.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

We present below our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, November 12, and the results for the corresponding week in 1897, 1896 and 1895 are also given. In comparison with the preceding week, and due to the election holiday, there is a decrease in the aggregate exchanges of ninety-one million dollars, but at New York alone the loss is only twenty-three millions. Contrasted with the week of 1897 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 4·9 per cent. Compared with the week of 1896 the current returns record a gain of 16·2 per cent, and the excess over 1895 is 18·8 per cent. Outside of New York the increase over 1897 is 1·8 per cent. The excess over 1896 reaches 13·8 per cent, and making comparison with 1895 the gain is seen to be 4·8 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The more prominent features of the week have been an active investment demand for stocks and bonds, a hardening tendency for money, easier foreign exchange rates, a phenomenal trade statement issued by the Bureau of Statistics, and at times an unfavorable prospect reported as to the final conclusion of the Spanish-American Peace Congress at Paris. Of course, operating in connection with these and other influences have been the encouraging results of the recent elections; every favorable or unfavorable proclivity has been supplemented or modified by the outcome of those issues which added so materially to the strength of our currency situation and afforded the aspect of early and permanent reform legislation. Consequently, through every set-back the stock market has experienced, the trend of Stock Exchange values has been constantly upward.

It would of course be a mistake to conclude, because an unusual industrial revival appears to be in prospect, that there is no limit to the worth of securities. We do not need to say that average earning capacity is the measure of price. At the same time it is doubtless true that our carriers are in condition to move more traffic than they have at any period hitherto done, and the presumption is that we have nowhere near reached the limit in production and distribution of which our rehabilitated nation is capable. Some argue that because good wheat crops were the beginning of the measure of prosperity we now are enjoying, that if that inducement were absent any year, railroad traffic and general business would lapse from their present situation to their status in 1894.

This country in a normal condition of affairs cannot be thrown into an inactive state by a set-back in any single industry, even though it be a large industry. We have passed through a long period when something of that kind was possible; a period, indeed, when the country's enterprise and energies were so fettered and crippled that we were not able to get prosperity even out of very favorable agricultural results. Take 1895 as illustration, when the aggregate of wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye crops reached the unprecedented aggregate of 3,556,767,878 bushels, and when our production of iron was likewise unprecedented, being for the full twelve months 9,446,308 tons; or take 1896, when we not only raised very good crops, but obtained likewise for them the highest prices realized for many a twelve-month. What kind of industrial results did the country reap in those two years? Study the facts and figures given in our annual reviews each January. Neither abundant crops nor unprecedented iron production, nor both, could revive our industries. It was only after our people spoke in 1896 with no uncertain voice for a gold currency that prosperity began; it received another and decided impulse when they spoke again this month; it will rise to proportions few realize and never yet equaled when currency stability becomes fixed and unalterable. Not till then will our reproductive forces get fully at work, and when they do it will require more than a short wheat crop to arrest their progress.

We have mentioned, among the influences of the week, the trade statement for October made public on Tuesday. It is in many ways an epochal exhibit. We assume that statement to have been one of the facts that discouraged and dampened the spirit which is controlling the speculation in foreign exchange. At least, with the publication of those figures, weakness in exchange became a distinct feature. It must have appeared evident on reading the October results, to any one at all conversant with the situation of the foreign trade balance, that the best support the higher market for exchange in the future could have at this juncture, would be to let rates fall and so bring about imports of gold again to a moderate amount. It is interesting to notice how this matter of gold imports has been worked this season. We have heretofore referred to the fact that while rates were held above the gold import point that metal was coming in from various directions constantly. It now appears that the gross gold imports in October were $16,227,000 and the net $14,947,000. In September the net was $13,740,000 and in August it was $13,366,000, making the aggregate net gold imports for the three months $42,053,000. The present is an opportune moment for another dip in rates and another inflow of gold.

This suggestion becomes the more obvious when the further facts disclosed in the October statement are examined. For instance, note the merchandise exports: that total reached last month $118,686,000. Only one other similar return in the entire Government record can be found in which the same item is so large, and that was in December 1897, when it was stated at $125,053,961. Moreover, the present October movement would stand first in size if the comparison was made in quantities instead of values. We find more than enough in the two aggregates for breadstuffs and cotton to bring up the October total to that for December 1897, if prices had ruled as high; that is to say, the exports of wheat, wheat flour and corn in October 1898 were 35,942,803 bushels and cotton 1,135,303 bales, against 29,605,076 bushels of wheat, &c., and 1,028,806 bales of cotton in December 1897. But the most important feature is the net merchandise balance, which is given this year for the month at $66,312,000; that balance is larger than any previous record except December 1897, when it was $73,547,998. The presumption is that for the two remaining months of the current year this item will further develop and that large balances will run through the winter months also.

An impediment to business in the foreign exchange market has been a difference this week with reference to the tax on cable transfers. It has caused almost an entire suspension of that class of operations. The attention of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue was early last week called to the matter through an inquiry by a foreign exchange house; some bankers, the inquirer claimed, were affixing a two-cent stamp instead of a four-cent ad valorem stamp. The Commissioner replied that in his view the law was plain that the four-cent rate was required; early this week he directed the Collector of Internal Revenue in this city to make inquiry as to the practice being followed; those who were using a two cent-stamp were informed that it was an evasion of the law and not legal. Thereupon some of the bankers resumed the use of four-cent ad valorem stamps, while others who had taken legal advice continued to use the two-cent check stamp, at the same time keeping a memorandum of the transactions with a view to compliance with the law in case of an authoritative decision sustaining the contention of the Commissioner. In consequence of this uncertainty as to stamping of cable transfers, trading in them has ceased so far as to limit the drawing of them to actual requirements.

The bank statement of last week showed a further increase in loans, the gain compared with the previous return being $9,022,300, making $52,294,600 since October 1. Deposits were increased $7,912,600 last week, making a gain of $76,246,700 since the end of September. There has, however, been an increase of only $25,820,600 in cash within the interval of seven weeks since September 24, and for the past two weeks the cash has decreased $7,223,300, though the known movement of money, so far as it could be traced through the Treasury and the interior operations of the banks, failed to account for the loss. We have made special inquiry as to this undetected movement, and opinions seem to be far from uniform. A considerable amount of money was wagered in this city on the result of the election which was locked up until late last week. It is also reported that deposits in the trust companies and to an extent in savings institutions have been drawn down during the past two weeks, presumably by depositors who have invested in stocks or bonds in the market. To the extent that these withdrawn deposits consisted of cash the banks and trust companies, in view of possible continued withdrawals, may have to fortify themselves with money drawn from their banks of deposit. It is likewise quite conceivable that the current liquidation among Boston banks, connected with or preparatory to consolidation, has drawn more money to that city from New York than has been traced through the weekly bank movements. The decrease in cash in this period and the increase in deposits have caused a loss of $11,089,750 in the surplus reserve, reducing it to $15,011,800 last week, and fifteen of the banks, five of which were State institutions, were below the limit of 25 per cent of reserve to liabilities last week. This fact, and the almost daily increasing demand for accommodation resulting from the enormous business in stocks and bonds at the Stock Exchange, will explain the hardening tendency for money observable the present week. The exchanges at the Clearing-House are now quite large; those on Tuesday, reflecting Monday's business, were $240,800,402, while on Wednesday, reflecting Tuesday's business, they were $200,392,415. The exchanges for the first four days of this week were $732,989,300, a daily average of $183,247,300, against a daily average of $169,499,000 for last week. Another interesting fact is that the exchanges on Tuesday of this week were within about $48,000,000 of the highest on record at the Clearing House, the maximum being $288,555,981 February 28 1881.

The annual report of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company (of California) attracts special attention by reason of the success attending the floating this week of $10,000,000 of the company's bonds through Messrs. Speyer & Co. We give extended extracts from the report on subsequent pages. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company is one of the constituent properties of the Southern Pacific Company, whose report we reviewed at length in our issue of October 29. There were formerly several separate companies in California under Southern Pacific control, namely the Northern Railway Company, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the Northern California Railway Company and the California Pacific Railroad Company, but in April of the present year all these were consolidated under the name of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, forming a strong and harmonious system of lines in California. The consolidated company comprises no less than 2,543 miles of main track and has a bonded debt of $72,907,000, largely held abroad. The mileage includes the 243 miles of the Mojave division now forming part of the Atchison system, deducting which the mileage actually operated on June 30 1898 was 2,300 miles. On this 2,300 miles the company's gross earnings in the late fiscal year were nearly 15½ million dollars ($15,427,937), or in excess of any previous year as far back as the records are given in the report, while the net earnings were $6,681,427. The fixed charges were only $4,851,188, so a surplus remained on the operations of the twelve months in the sum of $1,830,239. From a tabulated comparison in the report it appears that this yearly surplus has been steadily rising since 1894, though before that time even larger amounts had been shown in some of the years. In 1894 the surplus on the operations of the year was $797,504, in 1895 $860,094, in 1896, $919,533, in 1897 $1,128,182, and in 1898, as stated, $1,830,239.

The American Cotton Oil Company's annual return has also been submitted this week. This is one of the very few industrial corporations that allow their shareholders to know something about their corporate affairs. The practice was inaugurated under the management of Mr. Edward D. Adams, and has been wisely continued down to the present time. Since 1892 the company has paid regular 6 per cent dividends on the preferred stock, and from the profits of the late year it has also been able to declare a dividend of 3 per cent on the common stock (payable in December), being the first distribution made to this class of shareholders. Reduced cost of the raw material (the cotton crop of the late year having been the largest on record) and economies in manufacture, with an enlarged demand for the company's product, have brought about these satisfactory results. We note also that Chairman George A. Morrison observes that these results "prove the wisdom of the gradual reorganization that has taken place during the last three years in the commercial operations of the business, and the advancement to positions of prominence of younger men who are able, enthusiastic, and loyal to the interests of the company." The report shows a working capital on August 31 1898 of $4,809,350, of which $1,845,905 was cash in bank and $2,963,445 was bills and accounts receivable, products, raw materials and supplies, all stated to be realizable.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned at 2½ per cent and at 1½ per cent during the week, with the bulk of the business at 2½ per cent until Wednesday, when the loans were chiefly at 2 per cent, and very little was loaned at 1½ per cent. The range on the following days was from 2½ per cent to 2 per cent, and the average for the week was about 2¼ per cent. Banks and trust companies quoted 2 per cent as the minimum until Wednesday, when they marked up their loans to 2½ per cent. The demand for time money does not appear to be at all urgent, indicating that the borrowing is chiefly on call, and very many of the commission houses report that their business is quite largely of an investment character, and therefore they have little need of money with which to carry stocks for their customers. Rates for time money are 2½ per cent for thirty to sixty days, 3 per cent for ninety days, 3 to 3½ per cent for four months and 3½ per cent for five to six months on good Stock Exchange collateral. One feature of the market for commercial paper is the lighter inquiry for it from Western banks. Many of these institutions which have been buying paper in this city, because they could not profitably employ their funds at home, now report to their correspondents that their money rates are advancing in response to business requirements, and therefore they will, for the present at least, buy no more New York paper. The market is not very well supplied, and the domestic inquiry is good for the best names. Rates are 3½ per cent for sixty to ninety-day endorsed bills receivable, 3½ to 4½ per cent for prime and 4½ to 5½ per cent for good four to six months' single names.

Washington despatches report that settlements for the 3 per cent bonds are practically ended, there remaining but little more than $2,500,000 to be paid for. The banks have about $65,000,000 of the loan on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States to secure circulation and public deposits. As an indication of the large amount of capital seeking investment at the present time, it is stated that private subscriptions for the $10,000,000 5 per cent first consolidated mortgage gold bonds of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, which were opened by Speyer & Co. on Friday (yesterday), were early in the week sufficient to absorb five times the amount. The bonds were offered at 101½ and 1½ per cent premium was bid on Tuesday. It is reported that there is some friction between some of the banks in this city and in the interior and the Internal Revenue Department regarding the war tax of one-fifth of 1 per cent on the capital and surplus of the banks. Some of the institutions have reported to the Department the amount of capital and surplus and have paid tax thereon, while others have also reported undivided profits and paid the tax. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue holds that banks are taxable on undivided profits as part of their capital and surplus. The banks who have not reported undivided profits contend that these cannot be regarded as surplus, for if once put in the surplus they cannot be divided. It is further contended that the National Bank Act makes a distinction between surplus and undivided profits, and these items and capital are reported separately to the Comptroller of the Currency. The banks who are resisting the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue are acting under the advice of counsel, and it is probable that they will contest the matter in the courts and thus obtain a judicial interpretation of the meaning of the law. The movement of money to the interior has been light this week and transfers through the treasury have been comparatively small.

Almost daily this week there have been reports of a crisis in the Spanish Peace negotiations at Paris, owing to the insistence of the American Commissioners on the absolute surrender by Spain of sovereignty in the Philippines. The rumors of impending rupture had some slight influence on the Paris Bourse on Wednesday. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London 3½ to 3⅝ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 3 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 5½ per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £418,676 bullion during the week and held £32,439,112 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to the import of £363,000 (of which £232,000 were from France and £131,000 from the Cape), to receipts of £141,000 net from the interior of Great Britain and to the export of £85,000, of which £70,000 were to Germany and £15,000 to South America.

The feature of the foreign exchange market has been the almost entire suspension of business in cable transfers already referred to above. The business in other forms of exchange has been quiet during the week. There have been liberal offerings of cotton and grain bills. The dearer rates for time money in our market and the easier discounts in London, with other causes, have served to check purchases of long sterling for investment, and the market for sterling has been easier. Nominal rates for exchange were 4 83 for sixty day and 4 86½ for sight, until Wednesday, when Lazard Freres reduced the latter half a cent, and the range for sight thereafter was from 4 86 to 4 86½. Rates for actual business opened on Monday at a decline of one-quarter of a cent, compared with those at the close on Friday of last week, at 4 82 to 4 82¼ for long, 4 85¼ to 4 85½ for short and 4 86 to 4 86¼ for cables, and the tone was easy. It was generally steady thereafter and the market was extremely dull on Wednesday and Thursday, without any change in rates. On Friday the tone was firmer at an advance of one quarter of a cent all around. The following shows daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR'S TOUR.

One of the most curious political phenomena of the day is the conflict of popular judgment and popular criticism over the movements of the German Emperor. It has happened, not once but a dozen times, that European as well as American comment has united at the start in pronouncing some action of this sovereign a pure freak of fancy, only to end with the admission that a clever stroke of statecraft had been unexpectedly executed. On several occasions it has been gravely argued that Emperor William was merely revealing again the eccentric traits inherited from some of his Hohenzollern ancestors; and from the point of view of what may be called the formality of European royalty, the criticism seemed reasonable. Yet when the event proved, on almost every one of these occasions, that the particular action was inspired by motives of State policy which were effectively carried out, there was nothing for criticism to say. Not least curious of all is the fact that the master-mind among modern judges of royal character went as far astray as other people in his estimate of the young German Emperor. Bismarck, as reflected in the pages of Dr. Busch's memoirs, was subject enough to the habit of applauding his sovereign when that sovereign's policy suited his own and of depreciating the royal talents when his own advice was rejected; but in the main his judgment of the present Emperor was not favorable, and concurred with the popular estimate. He lived long enough, nevertheless, to hear foreign critics admitting grudgingly that the Emperor had already in a few points improved even on Bismarck's diplomacy.

A consideration of these facts is suggested by Emperor William's recent tour to Palestine. When this expedition was first discussed in the European press outside of Germany, it was unanimously pronounced the freak of a restless imagination. Possibly, if the progress through the Holy Land had been the sole event of the journey, critics would have clung tenaciously to their opinion. But what was their astonishment at the sudden and wholly unexpected discovery that, as a quite unannounced incident of his trip, the Emperor had paid his personal respects to the Sultan of Turkey, had in some way cemented an alliance with that decrepit but by no means powerless ruler, had gained the upper hand in future direct negotiations with Constantinople, and had rounded out the good understanding by obtaining several valuable grants for German enterprise. A very curious change of tone was immediately perceptible in the European press. "It would be a great mistake," at once remarked one leading London daily, "to treat the Emperor's pilgrimage as a humorous escapade." Another organ of public opinion in Great Britain, promptly taking alarm, warned the Turks, in somewhat high-flown language, "not to be so infatuated with the Prussian eagle as to forget that there is a British lion." All this was curious, and to an outside observer highly instructive.

We venture the guess that the German Emperor, while doubtless gratifying a wish to see the world under extremely agreeable conditions, has also studied to some purpose the value of royal civilities in modern diplomacy. We are apt to make light now-a-days, of the function of royal visits in the relations of Constitutional States. Convinced as most of us are that public opinion and popular majorities control the action of the average civilized government of our time, it has been our habit to smile at conferences of kings and emperors as an empty form. An interview between Louis XIV. and William III. would have been a matter of momentous consequence; the three emperors who met at Tilsit had the future map of Europe under their joint and personal control. These episodes, however, most people quietly relegate to another era.

Now it is possible, of course, that a renewal of such influences would mark a reaction from the Constitutionalism of Europe of the past half-century. Yet nothing is more certain than the fact that this expedient in diplomacy has become in very recent years a matter of great importance. The Queen of England is as far removed as a sovereign could very well be from the powers of a dictator; nevertheless, it was thought wise a year or two ago, when international relations in Europe were strained, to arrange for a formal interview at Paris between the Queen and the President of France; the Queen, moreover, being attended in her excursion by that practical statesman, Lord Salisbury. It is not many months since the keenest interest of political Europe was excited by the question which had made the more lasting impression by a personal visit to the Czar—Emperor William or President Faure? With these very striking precedents in mind, the young Emperor's recent undertaking will hardly be dismissed with indifference. The Sultan of Turkey does not, it is true, occupy a very dignified and honorable place in the councils of Europe. But he is absolute ruler over the commercial as well as the political interests of his subjects. He commands, moreover, an army of half a million men, which recently emerged victorious from one war, and which, by the consent of military critics, would be a formidable factor in another.

The truth is, we imagine, that the peace of Europe will be assured in this epoch, if it is to be assured at all, by the making of fresh alliances on lines not hitherto developed, and in such manœuvres no Power of any physical consequence can be neglected. Nothing is more obvious, in contemporary politics, than the fact that the old associations of European States are breaking up. The Triple Alliance is already a tradition. Italy is no longer a factor in Continental diplomacy. Russia's attitude is a matter of complete uncertainty; its government has been thought to play with the French alliance, yet it has bound itself in no other direction. Austria, threatened with race troubles and political disintegration, is scarcely for the time a homogeneous Power; France is drifting with the current, which lately threw its Government, with great and unexpected violence, into collision with Great Britain. Spain has ceased to exist as a European influence; Japan, at the very hour of the struggle for European control of China, has grown into a Power with which contending Europe must reckon; and the still more astonishing spectacle has been witnessed—something which we ourselves would have pronounced incredible three years ago—of the Premier of England publicly welcoming the United States as a new factor in European politics and as a virtual ally of Great Britain.

We cannot think it strange, in the midst of such political ebb and flow, that every sagacious statesman and sovereign should bestir himself to fortify his alliances—not for offensive purposes but with a view to possible defense. We think, moreover, that such new realignment of the Powers in formidable groups is the best possible guaranty of peace. The known "rapprochement" of Germany and Great Britain, though doubtless based primarily on purely commercial grounds, was one of the most noteworthy and remarkable incidents of the day, and it undoubtedly served a purpose in the recent Anglo-French dispute. It was evidently with a similar end in view that the German Emperor has taken what is perhaps the shortest road to the Sultan's favor. Rulers are only human, and the experience of human nature teaches that when a man of some possible influence is tabooed and snubbed in good society, his friendship may be most effectively secured by somebody of unquestioned social position who extends to him some personal civilities. The task may be as disagreeable for the sovereign who thus condescends as for the private individual under similar circumstances. The English press has asserted vigorously, and perhaps correctly, that British public opinion would tolerate no such amenities on the part of its own statesmen. Doubtless, however, the German Emperor reasons that the important end justifies the unpleasant means; and it certainly must be admitted that the Turkish negotiations will bear favorable comparison with some of the shrewd and unscrupulous diplomatic moves of Bismarck.

We are inclined to think that the same shrewd foresight has governed the Emperor's policy in the case of the Spanish visit. Much ado was made at Madrid and Paris of the alleged purpose for an imperial visit to the Spanish capital, and air-castles without number were constructed. These announcements, it is now sufficiently plain, were based, not on the German Emperor's announcements, but on the invitations from Madrid. But now it appears that William is not going to Madrid. First he forbade royal salutes by Spain when he should touch at the Spanish ports, and announced that, in diplomatic language, he intended to preserve a strict "incognito." Now it appears that a convenient excuse has been found to send regrets to the entire Spanish invitation. This means, of course, that the Emperor will be civil and nothing more; and no other decision was to be expected.

THE BALTIMORE & OHIO REPORT.

The annual report of the Baltimore & Ohio in the favorable results disclosed must be pleasing to all the security holders of the company. But we imagine the managers of the road will derive special satisfaction from it. To them it means the fulfillment of their expectations, the justification of their policy. Seldom has the management of a property in receivers' hands been so bitterly assailed as were the receivers of the B. & O. when, soon after their appointment, they entered upon the policy which is now yielding such gratifying results. Proof of the success of this policy, too, has come very quickly, for it must be remembered that it is only a little over two and a-half years since the receivers took charge, they having been appointed in February 1896.

It must be admitted that the policy pursued was an unusual one and that a like policy might not be justified in other cases. It is common enough to find the receivers of a road improving its condition and raising its standard out of money provided from current revenues—the security holders meanwhile going without any return. But the B. & O. managers did not stop there. Besides using current earnings with great freedom, they raised enormous amounts of new capital Millions upon millions of dollars were provided by the issue of receivers' certificates, and money was spent with apparent lavishness in enlarging equipment and promoting the capacity and efficiency of plant. The addition of new cars was on a scale that seemed perfectly astounding, some of these being provided through the issue of car trusts and others through the sale of receivers' certificates. To those not acquainted with the property's needs, or lacking the capacity for looking into the future possessed by the receivers, this prodigality in expenditures had very much the appearance of recklessness. But it is evident enough now that the policy was not carried a step too far.

Ordinarily the capital needs of an embarrassed road are not met until reorganization. In this case they were supplied to an enormous extent in advance of reorganization. Never before have receivers been allowed the latitude accorded the B. & O. receivers in this respect. As already stated, such outlays by a property in the hands of a court are justifiable only in the exceptional circumstances existing in this instance. No doubt the generally accepted theory that the main if not the only duty of the court is to hold the property together as a going concern until the creditors can themselves provide for its future operation, is sound. But the B. & O. situation was one of extreme urgency and the exigency such as to demand prompt, immediate action Any other course would have invited decay, with heavy losses to every interest in the property.

It is sometimes claimed that the Baltimore & Ohio's embarrassment arose out of book-keeping irregularities. Nothing could be further from the facts. Erroneous entries in the books may misrepresent the condition of a property but they cannot add a dollar to or subtract a dollar from its earning capacity. The truth is, the managers had new conditions to meet. The intensity of competition had created a situation where in the contest with rival lines the B. & O. was being rapidly left behind in the race. Competing roads had been brought to the highest state of perfection; the B. & O. was in a poor physical state, inadequately equipped, and could not be operated with efficiency and dispatch. The circumstances called for the movement of traffic at the lowest possible unit of cost, as rates were steadily declining; the B. & O. could only move traffic at a comparatively high cost. Yet, unless it could carry as cheaply as its neighbors and rivals, not only would further growth be out of the question but it would have to surrender much of the traffic already possessed. There was but one course open: the standard of the property must be raised so as to bring it up to the level of competing roads. To do this, however, required the expenditure of a great deal of money, and there was really no feasible way of providing the funds, particularly as the company was already carrying a considerable floating debt. A receivership was the only way out, and this, as it has happened, has proved the salvation of the property.

The receivers understood the situation thoroughly and appreciated also that above all it was necessary to avoid delay. In our review of the report for the previous year we referred to the problem that had to be solved. Immediately to the north of the B. & O. system lies the Pennsylvania, with a road and plant not excelled anywhere in the world, and able to move freight at the lowest minimum of cost. Immediately to the south of the system lies the Chesapeake & Ohio, whose management have made it their one purpose to be able to transport freight at the smallest possible figure which would leave a profit. The facilities of the B. & O. had to be enlarged and improved so that it could cope with these rivals.

The present report is especially interesting because it furnishes such striking evidence that the problem referred to has been solved. The previous report gave only a hint of what was in prospect. Now we have the actually demonstrated results. But conceive that the opposite course had been pursued, that the making of improvements and the providing of new equipment and facilities, so essential to the preservation of the property, had been deferred. What now would be the position of the security holders. It might be possible in that contingency to carry through some kind of reorganization, but the sacrifices required of the security holders would necessarily be very severe. Moreover, even supposing the capital to make the needed improvements could be raised, two or three years would have to elapse before results could be looked for. In the meantime rival roads would be gaining at the expense of the B. & O. As it is, the expenditures have already been made, the property is showing the benefits in enlarged earnings and a lower operating cost, the market price of the securities is advancing, and the reorganization is proving an unqualified success, because everybody can see that it rests on that important desideratum, a property in a high state of efficiency and of proved earning capacity.

We go thus at length into the matter because the results attained have been really remarkable and it is desirable that it should be understood where the credit belongs. It is the receivers' policy, so much criticised at first, that has made possible the excellent operating and fiscal outcome now disclosed, and has also made feasible and rendered successful the reorganization. To see what has been accomplished, note in the first place that in the late year the road earned all its fixed charges, even on the old basis, with a small surplus left over, namely $190,040, against a deficiency below the charges in the previous fiscal year of $1,177,121. In the second place it should be observed that this has been accomplished on an average freight rate of only a little over 4½ mills per ton per mile. This last reveals better than anything else the high state of efficiency to which the property has been brought and the benefits that are flowing from the large amounts of money spent upon it. The further decline in the freight rate in the late year was no less than 12·60 per cent.

None of the other leading trunk lines are obliged to move freight at such a low figure. As against the B. & O.'s average of 4·58 mills, that of the Erie for the same year was 5·58 mills, that of the New York Central 6·1 mills, while on the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg and Erie for the calendar year 1897 the average was 5·36 mills and on the Lake Shore for the like year 5·45 mills. To be sure the traffic conditions on these roads are not precisely the same as on the B. & O., since they have a larger percentage of high class freights, but that does not alter the fact that the B. & O. realizes a mill or more per ton mile less than these other trunk lines. The average is indeed close to the very low figures reached on those distinctively coal carrying roads, the Norfolk & Western and the Chesapeake & Ohio, where the rates are respectively 4·04 mills and 3·70 mills; though in these last two instances the circumstance should not be overlooked that these roads both have a much larger proportion of through business than the B. & O., as is evident from the fact that the length of haul on the Norfolk & Western for the late year was 355 tons and on the Chesapeake & Ohio 379 tons, while the B. & O. got a haul of only a little over 198 tons on its traffic. On its soft coal tonnage the B. & O. realized an average of only 3·23 mills, the figures in this instance covering the six months ending June 30 1898, no separate records for this class of tonnage having previously been kept.

Despite the further decline in the rate in the late year, the freight trains earned 17 cents more per mile than in the year preceding—that is, they earned $1 40·6, against $1 23·4; and this affords a clue as to one way in which economies in management have been effected. The tonnage movement one mile exceeded that of the year preceding by nearly 25 per cent, but this additional work was done with an actual reduction in froight train mileage. In other words, there was a further increase in train load, the attainment of which is one of the chief aims of railroad management. The average of this train load for the late year was no less than 314 tons. That is a high figure. On the Erie the average for the same twelve months was 300 tons and on the New York Central 299 tons. The Lake Shore in the late calendar year had a load of 321 tons, while the averages for the Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western stand respectively at 379 and 355 tons. Here is a comparison in tabular form.

	Rate per ton per mile. Cent.	Earnings per freight train mile.	Train Load. Tons.
Baltimore & Ohio	0·458	$1·406	314
Erie	0·538	1·675	300
New York Central	0·61	1·83	299
Lake Shore	0·545	1·783	321
Chesapeake & Ohio	0·370	1·395	379
Norfolk & Western	0·404	1·435	355

As a result of the increased capacity and efficiency of the property and the ability to render the transportation services at a cheapened cost, the company was able further to enlarge its tonnage in a very striking way. The addition to the number of tons moved was 3,269,565 tons, or 17·47 per cent, while in the movement one mile the increase was 863 million tons, or as much as 24·67 per cent. Nor must it be supposed the gain was entirely in coal or grain. The road did add 1,690,195 tons to its coal and coke tonnage and 427,850 tons to its grain traffic, but this still leaves 1,151,520 tons gain in other items. As a matter of fact, when we examine the returns of earnings for the different divisions we find an improvement on every division save one, thus showing how general and widespread the betterment in traffic and revenues has been. The B. & O. now has an aggregate freight traffic which approximates very close to that of the Erie and the New York Central, as will be seen from the following, though it should be remembered as to the Central that its figures do not cover the operations west of Buffalo.

	Revenue-Earning Freight
	Tons Moved.	Tons One Mile.	Length of Haul
Baltimore & Ohio	21,986,220	4,362,241,046	198·41 miles
Erie	23,611,425	4,556,349,307	192·71 miles
New York Central	23,403,439	4,500,269,946	192·00 miles

For the first time since the receivers have been in control of the property the annual report reveals an improvement in net earnings, the explanation of which is found in the circumstances narrated above. Previously, gross earnings had steadily risen but net earnings had as steadily declined. Now at one bound the total of the net has got back to its former proportions. With $2,140,665 increase in gross in the late year, the addition to the net was $1,876,668. In 1894-5 the amount of the net was $7,016,138, in 1895-6 there was a drop to $6,361,361, in 1896-7 a further drop to $5,570,028, while now the total stands at $7,446,696. In view of the heavy outlays on equipment and road-bed in the years preceding, it may perhaps be thought that the improvement in the net follows mainly from a curtailment in the outlays of that description. As a matter of fact, the company spent nearly as much in this way out of earnings in 1897-8 as in 1896-7. Here is a table bringing out that fact. It will be seen that, roughly, 3½ million dollars was appropriated for maintenance of equipment in the late year, against only a little over 2 million dollars in 1894-5 and in 1893-4, and that $3,834,244 was spent for maintenance of way and structures, against only $2,846,233 in 1894-5 and but $2,672,050 in 1893-4.

	General Expenses.	Conducting Transport'n.	Maint. of Equip.	Maint. of Way and Structures.	Total Expenses.
	$	$	$	$	$
1897-8	1,966,237	11,169,742	3,391,783	3,934,211	20,276,091
1896-7	1,993,186	10,463,291	3,521,842	4,133,761	20,012,093
1895-6	1,711,300	9,939,967	3,013,201	2,919,049	17,583,420
1894-5	1,845,091	9,217,011	2,092,716	2,846,233	15,801,014
1893-4	1,732,394	9,101,119	2,052,105	2,672,050	15,560,680

The financial condition of the company, as portrayed in the balance sheet, possesses, of course, little interest, since the situation is to be entirely changed through the reorganization. We may note, however, as showing the magnitude of the task involved in the reorganization, that the balance sheet tells us that on June 30 1898 there were $7,319,600 of receivers' certificates outstanding, that the item of loans and bills payable was $6,451,418, while in addition there were $13,117,199 of other current liabilities, including accrued interest and interest in arrears. The reorganization plan provides ample funds for disposing of all these burdens, and we observe that the present week the reorganization syndicate sold the last $8,000,000 of the 1st mortgage bonds of the new company. The purchase from the Johns Hopkins University of its holdings of preferred stock is also one of the events of the week. Such an outcome was to be looked for. Indeed, the new securities are quoted so high now that it would not have been surprising to hear that the University had decided to accept the terms offered in the reorganization scheme. At 75 (the price paid for the stock) the University gets about 10 points more than could be realized in the market at present prices from the securities to be received in exchange under the reorganization. But a slight further rise in prices will quickly wipe out this difference; and as a matter of fact it was announced yesterday that the Reorganization managers, to be entirely fair and treat all alike, would buy the stock of other holders (as represented by the reorganization certificates) at the same price if desired.

RAILROAD GROSS AND NET EARNINGS FOR SEPTEMBER.

Our statement of gross and net earnings for September is like that for August in showing a much smaller gain, both absolutely and relatively, than that recorded in the early preliminary compilation (and embracing gross alone) given in the issue of October 15 In this early return the increase over last year on the roads reporting was $2,790,805, or 6·04 per cent. We now have an increase of only $1,796,448, or but 2·11 per cent.

This brings out again the fact to which we have directed attention several times of late that the returns earliest presented are just now proving very much better than those coming later. The early returns comprise mainly the results on Western roads, which are doing unusually well. On the other hand the later returns embrace many roads in the Eastern and Western sections, where the conditions have not been so favorable. In this instance the losses sustained by the anthracite coal roads, by the trunk lines, and as it happens also by the Burlington & Quincy, account for the pulling down of the amount of increase.

In the matter of net earnings, however, the present compilation is much better than that for August. In this latter month there was a small loss in the net; for September we have an increase not much less in amount than the improvement in the gross, namely $1,225,646, or 3·97 per cent. The following is a summary for September and the nine months. The latter period includes a larger number of roads, since we incorporate in it roads which furnish quarterly but not monthly returns.

The conditions were not altogether favorable in September, and hence the above showing must be regarded as quite satisfactory. There was a falling off in the cotton movement in the South and in the grain movement in the West, though in this last instance an exception must be made in the case of the spring-wheat movement in the Northwest, where there was an expansion. In the corn shipments the falling off reached large dimensions. It should also be remembered that we are comparing with unusually full results last year, our table then having recorded over 10 million dollars, or 14·87 per cent, increase in the gross, and nearly 5½ million dollars, or 24·21 per cent, increase in the net. That earnings the present year in September were on the whole so well maintained after this heavy improvement in 1897 attests the favorable nature of the current revenues of the roads. The following carries the comparisons back to 1893.

In the case of the individual roads we have both some fair-sized losses and some quite respectable gains, the character of the exhibits varying according as the road may be in one part or in another part of the country. The following comprises all the changes above $30,000 in amount.

When the roads are arranged in groups according to their location or the character of their traffic, we find only two groups with losses in the gross, namely the Trunk Line group and the Anthracite Coal group Neither group records any loss in the net, the falling off in gross having been attended by a reduction in operating expenses. There is, however, one group (and only one) which has a loss in the net, namely that composed of the Eastern and Middle roads. This group contains the Long Island, which as a result of the movement of U. S. troops, has a large gain in both gross and net.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF GOLD AND SILVER AT SAN FRANCISCO.

The Collector of Customs at San Francisco has furnished us this week the details of imports and exports of gold and silver through that port for the month of October, and they are given below in conjunction with the figures for preceding months, thus completing the results for the ten months of the calendar year 1898. The imports of gold have been much greater than in any preceding month since we began this record. The amount received reached $4,663,481, of which $4,235,158 was in coin. Of silver there came in $183,823, of which $144,413 was bullion. During the ten months there has been received a total of $26,939,939 gold and $1,360,339 silver, which compares with $8,442,329 gold and $1,759,089 silver in 1897. The shipments of gold during October were $108,770, all coin, and the exports of silver have been $143,030 coin and $58,000 bullion. For the ten months the exports of gold have reached $563,536, against $419,693 in 1897, and $4,279,261 silver has been sent out, against $8,625,740 in 1897. The exhibit for October and the ten months is as follows:

Monetary Commercial English News.

[From our own correspondent.]

LONDON, Saturday, November 5, 1898.

The Stock Exchange has, if possible, been more lifeless this week than before. In the first place the week has been broken. Tuesday, Nov. 1, is always a Stock Exchange holiday, as the books of the Bank of England are then closed. And yesterday, Friday, the Sirdar visited the city to receive its freedom. All traffic was suspended from 11 o'clock, and practically no business was done. Even under ordinary circumstances these interruptions would have led many persons to go away for a short holiday, and would have discouraged operators from incurring risks. But the political anxieties that prevail naturally deepened the consequences.

Owing to the fall of the Brisson Cabinet and the prorogation of the French Chambers, there was no official news up to yesterday, and as a matter of course advantage was taken of this to spread alarmist rumors almost hourly. There is practically no speculation open for the rise, or at all events only such speculation as has been overtaken by the political alarms. On the other hand it is believed that there is a very large "bear" account both here and upon the Continent, and that the "bears" have been active in spreading reports suiting themselves.

But apart altogether from "bear" manœuvres there has been enough in the situation to create very grave anxieties. Both in this country and in France naval preparations are proceeding at a breathless pace. And abroad, likewise, our great coaling stations and ports are being put in a complete state of defense. Naturally the public jumped to the conclusion that there must be something more than the Fashoda incident or the Government would not think it necessary to take such measures. Moreover, even if peace is preserved, people have been arguing that the internal condition of France is such that an explosion may occur at any moment, and that nobody can foresee the consequences. There is no doubt that the internal condition of France is very threatening, and what will be the outcome no man can at present form any conjecture. Add to this that a crash in Spain is imminent. If the United States Government is willing to pay 100 million dollars or thereabouts for the Philippines, it is barely possible that the Spanish Government may pull through. The Philippine debt out of that sum could be paid off and a balance would remain which would enable the Government to pay the arrears of the soldiery and probably, therefore, to employ the army to keep order. But if the United States Government will not give some such sum, it is difficult to see how bankruptcy can be postponed for many months. Spain, beyond all doubt, is unable to pay her own debt, not to speak of the Cuban and the Philippine, and therefore insolvency in some shape must come. Those best acquainted with the country believe that insolvency will be followed or accompanied by an overthrow of the dynasty and probably by complete anarchy. Lastly, there have been disquieting rumors respecting the Far East; but so far as is known there is very little ground for them.

These various questions have for the time being thrown all others into the shade, and nobody is willing to incur risk on almost any conditions. The head of a very influential and wealthy house here showed me yesterday a dozen different plans, each involving immense sums, which had been submitted for his approval and co-operation, and his answer in every case was: "What is the use of considering plans involving millions of money at such a time as this, when nobody knows whether there may not be war in a week's time?"

Thus enterprise of every kind is checked, and unless uncertainty is soon put an end to it is to be feared that trade will suffer. As yet, however, it is surprising how good the general trade of the country remains. Some industries which depend largely upon the American market are still suffering in consequence of the Dingley Tariff. But putting this aside, the trade of the United Kingdom is almost as good at present as ever it has been in the history of the country. It is not quite so good as it was expected to be early in the year, but it is marvelously good under the circumstances of the time.

The Bank of England is once more borrowing to obtain control of the outside market. Last week the Bank was compelled to pay off loans as the outside market was very unwilling to lend because of the stringency that then existed. The supply in the open market was therefore largely increased and since then the outside market has been able to repay to the Bank the loans obtained from it some weeks ago. Practically, therefore, about the middle of this week the situation was that on the one side the Bank of England had paid off most of the loans borrowed in the outside market, and on the other hand the outside market had paid off most of the loans borrowed from the Bank. At that time, while the Bank rate was 4%, the outside market rate was about 3½%. Since then the Bank has begun borrowing again and the rate has risen to about 3⅝%.

If the Bank borrows a little more the rate will probably be got up to the Bank level. The action of the Bank has been somewhat hampered, and the ability of the open market to repay the Bank has been increased by the large amounts received from Paris and Berlin. Berlin, it will be recollected, raised very large sums by means of Bank acceptances in this market. But when money grew dear here a couple of months ago, Berlin found it impossible to renew the advance, and since then she has been paying off on a very great scale. It is said that one of the means employed has been to transfer practically the whole of the Chinese loan from Germany to this country.

On the other hand, French capitalists have been buying consols and other high-class securities in London during the past fortnight upon a very considerable scale. No doubt many of the purchases are purely speculative. But it seems to be certain that a very large number of them are by bona fide investors who have become alarmed at the internal condition of France and the prospect of war, and are transfering their money for safe keeping to London.

Meantime the India Council continues to sell its drafts wonderfully well. It offered for tender on Wednesday 40 lacs and the applications exceeded 97 lacs. The whole amount offered was sold in bills at 1s. 4d. per rupee.

The following return shows the position of the Bank of England, the Bank rate of discount, the price of consols, &c., compared with the last three years:

Messrs. Pixley and Abell write as follows under date of Nov. 3:

Gold.—The Bank continues to receive all arrivals, with the exception of the comparatively small amounts wanted for India. The total purchased by the Bank is £591,000, and £145,000 has been withdrawn, £100,000 of which is for Constantinople. Arrivals: River Plate, £12,000: Capetown, £602,000. Total, £614,000. Shipments: Bombay, £39,500.

Silver.—As soon as Russia ceased to buy silver, the price fell, but renewed speculative buying has again raised the price to 28¼d., in the expectation that Spain is about to buy largely. There is no demand for India, and Indian Banks have taken advantage of the rise to sell silver in London. The Indian price is Rs. 71½ per 100 Tolahs. Arrivals: New York, £100,000; Shipments to Bombay, £78,100.

Mexican Dollars.—These coin are still only in demand for refining purposes.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 18, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The favorable impressions created by the elections have broadened somewhat this week. Business at the Stock Exchange has diminished in volume, but apparently a larger proportion of it is legitimate and substantial in character. The speculative element has been to some extent eliminated from the market during the profit-taking which has occurred and a considerable amount of securities has passed into the hands of investors. This is due in large measure to a favorable public sentiment growing out of a careful study of the elections and their probable results.

At the same time international affairs have attracted attention in Wall Street, and the security markets have been affected more or less by the delay of the Peace Commission at Paris to complete its work. Otherwise there is no important change in the general situation. In mercantile circles there is as yet no marked increase of activity since the elections. Indeed, it is reported from some quarters that business has been more quiet during the past ten days than for some time past. Doubtless this, if true, has no significance, and improvement will come later on. The local money market has been more steady this week, but the impression seems to prevail that rates are likely to advance.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 1½ to 2½ per cent. To-day's rates on call were 2 to 2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3½ to 4½ per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £418,676, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 53·90, against 52·90 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 800,000 francs in gold and an increase of 1,375,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 12 showed an increase in the reserve held of $1,978,150 and a surplus over the required reserve of $15,011,800, against $19,023,050 the previous week.

The Clearing-House, on Oct. 30, 1897, also began issuing weekly returns showing the condition of the non-member banks which clear through the Clearing-House institutions. The statement in full for the latest week will be found on a preceding page.

Foreign Exchange.—The market for foreign exchange was easy during the early part of the week on a liberal supply of commercial bills, but became firmer on Thursday, and has so continued on a somewhat better demand.

State and Railroad Bonds.—Sales of State bonds at the Board include $71,500 Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 at 79 to 79⅝ and $20,000 Virginia 6s deferred trust receipts, stamped, at 7⅜ to 7½.

In the railway bond department at the Exchange the volume of business steadily declined from nearly $7,500,000 on Monday to $3,086,000 par value to-day. A limited proportion of high-grade issues is noticeable in the transactions, and the reduction in volume seems to be chiefly the result of a paucity of offerings and not because of a lack of interest in this class of securities. Louisville Evansville & St. Louis consol. 1st 5s were conspicuous for an advance of over 15 points. Atchison adjustment 4s were by far the most active, and, in sympathy with the shares, advanced 2 points. Baltimore & Ohio 4s, when issued, Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf, Texas & Pacific 2ds and South Carolina & Georgia 1st 5s show a similar gain. Northern Pacific general lien 3s, Oregon Short Line, Reading and Wisconsin Central bonds have declined.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has been irregular this week, as is often the case when speculation is unusually heavy. Profit-taking sales, including those for foreign account, have been on a large scale, but these were readily absorbed in most cases at advancing prices. Atchison issues were prominent for activity, and the preferred shares advanced over 5 points. North West. was strong on rumors of increased dividend rates, the preferred advancing 11 and the common nearly 5 points. A sympathetic advance occurred in St. Paul & Omaha. Northern Pacific issues were notably weak, and Union Pacific relatively so on heavy liquidation of these securities. Chicago & Alton made a rapid gain of 14 points early in the week, a large part of which it has retained. The grangers were favorites, and, under a steady demand, show substantial gains. Metropolitan Street Railway advanced 8¾ points on traffic reports.

The miscellaneous list has been relatively inactive, attention being chiefly directed to railway shares, but a range of from about 3 to over 10 points has been covered by the fluctuations of American Spirits preferred, American Sugar, American Tobacco, International Paper and People's Gas. The Federal Steel issues lost a part of the advance noted last week. Pacific Mail advanced over 3 points on an increase of its dividend rate.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of every STEAM railroad from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the period from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

Net Earnings Monthly to Latest Dates.—The following shows the gross and net earnings to latest dates of all STEAM railroads furnishing monthly statements. The compilation includes every road from which we can get returns of this character and in that form is given once a month. Early returns are published from week to week, as soon as issued, but for the convenience of our readers all the roads making returns are brought together here in the week in which we publish our monthly article on net earnings—say on or about the 30th of the month. Besides the roads furnishing monthly returns, we have added this time the roads which make quarterly returns.

The returns of the street railways we give by themselves under a separate head at the extreme end of these tabulations —see page 1051.

a Net earnings here given are after deducting taxes.
b Net earnings here given are before deducting taxes.
c Deducting other expenditures for repairs, replacements and general expenses, net income applicable to interest on bonds in September was $117,377, against $88,093 last year, and for January 1 to Sept. 30 $975,106, against $1,082,237. This is the result in Mexican dollars treated (according to the company's method of keeping its accounts) as equivalent to 80 cents in United States money—that is, depreciation beyond 20 per cent has already been allowed for.
d After July 1, 1897, expenses include taxes.
e Expenses for September, 1898, include outlay for repairs to locomotives and value of nine freight cars wrecked.
f Thirty per cent of gross earnings.
g After allowing for other income received, total net from July 1 to Sept. 30, 1898, was $113,703, against $116,019.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—In the following we show both the gross and the net earnings to latest dates of all STREET railways from which we have been able to procure monthly returns. As in the case of the steam roads, the returns of the different roads are published by us each week as soon as received, and once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday of the month) we bring all the roads reporting together, as is done to-day. Besides the roads furnishing monthly returns, we have added this time the roads which make quarterly returns.

Pittsburg & Western Railway.

President Thomas M. King, says in substance:

General Results—The falling off in passenger revenue was due to a decrease in the through business; and also in local business, on account of depression in local oil development. There was charged to expenses certain extraordinary expenditures for improvement in roadway, structures and equipment to the amount of $148,990. Were it not for this outlay the net earnings for the year would be $1,118,606. There was also a charge to maintenance of equipment of $44,491, for fitting up cars, to the number of 287, with air brakes and 939 with automatic couplers. Moreover, the long continued strike of coal miners in the shipping season of 1897, it is estimated, through increased cost of fuel, etc., affected the earnings of the system to the extent of $75,000.

Improvements.—Second track of a length of 5·40 miles was completed and 3·90 miles nearly completed. Forty-three miles of the Pittsburg & Western is now double-tracked. A grade of 58 feet and a curvature of 6 degrees was changed to a grade of 18 feet and 2 degrees curvature, with necessary changes in bridges. This policy of improvement should be continued with a view of bringing the line to a uniform grade not exceeding 18 feet to the mile, between Mars and New Castle Junction, a distance of 31·9 miles. When effected, this will greatly reduce cost of operation and increase train loads to a maximum of 50 cars per train each way, between Mars and De Forest Junction.

On the narrow-gauge division very considerable work has been done in connection with contemplated change of gauge of line between Butler and Foxburg.

Equipment.—Through equipment trusts have been acquired, by the Pittsburg & Western RR., 250 box cars of 60,000 pounds capacity, by Pittsburg Cleveland & Toledo RR., 225 gondola cars of 100,000 pounds capacity, by Pittsburg Painesville & Fairport Ry., 225 gondola cars of 100,000 pounds capacity. There were also procured for the P. & W. two passenger and two freight locomotives; for the P. C. & T., three 60-ton freight locomotives, one passenger coach and one combination car; and for the P. P. & F., one 80-ton freight locomotive and one passenger coach. Of the freight cars, 450 are built of steel by the Shoen Pressed Steel Co., with carrying capacity of 55 tons of ore or about 40 tons of coal, as against the ordinary gondola car, which has a capacity of 25 tons of ore or 22 tons of coal. The dead weight of the new cars averages 33,000 pounds as against an average dead weight of ordinary cars of 22,000 pounds, a difference in dead weight of 5·5 tons, but additional carrying capacity of 30 tons of ore or 18 tons of coal.

Track.—1,586 tons of new steel rail of 85 pounds per yard and 1,047 tons of new steel rail of 70 pounds per yard, also 204,471 cross ties, have been put into track on the several divisions.

Ellwood Short Line RR.—The Receiver states that, having found to be burdensome the contract with the Ellwood Short Line RR. Co., and believing that ownership of the property of the company would be an advantage, he obtained authority of Court to purchase the stock of the Ellwood company for the sum of $210,000, which was paid in Receiver's certificates, and that line is now owned by this company.

Including the leased lines, 339 miles in all, results have been as follows:

Third Avenue Railroad.

(Report for year ending Oct. 31, 1898.)

At the annual meeting on Wednesday Samuel Riker was chosen a director to succeed R. W. Tailer, resigned, and John Beaver, Treasurer, was appointed Secretary temporarily in place of Alfred Lazarus, who died on Tuesday.

President A. J. Elias, in his statement to the stockholders, is quoted as having said in substance :

New Acquisitions.—The most important acquisition of the year was that of the Union Railway and diverging lines, operating in the Borough of the Bronx, to and through Mount Vernon. This property is steadily increasing in value, as the territory which it traverses is rapidly becoming improved and more thickly populated. The Union Railway Co. has acquired control of the Yonkers RR. Co., the southerly branch of which connects with the line of the Union Railway on Broadway, and will form a westerly branch of the Third Avenue Company to the city line at Hastings as soon as the King's Bridge extension shall have been completed.

Change of Motive Power.—During the year consents of abutting property owners to the change of motive power on all the lines of the company in the Borough of Manhattan and all lines of this company's system in the Borough of the Bronx, as well as the assents of the Railroad Commissioners, have been secured, and the work of converting the main line is now being proceeded with. The change of the Forty-second Street Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Ry. lines has also been begun and will be rapidly proceeded with.

Stock.—The $2,000,000 of additional capital stock long since authorized has been issued. Plans for the further issue of securities will be submitted to the stockholders as the improvements proceed.

Earnings, Etc.—The financial statement is issued in the form of a single sheet, containing only the year's results, which compare as follows:

Adding the surplus of Nov. 1, 1897, viz., $258,332 to the balance on the year's operations, there remained (after paying the four dividends of 2 per cent each, due November, 1897, to August, 1898, inclusive) a surplus of $210,404 applicable to further dividends. The directors accordingly on Monday declared a dividend of 1¾ per cent on the increased capital stock of $12,000,000, calling for $210,000.

American Soda Fountain Co.

(Report for the year ending August 31, 1898.)

President James W. Tufts says :

General Results.—In common with a large proportion of other manufacturing companies our business during the past year has been a losing one. This has been due mainly to continued depression in all lines of trade. A year ago we thought we had reason to believe that the good times so long anticipated were really at hand, but our sales during the past year were smaller by several hundred thousand dollars than at any time since the formation of the company, and for many years prior to the union of the several concerns who joined their interests in forming the company. Our customers also have been less able to maintain their payments, and as a consequence we have had to take back a larger percentage of apparatus than ever before.

Expert Accountants.—During the year the company has had constantly in its employ Horace S. Basset, an expert accountant, whose duties required him to spend his entire time at the offices of our various branches investigating the books and accounts, and in the oversight of business methods. His position has been an independent one, and his action has undoubtedly been the direct means of revising and reducing valuations fixed properly during more prosperous conditions of business.

Financial.—Since removal from our former location in Boston, the property belonging to the company on Portland St. has been sold for $125,000. It cost the company $91,769 in 1891. The less demand for capital during the depressed condition of trade has enabled us during the last year to reduce our direct indebtedness $69,815 and our contingent liability $100,634

The pecuniary interest of the managers and their relatives as stockholders is vested in the success of the company to a larger degree than all other stockholders combined, and the directors trust that others interested in our success will believe that no effort will be spared to reduce our expenses and to increase the profits of our business

Statistics.—The following statements show the profits for a series of years past, and also the balance sheet :

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS

Reorganizations, Etc.—Defaults, Reorganization Plans, Etc.—The usual index is omitted this week, but that covering the items published to November 12, inclusive, will be found in the CHRONICLE of November 5.

A. Booth Company.—Incorporation.—This company, to which reference was made last week, filed its articles of incorporation in Illinois on Nov. 12. The capital stock is $5,000,000, of which $3,500,000, is eight per cent preferred. The first board of directors will be William Vernon Booth, Walter G. Robbins, E. D. Carter, W. J. Emerson, C. E. Ainsworth, J. L. Burton and A. Booth.—V. 67, p. 1001.

American Malting Co.—New President.—Former State Senator Charles A. Stadler has been elected President in the place of Dr. Alexander M. Curtiss, of Buffalo, whose signed. Mr. Stadler is a prominent malster, and the business which he developed was one of the most important acquired by the American Malting Co. He is to devote his entire time to the interests of the company. The other officers who served last year were re-elected. Dr. Curtiss remains a director of the company.—V. 67, p. 1002.

Atlantic Highlands Red Bank & Long Branch Electric Ry.—Bondholders' Committee.—Silas B. Dutcher, Charles A. Porter, A. B. Eldridge, James G. White and John N. Partridge have undertaken in the interests of the bondholders to effect a fair and equitable reorganization, and to that end the Continental Trust Co. of New York City is authorized to receive deposits of bonds and issue certificates therefor up to and including Nov. 30, without penalty. The sum of $5 per bond, as required by Section 5 of the Bondholders' Agreement, must accompany every deposit of bonds. A plan of reorganization will be submitted to the depositing bondholders as soon as the same can be perfected. —V. 66, p. 1043.

Atlanta (Ga.) Ry.—Purchased.—A Baltimore syndicate headed by Middendorf, Oliver & Co. has bought, it is stated, this company's entire issue of $300,000 stock and $300,000 bonds. The purchasers will reorganize the company with authority to issue $1,000,000 stock and $600,000 bonds, and by April 1, 1899 will build ten miles of additional track, reaching important suburban points and will otherwise improve the property. Of the bonds $300,000 will be issued and the balance, it is stated, held in reserve.—V. 66, p. 1143.

Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Preferred Stock Suit Settled—All Opposition to Reorganization Plan Removed.—The reorganization committee on Thursday reached an agreement with the committee representing the first preferred stock by which all litigation regarding that stock will be withdrawn, and the stock will be turned over to the reorganization committee for $75 per share in cash. The first preferred stock so acquired amounts to about 25,000 shares out of the total issue of 30,000 shares, the remainder having nearly all been deposited under the terms of the plan.

On Friday it was announced that all the holders of first preferred stock, whether in its original state or represented by Mercantile Trust Company receipts, can receive for their holdings $75 a share, if they so desire. The expenses of the preferred stockholders' committee aggregate about $1 per share, which amount, it is stated, will be deducted before payment is made by that committee to the stockholders they represent. The payment to these holders will be made through the Mercantile Trust Co. of Baltimore within a few days.

This settlement removes all serious opposition to the plan and permits foreclosure and a speedy consummation of the reorganization.

Sale of Bonds.—The remaining $8,000,000 first mortgage fifty year 4 per cent gold bonds, owned by the underwriting syndicate, have been sold to a syndicate headed by Strong, Sturgis & Co. and F. S. Smithers & Co.—V. 67, p. 954.

Belt Ry. of Washington—City & Suburban Ry.—Sold.—At the foreclosure sale Nov. 15, the property of the Belt Railway Co. was purchased for $350,000 by Oscar T. Crosby, one of the three representatives of the City & Suburban Railway Co., which recently purchased a controlling interest in the first mortgage bonds of the Anacostia & Potomac River Railway. It is expected that all three roads, the old Eckington Road, the Belt Line and the Anacostia Road, will be consolidated. All the tracks of the three in the city are to be fitted with the underground electric system.—V. 67, p. 899, 933.

Brooklyn Elevated RR.—Brooklyn Union Elevated RR.—Reorganization.—The company which will succeed to the property foreclosed last week, it is stated, will be entitled the Brooklyn Union Elevated RR. Co. and will take possession in the course of a few weeks. Both this company and the reorganized Kings County Elevated RR. will, it is understood, be controlled in the same interest as the Rapid Transit-Nassau Electric consolidation. It is not expected, however, that actual consolidation of the elevated companies with the surface companies will take place at present, if at all.

Flatbush Avenue connection with the Long Island RR.—Work has begun on the connecting link which will unite the Brooklyn Elevated with the Long Island RR. at Flatbush Avenue. It is hoped this line, costing about $100,000, will be completed about Feb. 1. The Brooklyn "Eagle" says:

The present Flatbush Avenue elev. station will be moved eastward toward Fifth Ave several hundred feet, and at the previous site of the station the inclined plane will be begun. This will pass over the present passenger and freight stations of the Long Island RR. on the north side and will continue eastward over private property for about a quarter of a mile. The structure will be a continuation of the elevated structure and will pass the intervening streets over the corner housetops and will not interfere with traffic. At Carlton Avenue the incline will reach the grade of the street and here the connection with the Long Island RR. tracks will be made.

Eventually the plan is to furnish rapid transit by electric cars via this route from the Brooklyn Bridge to Jamaica and Rockaway.—V. 67, p. 1002.

Cambria Iron & Steel Co.—Incorporated.—This company has been incorporated in Pennsylvania to take over the Cambria Iron Co., under lease per plan recently announced. (See V. 67, p. 689). The directors are as follows:

J. M. Bacon, D. Reeves, R. F. Kennedy, Powell Stackhouse, B. F. Wood, J. L. Welsh, E. T. Stotesbury, John W. Townsend, Philadelphia; C. S. Price, Johnstown. All also directors of the Cambria Iron Co.—V. 67, p. 954.

Central Vermont RR.—Bill Passed.—The Vermont Legislature has passed and the Governor has signed the bill authorizing reorganization under the plan of the Baker Committee. This plan provides for foreclosure and the issuance by the Central Vermont Railway of $3,000,000 capital stock and $12,000,000 of 4 per cent gold bonds.—V. 67, p. 954.

Central RR. of New Jersey.—Settlement of Taxes.—The taxes on the company's terminal property at Communipaw, which have been long in litigation, have been adjusted by the Supreme Court Commissioners, appointed under the Martin Act, at about $576,000. Robert W. de Forest, General Counsel for the railroad, is quoted as saying:

The story is substantially true. These taxes have been in litigation for fifteen years, and have been carried on the books of the company as a liability at a sum exceeding the amount of adjustment. The taxation was resisted because the original assessment, about $800,000, was considered excessive. On the adjustment by the Commissioners the railroad company is proposing to pay. Some of the property is doubly taxed, by the State Board of Assessors and by the Municipal authorities. Both the railroad company and the Jersey City authorities are to have the question by which body the company's taxes should be assessed determined by the courts in a friendly suit.

The company will make payment partly in cash and partly in 4 per cent bonds, which will mature, it is said, as follows: $95,116 64 Dec. 1, 1899; $75,468 11 Dec. 1, $1900; $66,202 30 Dec. 1, 1901; $76,616 26 Dec. 1, 1902, and $122,385 11 Dec. 1, 1903. Attention is called to the fact, mentioned above, that the company has been including these unpaid taxes in its balance sheet under the heading "other indebtedness and accrued charges, including taxes in litigation." The new bonds issued in [settlement will therefore merely replace the old liability.—V. 67, p. 788.

Chicago & Alton RR.—Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf RR.—Sale of Alton Stock—President A. E. Stilwell, of the Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf, who has been in New York for the past ten days, is understood to have secured a large financial backing to his plan for acquiring a majority interest in Chicago & Alton stock. Various divergent interests are opposing the project, and at this moment it is impossible to say what will be the outcome of pending negotiations. —V. 67, p. 221, 999, 1008.

Chicago Burlington & Northern RR.—Second Mortgage Bonds Called for Payment June 1, 1899.—On June 1, 1899, the company will pay off its entire issue of $3,450,000 second mortgage bonds due June 1, 1918, at par and accrued interest to June 1, 1899, at which latter date interest will cease. We are officially informed that the necessary funds will be advanced by the Chicago Burlington & Quincy RR. Co. out of cash in its treasury and that no securities will be issued to replace them.—V. 67, p. 839, 842, 851.

Denver & Rio Grande RR.—New Secretary.—Edgar H. Booth has been elected Secretary to succeed William Wagner, who resigned after nearly thirty years service because of ill health.—V. 67, p. 788.

Denver Union Water.—City Project.—A press dispatch from Denver says: "City Engineer Hunter has submitted a report to Mayor McMurray that a water plant, larger and better than that of the Denver Union Water Co., can be built for $5,700,000, and the Mayor recommends the issuance of city bonds to the amount of $5,000,000 for that purpose. The Denver Union Water Co. some months ago offered to sell its plant to the city for $9,000,000."- V. 59, p. 738.

Kings County Electric Light & Power.—In Possession of Edison Property.—The formal transfer of the property of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Brooklyn to the Kings County Company took place on Monday. The new board of directors of the Edison Company is as follows:

Bernard F. Gallagher, Henry Siebert, James N. Wallace, Daniel J. Creem, George A. Price, A. W. Dater, Thomas E. Murray, W. F. Sheehan, John G. Jenkins, Nicholas F. Brady, Horace G. Da Val, Royal C. Peabody and J. D. Fairchild. Bernard F. Gallagher was elected President in place of Ethan Allen Doty and Henry Siebert Vice-President in place of Edwin Packard.

The office of the Kings County Company is at 187 Montague Street, Brooklyn.—V. 67, p. 842.

Lebanon Springs Ry.—Control Sold—A controlling interest in this dilapidated and only partly operated road has been purchased, it is believed, by the same persons that recently acquired control of the Rutland Road. Some have thought to connect the two transactions with the New York Central & Hudson River RR. Co. and a possible new through line to Montreal by way of the east side of Lake Champlain. The Lebanon Springs RR. extends from Chatham, N. Y., on the Harlem branch of the Central, a distance of 57 miles, to Bennington, Vt., on the Bennington & Rutland RR. The last-named company owns and operates a road from Bennington to Rutland, 57 miles, connecting at Rutland with the Rutland RR. W. Seward Webb, who is one of the incorporators of the reorganized Central Vermont and one of those mentioned in connection with the purchase both of the Rutland and the Lebanon Springs RR. Co., is also a director of the Bennington & Rutland RR., the connecting line. Mr. Webb is at the same time so closely allied to the Vanderbilts that the assumption was natural that he was acting in their interest. Indirectly we are assured that such is not the case and that his purchases have been for investment and not for the benefit of the Central.—V. 64, p. 1225.

Litchfield Carrollton & Western RR.—Sale Postponed.—The road was offered at auction Nov. 12, the upset price being $140,000. A press dispatch says: "By agreement between the parties interested no bid was made, and the sale was postponed till Nov. 26, when the road will again be offered for sale, without any limited bid being placed upon it by the Court."—V. 67, p. 736.

Manhattan Railway.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending September 30 have been reported:

3 mos. ending Sept. 30.	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes, etc.	Balance, sur. or def.

Dividends of 1 per cent quarterly call for $300,000 for three months.—V. 67, p. 999, 1003.

Metropolitan West Side Elevated RR.—Foreclosure Decree.—Judge Showalter, in the United States Circuit Court, at Chicago on Monday, entered a decree ordering the sale of the property at an upset price of $6,000,000. It is expected the sale will take place early in January next. The plan of reorganization was given in the CHRONICLE of July 16, 1898, page 126 (see also V. 67, p. 789), and, pursuant to its terms, there will be issued by the new company $7,500,000 common stock, $9,000,000 five per cent preferred stock and $9,600,000 four per cent 50-year first mortgage bonds.

A summary of income and disbursements is published covering the receivership period as follows:

Gross income Jan. 20, 1897, to Nov. 1, 1898 (about 1¾ years)	$1,840,446
Total disbursements in same period	1,534,079
Cash balance Oct. 31, 1898	$306,367

—V. 67, p. 780.

Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Ry.—Paducah Tennessee & Alabama—Tennessee Midland Leases.—An examination of the opinion of the Court delivered by Circuit Judge Lurton shows that the decision is less sweeping than at first appeared. Only two of the many points made were decided in favor of the complainant, Rogers, viz., that he had a right to prosecute the suit in his own name without calling on the board of directors to prosecute it in the name of the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway Co., and that the lease could not be made without the consent of a majority of three-fourths in amount of the stockholders of the N. C. & St. L. present and voting. Counsel for the company say:

The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals simply reversed the decree of the Circuit Court dismissing the bill and remanded the case to the Circuit Court for proceedings consistent with the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals. The decree reversed was one rendered on demurrers to Rogers's bill. A demurrer, as is well known by all persons familiar with litigation, admits all of the statements of the pleading demurred to be true. So these demurrers admitted the allegations of Rogers's bill to as true for the purposes of the decision. Of course this admission does not prevent the defendants from denying such of the allegations as are not true, and when the case shall go back to the Circuit Court, as it will when the Circuit Court of Appeals shall have issued with mandate, the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will have the right to answer Rogers's bill and deny such charges made in it as are claimed to be untrue.

The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals is not a final decision, because it sends the case back for further proceedings in the Circuit Court consistent with the principles of law settled in the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals, and the case is still pending for any legitimate defense or defenses which the two railroad companies may be able to interpose. The decision that Rogers had the right to sue in his own name does not at all affect the merits of the controversy. The only real question affecting the merits decided in his favor is that the lease should not be made without the consent of a majority of three-fourths in amount of the stockholders, present and voting, and this, of course, will be of no moment if a majority of three-fourths in amount of the stockholders consent to the lease. The lease has never been submitted to the stockholders for their consideration and action. —V. 67, p. 1004.

National Biscuit Co.—Reserve Fund.—The directors on Tuesday voted to set aside from cash on hand $1,000,000 as a reserve fund, not to be used except in case of emergency. Chicago papers say this fund will be considerably increased before any dividend is distributed on the common stock. The directors also declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock.—V. 67, p. 274.

National Linseed Oil.—Receivership Application.—Judge Showalter, of the United States Circuit Court, at Chicago, on Monday, denied the application of Meyer Bernhard for a receiver. The Court also permitted counsel to read the bills filed respectively by James R. Evans of Indianapolis and J. H. Barnard, in which a receivership is asked.

Reorganization.—J. H. Eckels, of the reorganization committee, was quoted on Tuesday as saying: "A large block of stock has been deposited with the committee, but it is desired to have practically all of it on hand before any definite steps are taken toward the reorganization. A director has secured options on enough outside mills, which, when taken into the company, will give it about 90 per cent of the production. The amount of stock proposed is $17,500,000, of which probably $8,000,000 will be 7 per cent preferred."—V. 67, p. 1004.

Newburg Electric Ry.—Coupon.—The coupons of the company's first mortgage 6s due Nov. 1st, 1898, will be paid on and after Nov. 16th at the Knickerbocker Trust Co., 66 Broadway.—V. 66, p. 1090.

Newport News & Old Point Railway & Electric Co.—Earnings.—The combined statement of receipts and expenses of constituent companies taken from the books of the companies by Col. John A. Tompkins is furnished as follows:

	6 mos. end. Oct. 31, '98.	Year end. April 30, '98.	Year end. April 30, '97.
Receipts	$112,153	$170,899	$152,959
Expenses	59,499	83,510	90,823
Net income	$52,654	$87,389	$62,136
Aver. net inc. (2½ yrs.) per an.	.....	.....	$80,872

—V. 67, p. 902.

New York New Haven & Hartford RR.—Explanation as to Earnings.—Referring to the report for the quarter ending Sept. 30, Comptroller H. M. Kochersperger says:

"The difference between the reported earnings for the first quarter of the current fiscal year as compared with those for the corresponding quarter a year ago grows out of the fact that this year the earnings of the newly-leased Shepang Litchfield & Northern and of the New England Railroad companies are included in the New Haven report. There are also included for the first time the earnings of the three Sound Line properties, from which $558,242 are derived, the income of these boat lines in the summer being much larger than in the other quarters of the year.—V. 67, p. 1004.

Nicaragua Canal—Maritime Canal.—Grant to New Syndicate.—W. R. Grace, Chairman of the new Nicaragua Canal syndicate, says in substance:

A clear, workable concession has been granted by the Nicaraguan Government, ratified by the unanimous vote of the Congress, giving our syndicate the exclusive right to build the Nicaragua Canal. The Government of Nicaragua and its legal advisers considered the concession of the Maritime Company forfeited, but in deference to the rumored wishes of the Government of the United States it was decided that the Eyre-Cragin concession should take effect from Oct. 10, 1899, when the Maritime concession lapses by limitation. Until that time no action is required of us beyond that of completing the organization of the company that will carry out this enterprise.—V. 67, p. 29.

Northern Pacific Ry.—Oregon RR. & Navigation.—Great Northern Ry.—Friction Over the Clearwater Cut-Off.—Some friction has arisen between the interests concerned in the management of these properties over the proposed cut off planned to be built in connection with the Northern Pacific main line under the charter of the Clearwater Short Line Ry., as stated last week. This cut off would leave the main line in southeastern Washington, and would run through the Lolo Pass to a junction at Missoula, Montana, some distance west of Helena. The New York "Evening Post" said yesterday:

This disagreement manifested itself at a meeting of interested parties yesterday; but it was said by one of them to-day that the disoccasion had by no means become acute, and it was hoped and expected that the present differences could be amicably adjusted. The Oregon Navigation people contend that such a line as that proposed would take the Northern Pacific into territory belonging by right to the Oregon lines, and would in some degree parallel the existing routes, besides giving the Northern Pacific an undue advantage in shortening its own line. It is further urged by some of those interested in all the group of railways in that section that the Northern Pacific would make a mistake in undertaking new construction of any sort until it is more firmly on its feet, even if the country it is now proposed to take in should justify the construction of any more mileage there.

On the part of some Northern Pacific interests, it is urged that the question of its possible dividends is for the moment of less import than would be a material change in its route to the coast, as the Clearwater line would eventually become the main route for through business; it would save a very considerable distance in the haul, and open up territory which now lacks railway facilities. The Northern Pacific was in its inception built in the manner of railway lines of that day—to avoid heavy grades and cuts, disregarding directions to a large extent and aiming to tap business already existing along the route. Now-a-days, the aim is for short lines of greater initial cost but producing better operating results. This is a chief object in the Clearwater project.—V. 67, p. 1003, 789.

Northern Pacific Ry.—Coupon Bonds Only to be accepted for Conversion.—On and after Dec. 15th, 1898, coupon bonds only will be accepted for conversion on the terms announced on Oct. 1, 1898, viz.: $1,150 prior lien bonds for each $1,000 general first mortgage 6s. See advertisement on another page.—V. 67, p. 690.

Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain RR.—Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Ry.—Amended Plan—Reorganized Company.—When the road went into receiver's hands the rolling stock, bridges, etc., were in poor condition, and during the past two years a large amount of net earnings has been used for betterments. The necessity for making these expenditures and other reasons have led to a modification of the plan of reorganization, as will appear from the following:

The certificate of incorporation of a new company to be called the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Railway is being signed, and the new securities are about to be engraved. The new issues will be as follows:

First Mortgage 50 year $1,000 gold bonds, interest January and July, first coupon due Jan. 1, 1899. Total authorized issue	$4,400,000 of which as part consideration for the $3,300,000 old 6s of 1890, dollar for dollar	3,300,000
Treasury bonds available for extensions and other purposes	900,000
Preferred Stock, 4 per cent non-cumulative, total issue	1,500,000
of which as part consideration for the $3,300,000 old 6s of 1890, $400 per $1,000 bond	1,400,000
Treasury stock	100,000
Common Stock, total issue	2,900,000
of which as part consideration for the $1,500,000 old 6s of 1890, $500 per $1,000 bond	2,800,000
Treasury stock	100,000

The Central Trust Co. will be the mortgage trustee.

Exchange of Securities.—Under the plan as amended each certificate holder receives for every $1,000 of old bonds, with all coupons attached, one $1,000 fifty year first mortgage 4 per cent bond, $400, par value, of non-cumulative 4 per cent preferred stock and $800, par value, of common stock.

Interest Payment.—Holders of certificates of deposit for bonds under the original plan of reorganization, on presenting the same to the trust company issuing them, viz., the Central Trust Co. of New York or the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston, to be stamped in accordance with the amended plan of reorganization, will be paid $20 in cash upon each certificate of deposit of a $1,000 bond and $10 in cash upon each certificate of deposit of a $500 bond, as advance payment of the coupon maturing Jan. 1, 1899, on the new bonds.—V. 67, p. 951.

Oregon RR. & Navigation.—Refunding.—Kuhn, Loeb & Co. announce that the conversion of the 6 per cent 1st mortgage bonds of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. has reduced the amount outstanding to about $1,090,000, of which amount $190,000 will be redeemed for the sinking fund on Jan. 1. Holders of the first mortgage 6s are permitted for the present to continue to refund their holdings into the 4 per cent gold bonds maturing 1946 (which, except for the small balance of 6 per cent bonds, constitute the first mortgage upon the entire property), upon the basis of $1,150 in 4 per cent bonds for $1,000 in 6 per cent bonds. Holders converting prior to Dec. 1 receive the coupon on the 4 per cent bonds maturing on that date.—V. 67, p. 789.

Pacific Mail Steamship.—Dividends.—The directors on Wednesday increased the semi-annual dividend from 1 to 1½ per cent, payable Dec. 1. The cash holdings are reported as over $1,500,000. It will require $300,000 to pay the dividend. Additions to the fleet are contemplated.—V. 67, p. 219.

People's Gas Light & Coke Co. of Chicago.—New Stock.—The "New York Sun" said yesterday: "It is understood that the company is about to finance its purchase of the Manhattan Oil Company and the expenditure of $3,000,000 that it has agreed to make toward developing the use of natural gas in the city of Chicago by issuing $5,000,000 of new stock at par. This stock, it is understood, will be offered to the present stockholders of the company pro rata, and as the amount of new stock is equal to 20 per cent of the present capitalization, it is evident that at the present price of the stock the privilege to take the new shares should be worth 1½ per cent."—V. 67, p. 690.

Philadelphia Reading & New England RR.—Central New England RR.—The formal transfer of the Philadelphia Reading & New England to the successor company to be known as the Central New England Railroad, it is understood will take place Nov. 25. John W. Brock will remain President. The extension to Springfield will probably be pushed to early completion.—V. 67, p. 954.

Pittsburg Junction RR.—Notice to Security Holders.—The attention of the board of directors having been called to the plan proposed by the reorganization managers of the Baltimore & Ohio RR. for the consolidation of the Pittsburg Junction Railroad with certain Ohio lines, the board, at a meeting held Nov. 12, appointed the following directors and stockholders, viz.: James J. Donnell, of N. Holmes & Sons, bankers; John Z. Speer, of the Shoenberger Steel Co., and J. Painter, Jr., of J. Painter & Sons Co. (all of Pittsburg, Pa.), to act in this matter with the holders of the securities of this company and of the Pittsburg Junction Terminal Co. It is the sense of the board that it is inadvisable to accept the proposed plan.—V. 67, p. 954.

Rockford (Ill.) City Ry. Co.—Rockford Traction Co.—Consolidation.—These companies are reported to have effected the proposed consolidation under the title of the Rockford Railway, Light and Power Co. The new company began operations Nov. 10.—V. 67, p. 737, 321.

St. Louis Terminal Cupples Station & Property Co.—Half-Yearly Statement.—Statement for the six months ending Nov. 1, 1898, shows:

Receipts, six months' rents, &c.	$148,783
Six months' taxes, insurance and expenses of every kind	31,884
Net receipts	$116,899
Bond interest, six months, 4½ per cent on $3,000,000	67,500
Surplus	$49,399

—V. 66, p. 519.

Sioux City & Northern Ry.—Coupon.—As ordered by Judge Shiras of the Federal Court, in the Northern District of Iowa, the receivers have paid to the Manhattan Trust Co., New York, $59,000 due on coupons of January, 1895.—V. 67, p. 902.

Southern Pacific RR.—Bonds Over Subscribed.—Subscriptions for the $10,000,000 5 per cent first consolidated mortgage gold bonds advertised for sale at 101½ and interest by Speyer & Co. were largely in excess of the amount offered. The Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky guarantees unconditionally the principal and interest of the bonds sold. The security for the loan is described as follows:

These bonds are secured by a first lien on 724 miles of railroad and its equipment; also by the deposit with the trustee of $5,422,000 6 per cent Southern Pacific Branch Ry. Co. first mortgage bonds (of the total issue of $8,955,000). The mortgage further covers 1,045 miles of railroad and the land grants belonging to the company, subject to the lien of $30,577,500 6 per cent Southern Pacific RR. Co. (of Cal.) first mortgage bonds; also 186 miles of railroad covered by the above mentioned Southern Pacific Branch Ry. Co. first mortgage bonds; also 25 miles of railroad subject to the lien of $500,000 5 per cent Stockton & Copperopolis RR. bonds.—V. 67, p. 957.

Southwestern Traction Co. of Philadelphia.—New Bonds.—The company has made an issue of $450,000 of 5 per cent first mortgage gold bonds, $50,000 of which are retained to guarantee the interest for eighteen months. The loan is secured by mortgage to the West End Trust & Safe Deposit Co. of Philadelphia, trustee, and covers the street railway extending from Jackson Street at Second, along Jackson to Moyamensing Avenue, thence along Moyamensing Avenue, crossing the Penrose Ferry Bridge to a point upon the city line. The bonds are offered at 95 and interest.

Staten Island Rapid Transit.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending September 30 have been reported.

3 mos. ending Sept. 30.	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Interest (rent's, etc.	Balance sur. or def.
1898	$176,230	$75,022	$87,223	def. $11,601
1897	192,967	92,146	79,922	sur. 12,224

Loans and bills payable Sept. 30, 1898, $830,707, against $979,707 on June 30.—V. 67, p. 737.

Street Railway & Illuminating Properties.—Distribution from Sale of Assets.—One of the trustees writes us as follows: "The statement in the newspapers that a dividend of $2 a share has been declared on the common stock is an error, as the amount paid on the 16th was a distribution of $2 per share, or a division of the proceeds of the sale of the assets. The dividend periods on the preferred stock were February 1 and August 1, but the preferred stock has all been retired and distributions will be made on the common stock at irregular intervals." V. 66, p. 811.

Trenton (N. J.) Electric Light & Power.—Purchased.—Thomas C. Barr of Orange and Col. A. R. Kuser of Trenton, it is understood, have purchased the stock and franchises of this company, paying $116,000, or at the rate of $100 per share for the $256,000 of 5 per cent preferred stock and $40 per share for the $400,000 common stock. Plans for a consolidation of the Electric Light Company with the Trenton Street Ry. Co. are said to be under consideration.

Union Traction Co. of New Jersey.—Foreclosure.—Vice-Chancellor Pitney heard argument in Chancery Chambers at Newark this week in the suit of the Metropolitan Trust Co., the mortgage trustee, to foreclose the mortgage for $1,000,000. Creditors have secured judgments amounting to over $50,000, but the trust company claims the mortgage is a prior lien on all the property.—V. 67, p. 275.

The sum of $152,979 has been deducted from accumulated Net Profits to August 31, 1897, for three months' dividend upon Preferred Stock, as is shown by entry in the General Profit and Loss Account. This has been done, under authorization of the Board of Directors, that the Preferred Stock dividend year and the Common Stock dividend year may coincide and may both agree with the Company's fiscal year.

The entry made for this purpose does not have the effect of lessening cash or other assets, but is made in order to conform to the laws of the State of New Jersey, under the provisions of which no dividend can be set apart or paid on the Common Stock for any year until the entire fixed dividend for that year upon the Preferred Stock shall have been set apart or paid.

REMARKS.

The Board of Directors, at a meeting held Nov. 1, after declaring the usual Semi-Annual Dividend of 3 per cent upon the Preferred Stock, authorized the distribution of the sum of $607,113 to the holders of the Common Stock, both Dividends payable December 1, 1898.

This action is noteworthy because the Dividend upon the Common Stock is the first paid on that stock since the organization of the Company

The Stockholders are to be congratulated upon so successful a result of the year's business.

The Cotton Crop for the year was the largest on record. Your Company crushed more Cotton Seed than in any previous year. The volume of business increased 17½ per cent in value and 27 per cent in quantity over the previous year. These facts supply evidence that the Cotton Oil Industry is permanent and growing.

The export business of the Company has been materially increased during the past year, as compared with recent years, and new markets are being assiduously sought and cultivated in every quarter.

The whole output of the year has been profitably marketed, the low average of prices for products which has prevailed having been offset by reduced cost of raw material and by economies in manufacture and in cost of management.

Since the opening of the current year the business transacted by your Company has been satisfactory, and although the present outlook is for another very large Cotton Crop, and for a continuance of a low range of values of products, your Directors are prepared to reap for the Company its full share of the benefits accruing from the era of prosperity so generally prognosticated.

For the Board of Directors,

GEORGE A. MORRISON, Chairman.

Tin Plate Consolidation.—Deal Nearly Completed.—Arrangements for the consolidation of the leading tin plate works of the country are being perfected at Chicago, under the direction of Judge W. H. Moore of that city. The best data therefor regarding the enterprise are obtainable from Chicago sources. For this reason we quote from the "Chicago Economist" the following statement, having first had it approved by persons in this city acquainted with the pending proceedings:

"Options have been closed on most of the mills, and most of the cash needed is in sight. The new company, it is understood, will have an authorized capitalization of $50,000,000, of which $20,000,000 will be 7% cumulative preferred and the remainder common. About $18,000,000 preferred and $28,000,000 common will be issued at once. The plan of payment will be the same as in the Biscuit Company, one share of preferred, paid for at par, carrying one share of common as a bonus. Of the purchase price to be paid to the mills about 95% has been subscribed back for preferred stock in the new company, while mill owners have subscribed about $2,000,000 in cash—that is, have taken that much underwriting in addition to the price of their mills. It is reported that 105 is already bid for the underwriting rights. The new company will start off with about $5,000,000 working capital. The tin plate men interested in the consolidation figure on a present annual output of about 8,000,000 boxes, which they believe will be increased to 9,000,000 next year, of this total output the mills in the consolidation will have about 8,000,000 boxes. Tin plate men also figure on net earnings of at least $4,000,000 for the new company on this output. The mills are mostly situated in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, but a large saving can be made in freights as well as in operating expenses, managerial salaries, etc., under the consolidation. There will be some equalizing of prices in directions where competition has been excessive, but it is not the intention to make any radical advance in the general level."

The new company, it is said, will be incorporated under the laws of New Jersey.

Welsbach Commercial.—Dividend Reduced.—Directors.—The company on Thursday reduced its dividend from 2 to 1 per cent quarterly, thus making it a 4, instead of an 8, per cent stock. In Philadelphia it is expected similar action will be taken later by the Welsbach Light Co. The stockholders of the Welsbach Commercial Co. at their annual meeting, Thursday, elected the outgoing board of directors, with the exception of Calvin S. Brice, who was succeeded by W. F. Douthird.—V. 65, p. 1021.

Westinghouse Air Brake—American Air Brake.—Consolidation Ratified.—The stockholders of the American Brake Co. on Tuesday ratified the proposition to consolidate with the present lessee of the company, the Westinghouse Air Brake Co., on the terms mentioned last week.—V. 67, p. 1004.

Wisconsin Central.—$1,000,000 Additional Receivers' Certificates—Old Certificates Extended.—Judge Jenkins at Milwaukee has authorized the receivers to issue a second series of receivers' certificates, to the amount of $1,000,000, to draw interest at the rate of 6 per cent and to be payable in five years from March 1, 1899. The proceeds will be used for the purchase of equipment. Of the certificates, $600,000 will be a lien against the Wisconsin Central Company and $400,000 against the Railroad Company.

The $2,000,000 receivers' certificates now outstanding fell due on Wednesday, but under authority of Court were extended for two years at 5 per cent. Both issues are subject to call after six months on thirty days' notice.—V. 67, p. 947.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 18, 1898.

Healthy business conditions have been reported in practically all lines of merchandise; and exclusive of such articles as are suffering from over-production, values as a rule have shown a hardening tendency. Developments in the sugar trade war have attracted considerable attention. Prices for the refined product have been advanced ¼c. by all refiners, which, however, it is claimed was made necessary by the increased cost of the raw material. Early in the week there was a revival of the active export demand for breadstuffs and it had a temporarily strengthening influence upon values. Although the progress of the Peace Commissioners at Paris has continued slow, no apprehension as to the final outcome appears to be felt. A report to the effect that the German Emperor intended visiting Spain received some attention early in the week. Subsequently, however, this report was officially denied.

Lard on the spot has had only a moderate sale, as both exporters and refiners have continued limited buyers. Early in the week prices were lower. Subsequently the loss was partially recovered, closing at 5·20c. for prime Western and 4·90c. for prime City. Refined lard has been in modern demand, but prices have weakened slightly, closing at 5·45c. for refined for the Continent. Speculation in lard for future delivery has been moderately active. Early in the week prices declined under full receipts of swine and selling by bear operators. Subsequently, however, on a demand from shorts to cover contracts and smaller receipts of swine the loss was recovered.

West India growths have been fairly active for the medium grades, but at lower prices, closing at 7¾c. for fair Cucuta. East India growths have been quite steady. Speculation in cotton for future delivery has continued quiet. Regular operators, as a rule, have been slow to make new ventures of importance, as they fail to see anything in the situation to induce buying for investment account, and prices are on too low a basis to warrant sales for a decline. The outside interest shown in the market has also continued small. The few orders received, however, have been principally to buy, based on the low prices ruling. The net changes in values for the week have been of an unimportant nature. Monday there was an upward turn to prices, the advance amounting to 6@7 points. Shorts were the principal buyers, stimulated by stronger foreign advices, a slight falling off in the crop movement, steadier Southern markets and less favorable weather conditions at the South. Tuesday prices reacted 3 to 4 points under disappointing foreign advices and limited selling for foreign and Southern account. Wednesday the market was again easier, closing 2 to 3 points lower for the day, under continued selling for foreign account and in response to slightly easier foreign advices. Thursday foreign advices came unexpectedly stronger, and this, together with the movement of the crop showing a slight falling off, advanced prices 1 to 4 points. To-day the market was moderately active and firmer. Shorts were the principal buyers, stimulated by stronger foreign advices, reports of a better trade at Fall River and a smaller movement of the crop. The close showed prices 3@5 points higher for the day. Cotton on the spot has been steady, and prices were advanced 1-16c. on Monday. To-day the market was unchanged at 5⅞c. for middling uplands.

The rates on and off middling, as established Nov. 16, 1898 by the Revision Committee, at which grades other than middling may be delivered on contract, are as follows.

NEW ENGLAND COTTON MILLS SITUATION.—The Fall River mills idle this week include the Fall River Manufactory Laurel Lake and Metacomet Mills. The Granite Mills Nos. 1 and 2 close to-day and to-morrow and the Narragansett is running on a short-time schedule. The Smith cotton mill at Coldbrook Springs, Mass., has ceased operations indefinitely on account of the dull state of the trade for their goods.

NEW YORK COTTON EXCHANGE.—The Committee on Revision of Quotations on November 16 made the following changes in cotton quotations: Fair was 1c. on, now 1¼c. on middling. Middling fair was ¾c. on, now ⅞c. on middling. Strict good middling was 7-16c. on, now ½c. on middling. Good middling was 5-16c. on, now ⅜c. on middling. The remainder of the grades were left unchanged. The changes went into effect November 17.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers held Thursday, Mr. William V. King retired from the presidency of the Exchange and was elected Superintendent. Mr. Thomas M. Robinson, the present Vice-President, will act as President pro tem.

The amendment concerning warehouse receipts came before the meeting but action thereon was deferred.

AUGUSTA (GA.) WAGES REDUCTION.—It is reported that the operatives in the Augusta (Ga.) cotton mills have organized to resist the reduction in wages which it has been the intention of mill owners to put into effect this month. Latest advices are to the effect that November 21 is the date set for the reduction to begin, but in the meantime the city authorities and local business men will endeavor to have the order rescinded. As an inducement the City Councilmen will, it is understood, offer a reduction in city taxation.

LARGE COTTON CARGO.—The steamer Monarch cleared from New Orleans for Liverpool on Friday, Nov. 11, with what is said to be the largest general cargo ever sent from that port. Her cargo consisted of 20,650 bales of cotton, 128,571 bushels of corn and 18,941 pieces of oak staves, weighing in all 18,303,026 pounds. The largest cotton cargo ever carried from the United States was 23,814 bales on the steamer Milwaukee, which cleared from New Orleans for Liverpool, Oct. 30, 1897, and in addition to the cotton she carried a quantity of flour, corn, oats, staves, &c.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—The market for jute bagging has displayed more firmness during the past week. Quotations, however, are unchanged at 6¼c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6⅝c. for 2 lbs., standard grades. Car-load lots of standard brands are quoted at 6⅛c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6½c. for 2 lbs., f. o. b. at New York. Jute butts continue very dull at 90c. for paper quality and 1¾c. for mixing.

EGYPTIAN COTTON CROP.—The following on the cotton crop of Egypt, dated Alexandria, Oct. 29, has been furnished to us by Mr. Fr. Jac. Andres of Boston.

The damage to our crop is serious, not only as regards the quantity but the quality as well. Present estimates of crop differ, but it is doubtful whether it will reach six millions. Fine, strong and stapled cotton is scarce. The second picking will be decidedly inferior.

SOUDAN.—It is generally calculated that it will be five years at least before northern parts from Khartoum can be prepared for cotton cultivation. At any rate, the quality of the cotton produced in the Soudan is very inferior to ours, it being as rough and woolly as Peruvian cotton and could, therefore, never compete with fine stapled Egyptian, raised in the Delta.

EUROPEAN COTTON CONSUMPTION TO NOVEMBER 1.—By cable to-day we have Mr. Ellison's cotton figures brought down to November 1. We give also revised totals for last year that comparison may be made. The spinners' takings in actual bales and pounds have been as follows:

October 1 to November 1.	Great Britain.	Continent.	Total.
For 1898.
Takings by spinners...bales	278,000	246,000	524,000

Takings in pounds	122,675,000	119,097,000	241,984,000

According to the above, the average weight of the deliveries in Great Britain is 490 pounds per bale this season, against 494 pounds during the same time last season. The Continental deliveries average 483 pounds, against 497 pounds last year, and for the whole of Europe the deliveries average 486·9 pounds per bale against 495·8 pounds last season. Our dispatch also gives the full movement for this year and last year in bales of 500 pounds.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 18 1898.

Early in the week a fair volume of business was transacted in the market for wheat flour. The demand came almost exclusively from the home trade, an advance in the price for the grain stimulating the inquiry and in some instances slightly higher prices were paid. Subsequently, however, following a reaction in wheat values, demand fell off and there developed an easier tone, sellers showing a willingness to make slight concessions on some lines to effect sales. Rye flour has had a fairly large sale and at full values. Buckwheat flour has been sparingly offered and prices have advanced. Corn meal has been quiet and values have been barely maintained.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has been fairly active, but the tone of the market has been somewhat unsettled. Early in the week the tendency of prices was towards a higher basis in response to stronger foreign advices and a revival of the active export demand, the purchases on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday being daily slightly in excess of 1,000,000 bushels. Subsequently, however, there was a reaction, nearly all of the improvement being lost. There was a sudden falling off in the export demand, cable advices came weaker and advices from the Northwest continued to report an unusually large crop movement. The last-named factor had the most important bearing upon the situation, it being, apparently, largely responsible for the shrinkage in the export demand and easier foreign advices and prompted bear operators to be more aggressive in their operations. To-day the market was easier during early 'Change in response to weaker foreign advices. Subsequently, however, on a more active export demand the market turned firmer and the early loss was recovered, closing with prices practically unchanged for the day. The spot market was active, the sales to-day here and at outports amounting to about 720,000 bushels.

Indian corn futures have been slightly more active but for the week prices show no important changes. Early in the week a fairly active export demand and sympathy with an advance in wheat held prices steady in the face of more favorable weather conditions in the corn belt and a free movement of the crop. Tuesday prices declined ½c. in sympathy with easier markets for other grains, continued favorable weather and under realizing sales by longs. Wednesday the loss was recovered on buying, largely by shorts to cover contracts, stimulated by a good cash trade and light receipts in the interior. To-day the market was firmer but quiet. The spot market was moderately active. The sales for export here and at outports were about 400,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery at the Western market have been moderately active, and prices have shown a hardening tendency throughout the week. The cash trade has been fairly brisk, although the demand has come almost exclusively from the home trade. The movement of the crop has been only moderate. There has been fair buying by prominent operators for investment account, and there has been a general demand from shorts to cover contracts. To-day the market was quiet but steady. The spot market was moderately active and firm.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 18, 1898.

The cotton goods market has been stirred up this week by two events of quite different character. New prices have been made on leading lines of 4-4 bleached cottons, reducing them well below any previous level, and there has been an unexpectedly active demand for all grades of print cloths, resulting in an all-round advance of 1-16c per yard. The response of the trade to the new prices on bleached has been decidedly encouraging, purchases being large in the aggregate and individually much freer than for a long time past; this, in combination with the print cloth movement, has imparted to the market at the close a more cheerful tone than noticeable of late. In other directions the demand has been fully up to previous average in both staple and fancy lines, and the impression is gaining ground that the market has seen its worst in prices, except perhaps on fancy calicoes for spring on which agents have yet to declare themselves. In the woolen goods division a somewhat fuller demand is reported in both men's-wear fabrics and dress goods, but without change in tone.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The clothing trade has been rather more liberal in the number of reorders placed by it during the week for light-weights in men's-wear woolen and worsted fabrics, and for the time of year there has been a fair demand for heavy-weights, the aggregate business thus showing some improvement in volume. The demand is, however, still insufficient to put the market in good shape and has really served to incite some sellers to renewed exertions to secure orders at the expense of prices, and considerable irregularity still exists. There has been no definite movement as yet for the next heavy-weight season. In overcoatings and cloakings business has been indifferent, without quotable change in prices. Flannels and blankets have ruled dull and unchanged.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 14 were 1,965 packages, valued at $97,496, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $9,905,865 in 1898, against $9,049,831 in 1897.

Reductions in prices of bleached cottons put Fruit of the Loom and Masonville 4-4 at 5¼c. net., Lonsdale at 5¼c., Hope and Blackstone at 5c., Fitchville at 4¾c., and several other tickets in line therewith. These prices have proved decidedly attractive to buyers, and within the past two days large sales have been made. In low grade bleached the tone is firmer in sympathy with print cloths. Brown sheetings and drills are firm in leading heavy-weights and fine yarn light-weight goods are against buyers. The tone of the market for denims is steadier, stocks having been considerably reduced. Other coarse colored cottons have been without feature of moment. Wide sheetings are dull and barely steady. Cotton flannels and blankets steady with moderate sales. Kid-finished cambrics unchanged. Shirting prints for spring sell freely. Other prints in fully average request. Printed specialties in wash fabrics in good demand. Staple ginghams generally ¼c. per yard higher. Dress style ginghams very firm. Print cloths, with large sales, have advanced to the basis of 2 1-16c. for regulars, closing decidedly firm thereat.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—The seasonable demand has been slow at irregular prices on all lines. Orders for spring are still disappointingly slow, and in all departments the new season's business is reported backward.

The report in the papers of the sale of $2,300,000 of this loan in New York City was simply the refunding of that amount by the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank and the German Savings Bank in substitution of bonds held by these institutions. About $4,000,000 of the new bonds, as published in the CHRONICLE September 10, 1898, are required to retire existing issues. The remaining $900,000, Mr. Shryock says, will be advertised for sale in a few days, and will be issued for the following purposes: $300,000 for penitentiary, $80,000 for House of Correction, $220,000 for an additional building at the Springfield Hospital for the Insane, $300,000 for an armory for the Fifth Regiment.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

We present below our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, November 19, and the results for the corresponding week in 1897, 1896 and 1895 are also given. The totals for the week in 1898 for New York and for the whole country are the heaviest in our record. In comparison with the preceding week there is an increase in the aggregate exchanges of three hundred and fifteen million dollars, and at New York alone the gain is two hundred and forty-eight millions. Contrasted with the week of 1897 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 36·0 per cent. Compared with the week of 1896 the current returns record a gain of 41·6 per cent, and the excess over 1895 is 57·9 per cent. Outside of New York the increase over 1897 is 16·3 per cent. The excess over 1896 reaches 26·4 per cent, and making comparison with 1895 the gain is seen to be 24·2 per cent.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS.

We give in this issue of the Chronicle (pages 1101 and 1102) the details of the condition of the national banks under the returns of July 14th and September 20th 1898. These are the last two compilations made by Mr. Charles G. Dawes, Comptroller of the Currency.

STREET RAILWAY SUPPLEMENT.

A new number of our Street Railway Supplement, revised to date, accompanies the present issue of the Chronicle. The Supplement contains editorial articles on the following subjects.

CONVERTIBLE CARS.
STREET RAILROAD ORGANIZATION.
DOUBLE-TRUCKED CARS.
INTER-URBAN RAILROADS.
GROWING USE OF LONG CARS.
STREET TRANSPORTATION COSTS IN NEW YORK.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

No new general influences affecting values have been apparent in our markets this week. Fresh developments of conditions active all through the month, summarizes the varying state of affairs which has existed. Among these developments the more prominent were—the changing phases of the Peace Congress in Paris indicating as the week closes a settlement of the terms of peace; the decided weakness and further fall in rates for foreign exchange; and the monetary situation in Europe, an emphatic expression of which is to be found in the noteworthy rise of the rate of interest by the Bank of Germany to 6 per cent.

To these general influences should be added rumors and movements of a special character looking to or promising an adjustment of matters in controversy between certain competitive roads, such as the disputes with reference to extensions which have been endangering the harmonious relations of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, also the coal trade contentions which are proving so disastrous to the values of coal road stocks that have for long years been among our most reliable investment properties, and likewise the settlement of the Canadian rate war between the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk. Indeed, at the moment the spirit of compromise is in the air. How far it will become effective in closing up the breaches that threaten or exist in many directions we cannot undertake to say. Concessions are the tendency of the hour, the feature of the times. This, no doubt, springs out of the prospect now before our industrial classes of a term of business prosperity. But aside from that, it finds encouragement in the fact we have referred to on previous occasions, that the consolidating and centralizing process which has marked our railroad history of recent years is a force working more and more for peace. Capital wants remuneration, and now that the owner of the roads is getting nearer and nearer to and becoming the larger part of the management, sometimes controlling every competitive property in a given section, differences are being kept in restraint and not so often allowed to run into destructive struggles.

The advance last Saturday by the Imperial Bank of Germany of its rate of discount from 5½ per cent to 6 per cent we have referred to above as a leading incident of the week. This is a higher point than any rate reached since 1882, during the financial crisis at Paris. Not even in the Baring panic of 1890 did the rate rise above 5½ per cent. The present action by the Bank was, though, expected; on Friday of last week, when the open market rate at Berlin was 5⅝ per cent, it was regarded as certain that an advance in the Bank rate could not long be deferred. Now that the movement has become an accomplished fact, it is somewhat of a surprise that its potency has been so circumscribed. No special effect was noticeable on the London open market rate except that on Monday that rate was firmer at 3½ to 3⅝ per cent; but on Tuesday the market was easier again, especially for short bills, which were reported at 3 7-16 per cent against 3½ per cent on the previous day, while yesterday the rate was 3¼ per cent. Neither did the open market rate at Berlin follow the Bank rate, it being without change on Monday, while on Tuesday the unofficial rate fell to 5⅛@5¼ per cent. Private advices, however, reported an urgent demand in Berlin on that day for money on call at 8 per cent and that the rate for the settlement was from 5¾ to 5⅞ per cent; later cables noted an improved feeling on the Bourse and still lower open market rates. In Paris the advance at Berlin seemed to be without influence; that is to say, the Paris open market rate remained unchanged at 3 per cent. Altogether, therefore, the indications, as we write, seem to point to the liquidation of speculative accounts at Berlin without causing disturbance at the discount markets of other European centres.

It is a significant incident that in face of the high interest rate in Berlin foreign exchange rates fell in New York. At first thought one would have supposed that our exchange market would have reflected the 6 per cent at Berlin by an advance. That would have been the case had the exchange rates ruling been natural and not wholly speculative. As we pointed out last week, the speculative situation of that market was somewhat critical. By critical, we mean needing a little easing of the strain by lowering the rate and providing for another inflow of gold. So it happens that this week the investment demand for bills is inconspicuous. Another important feature is that the shipments of merchandise compared with the October movement are increasing. This latter condition is evident as the current engagements of breadstuffs for export and the weekly shipments of merchandise are in excess of a year ago, and a year ago the November total was in excess of this year's October total, which we referred to last week. The coming December exports, too, are likely to be larger than either the October or the November movement; hence with the accumulated trade balance as it stands and these larger additions in prospect, the size of the load to be carried if there is no limit put to the speculation in progress, can be easily estimated. We only mention these facts to show how unpromising as a money-making venture the so-called "investment" purchases of exchange are likely to prove. Under existing circumstances it is no surprise that on th withdrawal from the market of "investors, rates should have dropped even in face of the rise in the interest rate at Berlin. We hav all along thought that possibly the money payment we might consent to make to Spain in settling up the details of peace would be so considerable as t help later in the season to steady our exchange ma

ket. Now that the total is apparently determined, and is so small in amount, only $20,000,000, the affair has become an unimportant element in the problem; besides it will most likely be several months before the appropriations can be passed making even that item available.

If current indications are worth anything, important developments may be expected in the anthracite coal trade in the near future. During the last three or four weeks information has come to us from several different sources telling of some arrangements on foot, but which could not yet be disclosed, for working a change in the anthracite situation. The present week these reports have found their way to the Stock Exchange, and yesterday there were very confident statements that all differences between the companies had been definitely adjusted. Very naturally the prices of the anthracite shares have sharply advanced. A change in the anthracite situation will be welcome in more quarters than one. It is open to question whether the reports speaking of the unsatisfactory condition of the trade which have been circulated with so much persistency of late have not been greatly exaggerated and purposely exaggerated. And yet it must be admitted that there is much room for improvement. Indeed, there has been something anomalous about the existing state of things. The anthracite fields are so limited, and the mines in them and the transportation agencies from them so controlled that despite all laws against pools and trusts it ought to be an easy matter to place the trade on some sensible basis where the interests of consumers might be protected, and yet those engaged in the industry be allowed to make some profit out of it. As it is, the miners are suffering, the mine-owners are making nothing, the carriers are faring worse and worse, and even the dealers in coal, wholesale and retail—following the practices of the railroads—have been cutting so much among themselves that their plight is as bad as any of the others, and many of them have been forced out of business. The consumer is getting his coal somewhat cheaper to be sure, but at what a sacrifice to those catering to his needs! The sooner such a depressing situation is remedied the better for all concerned.

The foregoing also helps to throw light upon the attacks which have recently been made upon Delaware & Hudson. We say "attacks," because it is impossible to resist the impression that the purpose has been to damage the property in the eyes of investors rather than to present an unbiased statement of its condition. There has also been evident manipulation of the price of the company's shares. On one day last week the stock was inactive all day, with very few dealings, until five minutes before the close of the Exchange, when over twenty-five hundred shares were thrown on the market, and instead of securing the best price obtainable the seller was evidently anxious to make the price as low as possible. We do not claim to know whether the dividend on the stock will be maintained on its present basis or will have to be reduced. Those closest to the management seem to think that the necessity for a reduction will not arise. One thing is perfectly obvious. Among all the talk and gossip regarding the property, the only definite, tangible fact that has developed clearly and indisputably unfavorable in its character has been the condition of the anthracite trade. That has been a long-continued adverse element from which the Delaware & Hudson has suffered in common with the other anthracite companies. If the "bear" operators on the Street had not had that influence on their side, all their movements must have miscarried. Even as it is the position of the Delaware & Hudson must be regarded, in a very important particular at least, as one of great strength. Its capitalization consists almost entirely of stock. During all recent years it has been the policy of the management to replace the company's bond issues, as they matured, with stock, and to-day while there is $35,000,000 of stock, there is only $5,000,000 of bonds. A property so circumstanced is obviously not only in position to respond very readily to an improvement in the trade on which its prosperity is largely dependent, but well prepared to stand a further siege of adversity should the depression in anthracite coal unfortunately be prolonged.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned at 3 per cent and at 2 per cent at the Stock Exchange during the week, with the bulk of the business and the average at 2½ per cent. The higher rate was recorded on Monday, but very little money was loaned at 3 per cent on that day. Thereafter the range was from 2½ to 2 per cent. Banks and trust companies quote 2½ per cent as the minimum. Time money is in good supply, but the demand is moderate, and rates are 2½ per cent for thirty days, 3 per cent for sixty to ninety days, 3 to 3½ per cent for four months and 3½ per cent for five to six months on good Stock Exchange collateral. The banks report a limited supply of commercial paper, while brokers say that there is a fair amount offering and that the demand is good for the best names. Rates are 3¼ to 3½ per cent for sixty to ninety-day endorsed bills receivable, 3½ to 4¼ per cent for prime and 4½@5½ per cent for good four to six months' single names. The transfers of money through the Treasury have been moderate this week and chiefly to the South and to the Southwest. Banks report a comparatively light movement of money, and also that the institutions in the principa Western cities and in the Northwest are unusually well supplied.

Bankers express the opinion that money will be moderately active for the remainder of the year at least. They base their judgment upon the fact that the bank reserves are low; that some of the larger institutions have only a small margin above the required reserve; that loans have been greatly expanded, now amounting to unprecedentedly large figures, and that there is more or less tension in the foreign financial situation, which, should it become acute from any cause, would probably be reflected here. No stringency in the money market is apprehended but it is felt that, considering the circumstances and the season of the year, fairly high rates should rule. Money is in better demand at the principal interior points, reflecting increased business requirements, and bankers claim that there is no reason why there should not be an augmented inquiry here. The plan for the resuscitation of the Tradesmen's National Bank has been abandoned, and the institution will go into voluntary liquidation. There is said to be enough cash on hand with which to pay off about $1,700,000 of the deposits, and good assets can be realized upon in four months for the payment of the remainder of the deposits.

The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Imperial Bank of Germany on Saturday of last week advanced its rate of discount to 6 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London 3½ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 3 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 5@5¼ per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £537,941 bullion during the week, and held £32,977,053 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to the import of £239,000 (of which £135,000 were from the Cape, £109,000 from France and £5,000 from other countries), to £319,000 net received from the interior of Great Britain, and to £20,000 miscellaneous exports.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue on Monday formally decided that cable transfers must be stamped with a four-cent ad valorem stamp.* Those bankers who contended that a two-cent stamp was sufficient have complied with the decision of the Internal Revenue Department and all drawers of cable transfers now affix a four-cent ad valorem stamp. The business in transfers is, however, quite small, trading in them is practically suspended, and they are drawn only in response to current requirements. The purchases of long sterling for investment to hold until it runs to sight have entirely ceased this week. There has been some buying of long reischsmarks for investment, but the market for them is not sufficiently broad to permit of extensive operations in German exchange. It is reported that considerable amounts of money belonging to New York and Chicago banks are being loaned in Berlin through the largest of the institutions in that city. The principal feature of the exchange market during the week has been the liberal supply of cotton bills. These have been in excess of the demand, and consequently the tone of the market has been easy and at intervals weak, with fractional declines in rates.

The range for nominal rates for exchange has been from 4 82½@4 83 for sixty days and from 4 86@4 86¼ for sight during the week, Brown Bros. & Co. reducing their posted rates on Monday. Rates for actual business on that day were unchanged compared with those on Friday of last week for long sterling and for cable transfers, at 4 82½@4 82¾ for the former and 4 86@4 86¼ for the latter, but rates for short sterling were reduced one quarter of a cent, to 4 85½@4 85¾. The tone was easy, becoming weak on the following day, when there was a reduction in rates for actual business of one quarter of a cent all around, to 4 82@4 82¼ for long, 4 85@4 85¼ for short and 4 85¾@4 86 for cable transfers. On Wednesday the tone was dull and barely steady and rates for actual business in long sterling and cable transfers were reduced one quarter of a cent, to 4 81¾@4 82 for the former and 4 85½@4 85¾ for the latter, while those for short sterling were unchanged. Thursday was a holiday. On Friday the market was weak and rates for short fell one-quarter of a cent. The following shows daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., November 17, 1898.

CHAS. H. TREAT, Esq., Collector Internal Revenue, New York:

SIR—I am in receipt of your letter of Nov. 7, 1898, in which you state that you have been informed that a number of parties making cable transfers of money only affix a two-cent stamp, on the ground that it is the same as a check, and that your construction of the law is that it requires a stamp tax of 4 cents per $100, or fraction thereof, and you desire a ruling on this matter that you can publish, and that then you will insist upon the payment both in the past and the present.

Complying with this request you are advised that this office sustains your construction of the law.

The paragraph in Schedule A, beginning "Bills of Exchange (foreign)," expressly includes orders by telegraph, or otherwise, for the payment of money issued by express or other companies, or any person or persons. If a cablegram is sent from the United States to any point or place without the jurisdiction of the United States, and by this cablegram an order for the payment of money is made, it is subject to a tax of four cents for each $100, or fractional part thereof, of money ordered to be paid under the cablegram.

Very Respectfully,
W. B. SCOTT,
Commissioner.

OUR COLONIAL PROBLEM.

We take it that the ultimatum submitted by our Peace Commissioners on Monday, to the Spanish delegates at Paris, embodied the formal decision of our Government to retain and administer through its own officers the Philippine Islands. We assume, also, that Spain will yield to this ultimatum. Some momentary doubt was caused on Monday afternoon by a cabled misinterpretation of the angry remarks made outside the Paris council-room by Señor Montero Rios of the Spanish Commission. Señor

Rios did, it appears, declare his personal unwillingness to negotiate on any such terms. But in the first place the Spanish Government's decision cannot be regulated by any single delegate at Paris, and in the second place the motive of every Spanish public man to rid himself of individual responsibility is obvious. We should suppose that the more recent reports that Spain, while submitting to the inevitable, will reject the proffered indemnity of $20,000,000, are a similar concession to domestic pride and public opinion. That the indemnity will be finally rejected we hardly believe; we think, in fact, that such a policy might very properly be vetoed by the creditors of Spain. But the instinctive wish to avert as much as possible of the humiliation of surrender can be readily understood.

The peace negotiation as it stands to-day has several distinct aspects. The first of these is embodied in the Spanish protest that the terms of the American ultimatum are unwarrantably harsh. We are unable to see the justice of this contention. It is quite true that our Government might have chosen to waive all claims except such as arose in the West Indies. It is possible that Spain expected some such liberality, but the expectation certainly had no basis beyond the Spanish theory as to what our Government might choose to do. The protocol of August 12 was quite distinct in its provision that the disposition of the Philippines should be decided by subsequent negotiation, and such provision necessarily left the matter open to any demand which the negotiators should submit.

As to the question whether the demand submitted this week by our Commissioners is unreasonable or not, we know of no other test to apply than precedent in former peace negotiations. The Franco-German war was closed by the cession to Prussia of Alsace-Lorraine, for which nothing was paid by the victors, and by the further exaction of a cash indemnity amounting to a billion dollars. The Graeco-Turkish war of 1897, which lasted scarcely two weeks, ended with an indemnity charge of $20,000,000 against Greece. In our own present case, the United States not only demands no cash payment from Spain, but offers $20,000,000 cash in reimbursement of Spain's outlay for the legitimate expenses of the Philippines.

It is contended by the Spanish negotiators that, since the American troops had actually obtained full possession neither of Cuba, nor of Porto Rico, nor of the Philippines, this country has no title arising from conquest. But this plea is inadmissible, in view of the fact that Spain itself, in its appeal for peace last August, acknowledged that its power of resistance had reached an end. Nobody doubts that if Spain had not asked a truce, the American troops would shortly have taken possession of all strategic points in the three colonies. Porto Rico was already virtually in our possession; Spain had no means of defending Havana against a land attack. Manila itself had fallen, and the fact that its surrender occurred after the actual signing of the protocol is a matter of little moment. It is such facts as these which constitute occupation and conquest. It should be remembered that even in the overwhelming debacle of 1871 the Germans actually occupied only a small part of the French territory.

So much for the propriety of the American demands, in the light of international law and precedent. The further very important consideration remains, how are our own national interests to be affected by the acquisition of this new territory? Broadly speaking, the discussion of this problem has brought into controversy three very vital questions: How would our system of government adapt itself to a colonial policy; how far should we be able to administer properly and successfully these distant acquisitions; and to what extent would a movement into the Philippines affect our future foreign relations?

On all three of these points there is an extremely wide divergence of opinion. All conservative judges, whatever their view as to the wiser course, unite in recognizing that the nation is about to try a momentous experiment, that it is to a large extent taking a step in the dark, and that the step thus taken cannot be retraced. These very serious facts have led many sincerely patriotic critics to protest against the entire undertaking. But the weak point of this appeal, in our judgment, has been its failure to submit a practical alternative. The conclusion of the war, like the conclusion of every other successful war, created a wholly novel situation. The problem, which could not be ignored, was how to meet this situation. To return the Philippine Islands to Spanish misrule, after we had acquired them with the countenance of the insurgents, has been tacitly declared by nearly all citizens to be morally inadmissible. To hand them over to some other Power, as anti-annexationists have suggested, is diplomatically inadmissible. To call a Congress of Powers to decide on the disposition of the islands is a curious and to our mind unpractical suggestion, in view of the notorious fact that every delegate to such a conference, if unable to acquire title to the islands for his own State, would certainly veto such control by any rival government. As to what a joint protectorate would mean, the course of events in Egypt during the last two decades is an instructive lesson. Finally, very few people are bold enough to advise relinquishment of the Philippines to the semi-civilized native chiefs. Our Declaration of Independence certainly declares that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. But Mr. Jefferson was writing of civilized communities. Nobody had asked the formal consent of the Indians to our early colonial governments, or to the later Federal administration. Treaties existed with the several tribes, but it would be the height of absurdity to describe these treaties as voluntary participation by the natives in our governmental system. As a matter of fact, the Indians not only did not share in the setting up of the new government on their own old domain, but they have been and are wholly excluded from a part in its administration.

The fact, however, that administration of these islands as colonies is just, does not prove that the United States is fitted to administer them. This is plainly a new departure for our Government, so doubtful in its consequences that the majority of thoughtful citizens regret that the situation should ever have arisen. But the situation is before us; it was created, not by the demand for the Philippines, nor even by the cession of Porto Rico, but by the annexation of Hawaii, which antedated both these incidents of the Spanish war. This policy once begun, of annexing distant islands with an alien population, the problem squarely presented itself, whether we were to erect these new acquisitions into territories with a view to eventual (and probably early) independent statehood, or whether we were to confront the matter firmly, and accept the one alternative to further deterioration of our Congressional membership. This single alternative, in Hawaii as in Cuba and Porto Rico and the Philippines, is colonial administration.

That such administration would involve a change in the purpose, if not in the express provisions, of our Constitution, is an undoubted fact. Powers neither granted nor implied in a system of organic law are commonly regarded as withheld, and a Supreme Court decision of 1856, recently cited, declares that "there is certainly no power given by the Constitution to the Federal Government to establish or maintain colonies bordering on the United States or at a distance, to be ruled and governed at its own pleasure; nor to enlarge its territorial limits in any way except by the admission of new States." It is possible that this construction of the Constitution would require a fresh review by our Federal judiciary and conceivably an amendment to the organic law itself. The rigid interpretation was on the other hand somewhat modified by this very Court of 1856, which ruled that maintenance of a territorial government with a view to future statehood was constitutional. In this regard the case of Alaska, acquired by outright purchase eleven years after the above decision and never yet seriously discussed as a potential sovereign State, is interesting.

This is primarily a constitutional and legal matter. Its possible complexity cannot be denied, and the argument, we think, was inexcusably ignored by the statesmen who clamored, long before the Spanish war, for Hawaiian annexation. But we are by no means willing to accept the further pessimistic conclusions of some recent criticism. Senator Hoar's intimation that with a colonial policy adopted, the decline and fall of the American Republic would date from the McKinley Administration, seems to us very rash and hasty prophecy. It certainly strikes us that decay in our Government would be furthered with a vastly greater impulse if we were to add to our Federal Senate two Porto Ricans, two Hawaiians, half-a-dozen Cubans and an indefinite number of Filipinos. There may be doubt over the question whether we are capable of governing these imperfectly civilized communities; but there will, we imagine, be little difference of opinion as to the capacity of these communities to govern us. With so considerable a representation in both houses of Congress as would come with the erection of these islands into statehood, their share in making laws for the American Continent would be very great. Whatever disposition of our new Asiatic possessions shall prove to be expedient, we are convinced that their incorporation as sovereign States not only ought not to be favored, but ought to be excluded as formally and finally as can be done by act of legislature and people.

The question whether, in view of certain notorious weaknesses in our methods of home political administration, we can avoid even graver abuses in a remote colonial administration, is by the common consent of all critics the most serious phase of the problem. So strong an outside advocate of an American colonial policy as Mr. Chamberlain, frankly admits that if the practices of municipal politics in parts of the Union must be transported to distant dependencies, then the experiment is foreordained to failure. We find it difficult, however, to believe in the possibility of such results. Great Britain's colonial administration, notably in India, began with extremely serious abuses of the kind; but on the first clear presentation of the facts to the British public the whole obnoxious system was instantly swept aside, to be replaced by the orderly and scientific management which is to-day the model of colonial rule. It is commonly said that the Anglo-Saxon conscience was aroused, and so it was. But the Anglo-Saxon instinct of self-preservation awoke with even greater force, and to that instinct no appeal will ever remain unheard.

This being true, let us observe that the abuse of power by Clive and Hastings occurred when there was no cable, no telegraph, no special correspondent, no powerful and resourceful opposition press. The light of publicity through which, after a long immunity, the practices of these tyrannical administrators were at length brought to an end, would be focussed on the Hawaiian and the Philippine administrator from the day of his appointment. We venture to predict that his official acts would be reported, discussed and criticized in Washington, New York, Boston, Chicago, or San Francisco with a promptness and unsparing detail which is not witnessed to-day even in the foreign columns of the greatest London daily. The very fact that the American public to-day soberly recognizes the gravity of the experiment would ensure both thorough examination of the character and policy of a colonial administrator, and swift retribution to the government or party which should be so rash as to countenance corruption or misgovernment. Let it be remembered that our often-cited series of blunders in Indian administration has resulted primarily from the fact that the public, quite aware that no serious consequences were likely to arise, refused to interest itself in the matter. On the other hand, the unfortunate relations between the black and white citizens in the South have had their origin in the very fact concerning which we have already said our word of warning in the case of the Philippines—the question not of governing, but of being governed by, men of another race.

We have left ourselves little space to speak of the third and in some respects most important problem of our proposed experiment—its influence on our future relations with foreign States. In this regard, it is gratifying to observe that competent English critics welcome the suggested intrusion of the United States into Asiatic waters, not as an element in future warfare but as a guaranty of future peace. Lord Salisbury's Guildhall speech was possibly an exception, but the Premier's vein of cynicism is notorious, and his sentiments towards this country have always been mixed. In general, we may fairly argue of a future American diplomacy as we have already argued of an American colonial administration; that the urgent and critical need for competent service will itself compel scrupulous selection. Americans have rarely been found wanting in the test of international diplomacy when a truly serious problem was presented, and when the country's real talent was summoned.

As for our trade policy in our new acquisitions—supposing the colonial plan to be adopted—we believe the key is to be found in the already officially promulgated policy of the "open door." We presume that any dependency of the United States, temporary or permanent, would be entitled, equally with Canada, the Australasian colonies, the African coast provinces or the European dependencies in China, to fix such import tariffs as should be deemed wise. But the tariffs must apply to the United States and other powers alike. Conceivably preferential duties might be granted in return for such preferential grants by other States—even Canada pursues this policy—but like Canada, an American possession must, if it undertake such exchange of privileges, grant the same opportunity to all foreign States alike. To this phase of the problem there is absolutely no other solution outside of alienation from our fellow Powers. If, as is contended in some quarters, there are constitutional obstacles in the way of tariff regulations different in our island dependencies from those in our own domain, then the whole question ought to be reviewed with the utmost seriousness. But the tariff question is only one element in a general undertaking which, if adopted, must be adopted on lines entirely new to our political traditions.

SCOPE OF THE SUPREME COURT TRUST DECISIONS.

There is one part of the opinion of the U. S. Supreme Court in the case of the Joint Traffic Association which is of decided importance but which in the newspaper discussions has received no prominence whatever, if it has not been altogether overlooked. We refer to the bearing and application of the decision upon ordinary contracts and combinations. In this particular the apprehensions to which the earlier decision in the Trans-Missouri Freight Association case gave rise are happily removed. The Court now takes pains to point out that the construction which so many good legal authorities were inclined to place upon its language in the first opinion is unwarranted.

As far as rate agreements between the railroads are concerned, the scope of the decision is by this later interpretation made broader and more unqualified than before. In plain and unmistakable language we are told that whatever the nature or character of such agreements, so long as they operate in restraint of inter-State commerce they are in violation of the Anti-Trust Law of 1890. No matter if they act in reasonable or unreasonable restraint of trade in inter-State commerce [this distinction as to "inter-State" commerce is an important one, as we shall presently see], no matter what the intent, and what the language or recitals in the instrument, and no matter whether there is proof or not to show that the agreement is working to the detriment of commerce, it is nevertheless in conflict with the law and therefore illegal. If the necessary effect of such a contract between railroads is to restrain trade, that is sufficient to work its condemnation."

As concerns, however, contracts between individuals, firms or corporations—or "ordinary" contracts and combinations as they are termed in the opinion—the scope of the former ruling is considerably narrowed by the nice discriminations and distinctions made in this later decision, and also by the opinion and conclusion in the case of the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange, decided at the same time. In noting these distinctions, we may be permitted to say that with all deference to the Court it is impossible to avoid the impression that its construction in the Joint Traffic case, as in the Trans-Missouri ruling, is forced and strained. Nor is it always easy to follow the Court's logic or to understand its attitude. It is hardly worth while dilating upon that point, and yet we cannot omit reference to at least one important illustration. In the opinion on the Live Stock Exchange case (to which we shall allude at length further below), a special point is made of the fact that the members of the Exchange still continue their individual business and remain in full competition with one another. The competition in the case of the members of the Joint Traffic Association, one would think, is certainly just as real, if not more so, than in the case of the Live Stock Exchange. As a matter of fact, there was an express provision in the Joint Traffic contract intended to insure full liberty of action to the individual members, even in the fixing of rates. We refer to the provision reserving to the board of directors of each company the right to make changes in rates, provided only that thirty days' notice be given of an intention so to do—that being a feature distinguishing the Joint Traffic contract from the Trans-Missouri contract. And yet this freedom of competition and retention of separate identity, to which so much importance is attached in the argument upholding the legality of the Live Stock Exchange, is dismissed by the Court as of no account in the other opinion by a curious piece of reasoning which must be regarded as more ingenious than convincing.

Passing such incongruities, however, nothing is more palpable from these latest decisions than the Court's manifest desire to assure the public that its former ruling was not intended to be as broad as it has been generally assumed to be. When Justice Peckham in this earlier decision declared that Congress in prohibiting contracts and agreements in restraint of trade meant, contrary to all legal precepts and precedents, to forbid contracts of all kinds whether in reasonable or unreasonable restraint of trade, it at once became apparent that the dictum of the Court was so sweeping that hardly any business arrangement in which two or more persons were involved could fail to come within its scope. Labor organizations for maintaining wages or limiting the number of persons to be employed in a business; the buying out of one concern by another; the union of two or more merchants in a partnership; the appointment of a joint agent by merchants, manufacturers and producers—these and many other kindred developments of modern business life it was felt were condemned, since they one and all operated in some degree to limit competition and restrain trade. And this was not the hasty conclusion of laymen, but the deliberately expressed opinion of some of the best legal minds in the country. Naturally, therefore, much concern existed in the business world.

The Court now undertakes to show that these results by no means follow. In this its logic, we must confess, is not always clear, but that was hardly be expected, since it it is so obviously engaged in a attempt to escape the consequences of its languag when applied outside the railroad domain. Though no contracts of the nature outlined above were before it, Justice Peckham said the Court had no hesitation in declaring that the formation of corporations for business or manufacturing purposes had never, to its knowledge, been regarded in the nature of a contract in restraint of trade or commerce. The same might be said of a contract of partnership. It might also be difficult to show, he stated, that the appointment by two or more producers of the same person to sell their goods on commission was a matter in any degree in restraint of trade. Proceeding along the same line he added: "We are not aware that it has ever been claimed that a lease or purchase by a farmer, manufacturer or merchant of an additional farm, manufactory or shop, or the withdrawal from business of any farmer, merchant or manufacturer, restrained commerce or trade within any legal definition of that term; and the sale of a good-will of a business with an accompanying agreement not to engage in a similar business was instanced in the Trans-Missouri case as a contract not within the meaning of the Act; and it was said that such a contract was collateral to the main contract of sale and was entered into for the purpose of enhancing the price at which the vendor sells his business."

He holds that the statute applies only to those contracts whose direct and immediate effect is a restraint upon inter-State commerce, and that to treat the Act as condemning all agreements under which, as a result, the cost of conducting an inter-State commercial business may be increased, would enlarge the application of the Act beyond the fair meaning of the language used. The effect upon inter-State commerce must not be indirect or incidental only. An agreement entered into for the purpose of promoting the legitimate business of an individual or corporation, with no purpose to thereby affect or restrain Inter-State Commerce, and which does not directly restrain such commerce, is not, in his judgment and that of a majority of his associates, covered by the Act, although the agreement may indirectly and remotely affect that commerce. He also repeats the Court's declaration in the Live Stock case that "the Act of Congress must have a reasonable construction, or else there would scarcely be an agreement or contract among business men that could not be said to have, indirectly or remotely, some bearing upon inter-State commerce, and possibly to restrain it." We may say as to this latter remark that that has been precisely the contention of the railroads; they have contended that the words of the Anti-Trust law must be given "a reasonable construction," and that if they were, the Joint Traffic Association would not be found in conflict with its provisions.

Justice Peckham differentiates ordinary contracts from the agreement in the Joint Traffic case by saying that the latter, being a contract or combination between competing railroad corporations for the purpose of establishing and maintaining rates, it must be regarded as an agreement which directly affects and is intended to affect the cost of transportation of commodities. For, he argues, commerce consists, among other things, of the transportation of commodities, and if such transportation be between States it is inter-State commerce. The agreement in his estimation affects inter-State commerce by destroying competition and by maintaining rates above what competition might produce. He thinks Congress is competent to forbid any agreement or combination of this kind among the carriers. Railroads cannot be built and operated without a public franchise, and their business is of a public nature. In performing this business they are also performing to a certain extent a function of government which requires them to render the service upon equal terms to all. The franchise may be derived from the State, but Congress under its power to regulate commerce among the States may make regulations prescribing its exercise; and a law forbidding combinations in restraint of trade belongs in that category. The Court does not consider that ordinary freedom of contract in the use and management of these properties requires the right to combine as one consolidated and powerful association for the purpose of suppressing competition and of thus keeping their rates and charges higher than they might otherwise be under the laws of competition. And this is so even though the rates provided in the agreement may for the time be not more than what is reasonable.

The distinctions here attempted also run through the Court's arguments in the Live Stock case. Indeed they are there defined at much greater length. It is interesting to note, as showing what a complete departure the Court's interpretation in these recent decisions marks, that in this Live Stock case, as in that of the Joint Traffic Association, the lower courts had taken just the opposite view to that now promulgated by the Supreme Court. The Joint Traffic contract was held valid by the Circuit Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court declares it illegal and void. On the other hand, the contention that the methods and operations of the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange were in conflict with the Anti-Trust statute was upheld in both the Circuit Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals, while now the Supreme Court declares that the contention cannot be sustained.

The Live Stock Exchange is an organization of commission merchants who control the sale of live stock at Kansas City. It was charged that the Exchange was a monopoly, that none but members were allowed to trade at the stock yards and enjoy the other facilities furnished by it, and that its object was to prevent the shipment or consignment of live stock to the Kansas City market unless it was shipped or consigned to the members and stock yards of the Exchange and paid the charges fixed by the rules of that organization. Various provisions of the by-laws were cited to support the allegation in the bill of complaint, which was filed by the United States Government. It appeared from those by-laws that not only did the Exchange fix rates of charges, but that it enforced other stringent regulations, such as limiting the number of agents to be employed and the compensation to be paid to them, prohibiting the members from sending prepaid telegrams, &c., &c. At the outset Justice Peckham takes occasion to point out that the 1890 law has reference only to such trade or commerce as exists, or may exist, among the several States or with foreign nations, and that it has no application whatever to any other trade or commerce. The principal point for determination therefore was whether the business of the members of the Exchange was inter-State. This question the Court answers in the negative. Justice Peckham notes that the Exchange itself as an association does no business whatever. The business of the members is the sale or purchase of live stock as commission agents, and the character of this business is not altered, he says, even though the larger proportion of the purchases and sales may be of live stock coming into the State from other States or from the Territories.

The opinion holds that while the selling of an article at its destination which has been sent from another State may be regarded as an inter-State sale, and one which the importer is entitled to make, the services of the individual employed at the place where the article is sold are not so connected with the subject sold as to make them a portion of inter-State commerce; hence a combination in regard to the amount to be charged for such service is not a combination in restraint of that trade or commerce. Granting that the cattle themselves, because coming from another State, are articles of inter-State commerce, yet it does not therefore follow that, before their sale, all persons performing services in any way connected with them are themselves engaged in that commerce, or that their agreements among each other relative to the compensation to be charged for their services are void as agreements made in restraint of inter-State trade. The charges of the commission agent on account of his services are nothing more than charges for aids or facilities furnished the cattle owner in finding a market for his cattle. While definitions as to what constitutes inter-State commerce are not easily given, the U. S. Supreme Court has always maintained a distinction, Justice Peckman claims, between a regulation which directly affects and embarrasses inter-State trade or commerce and one which is nothing more than a charge for a local facility provided for the transaction of such commerce. He declares that the indirect effect of the Live Stock agreement might be to enhance the cost of marketing the cattle, but the effect upon the commerce spoken of must be direct and proximate. The cattle owner, he asserts, has no constitutional right to the services of the commission agent to aid him in the sale of his cattle, and the agent has the right to say upon what terms he will render them, and he has the equal right, so far as the Act of Congress is concerned, to agree with others in his business not to render those services unless for a certain charge. The services are no part of the commerce in the cattle.

Summing up, then, are we not justified from our examination of these two decisions in concluding that according to the views of the Court contracts between the carriers fall almost in a class by themselves. Nominally contracts between others are no less subject to the provisions of the Anti-Trust law, but there are so many attendant circumstances and conditions which must be taken into account before such contracts can be condemned that in effect the law does not seem to apply. Observe the distinctions the Court makes. In the first place, of course, it must be shown that the agreement relates to inter-State commerce. It may relate to articles of inter-State commerce and yet those rendering services connected therewith not be engaged in such commerce. Then the question comes up whether the contract does not relate to something in the nature of personal services for which the individual is at liberty to fix his own price. Or it may be that the charges are simply for a "local aid" or "facility" to inter-State commerce, and thus fall without the pale of the statute. Again, even when the agreement has a bearing on inter-State commerce, the effect must be "direct," "immediate" and "proximate." If the effect is "indirect," or "remote," or "incidental," that secures exemption. The Court expressly says that it is not enough to ensure the condemnation of an agreement that the cost of conducting an inter-State business may thereby be increased. Furthermore, contracts imposing very obnoxious restrictions may be but "regulations or agreements relating to the business of the members." It would also seem that the railroads by reason of the public nature of their functions, and the character of their business, come squarely within the operation of the law, where in all other cases the question depends upon the special facts in each instance, and can only be determined by an intricate process of reasoning—leaving great latitude for legal hair splitting and the play of judicial emotions and vagaries. For one of these various reasons the Sugar Trust secured immunity a few years ago. In the same way the Live Stock Exchange is held to be not inimical to the statute, though the judges in the lower courts had all entertained the idea that it was.

If we are correct in our assumption, then certain strange things follow from the Court's definition of the scope of the law, and the outcome is curious as well as unjust. No one who followed the discussions in Congress attending the passage of the Anti-Trust Act can have any doubt but that the framers of the Act never contemplated having it apply to the railroads, for whose regulation provision had been made only three years before. Now under the construction placed upon the statute by the Supreme Court the railroads are apparently the only parties engaged in inter-State trade who can with certainty be brought within the scope of the law. The result furnishes a strong argument for legislation calculated to place the carrying interest on a basis of equality with other interests in the matter of the right of making contracts and avoiding the evils of unrestrained competition. We cannot believe that our lawmakers intend to discriminate against this single interest, the largest of all our industries. Congress at its coming session should take prompt measures to afford the necessary relief.

*COMPETITION OF FOREIGN MANUFACTURES IN ARGENTINE REPORT OF THE BRITISH SPECIAL COMMISSIONER.

MANCHESTER, November 16, 1898.

The report upon the trade and industries of Chili, prepared by the Official Traveling Commissioner sent last January to South America by the British Government, has been followed by a statement of the intelligence gathered by him in the Argentine Republic. In accordance with his instructions, Mr. Worthington gives especial attention to facts bearing upon the competition in the Argentine markets between the manufacturers of Great Britain and other countries. A summary view of the share of each competing country in the supply of these markets is given in the following table, showing the percentage of the whole of the imports arriving from each principal source during the last five years.

IMPORTS INTO THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

These figures are worked out from the statistics of the Argentine Government, and are based upon official valuations, not upon invoice or market values. For purposes of comparison they may be accepted as sufficient. It must be noticed, however, that the country of origin is determined by the port of shipment, and since Switzerland has no maritime ports, and Dutch, German, French and even English goods are shipped sometimes from the ports of Holland, Belgium or Germany, indifferently, in order to take advantage of low rates of freight, the percentages should not be taken as strictly accurate. They appear to indicate that the only countries which have gained substantially in the Argentine trade during the last five years are the United Kingdom and Italy. But the result of the Commissioner's investigations in the markets for various classes of manufactures is that in some of them British productions have been displaced during recent years by those of Italy, Germany and the United States.

Italian cotton goods woven from colored yarn, trouserings especially, have become very popular, a fact which is attributed partly to the large number of Italian immigrants settled in Argentina and partly to the very low freights at which all kinds of merchandise are carried from Genoa by steamers carrying emigrants. This last item is undoubtedly an important consideration, for the rates of freight from Italy to Buenos Ayres are usually only about one-half of those paid from British ports. It is known in Manchester that apart from this consideration Italian goods have little advantage in comparison with English in respect of either quality or price. Indeed, Mr. Worthington states that some Italian merchants in Argentina are suspected of selling Manchester trouserings as Italian. Of white and brown cotton goods generally he says that the bulk of the imports continues to come from England, although American flannellettes are much liked, and they compete successfully to some extent. American prints have also a certain hold upon the market. They are nice goods, but the assortments of patterns are not sufficiently varied.

Of implements and tools of industry the chief source of supply is the United States. Included in these implements are picks, spades, shovels and adzes, and the statistics of imports of this class of manufacture show that this is the case. Here are the figures in metric tons.

Machine mowers, weed cutters and carpenters' saws are supplied almost entirely from the United States. On the other hand hollow-ware ironmongery comes chiefly from Germany and France, although American enameled ware is gaining ground. Locomotive engines were formerly received chiefly from England, the railways being for the most par. in the hands of English capitalists and managers, but recently the orders have gone in considerable proportion to the United States, not on the ground of the superiority of the American engines but because English makers have been too busy to execute them in time.

On the other hand ninety per cent of the agricultural machinery and most of the electrical plant and electric traction machinery are furnished, on their merits, from United States establishments. Some German electric plant—frequently a poor and cheap imitation of the American—finds a market in Argentina, and even Italian work is now being imported. English makers, says Mr Worthington, have not kept pace with American improvements and new inventions, "but the Germans have carefully watched and copied" them. Of bicycles also the United States supplies the greater proportion, a fact which is attributed to the energy with which the importers advertise them. Germany supplies, however. the lion's share of the sewing machines, the German "Singer" selling at $12 gold, being the cheapest in the market. The following are the Custom House returns of the imports of sewing machines.

Of iron and steel in their various forms, the chief sources of supply have hitherto been England, Belgium and Germany; but the United States has now entered the market, and the exports thence of galvanized sheets, wire, hoops and steel rails have been steadily increasing since 1893. The tramway rails are now almost entirely American. Even of tin plates, of which the consumption is rapidly increasing in Argentina, a small quantity comes from the United States, although much the largest share is still imported from England.

Mr. Worthington devotes many pages of his report to an examination of Argentine manufacturing industries. The textile factories do not appear to have made very much progress so far, notwithstanding that it has been an object of the Customs tariff policy to encourage them. Those engaged in producing cotton and woolen hosiery occupy a conspicuous place amongst them, and some are devoted to the production of under-linen, chiefly established as branches of German and Austrian firms. There are five factories producing bags and sacks from imported yarn, but they do not appear to be very profitable undertakings. But the manufacture of hats, boots and shoes and ordinary leather goods generally has made rapid progress, reducing very greatly the need for resorting to foreign sources of supply.

Upon the important subject of trade-marks in the Argentine Republic the Commissioner's observations are important. His summary on this question is worth quoting. He says:

"False marking and piracy of trade marks are both quite common here. The former is most in evidence in the false indications of place of manufacture on locally made goods, but although the law, I understand, makes the dealer who orders false marks, whether of origin or contents, jointly liable with the manufacturer who puts them on, it apparently leaves those who may feel themselves aggrieved to take action against the falsifiers.

"I have not noticed that the import of British goods in competion with other imported goods has, in the majority of trades, been seriously affected by such matters as those just referred to. Our competitors in the import trade are certainly generally the first to cut weights or lengths, etc., but then, in the majority of instances, it is done in the case of goods sold by the package, supposed formerly to contain so much, but not so marked, and in such cases the reduction becomes the custom of the trade and the British manufacturer has to follow it. Indeed, the docking of contents in this way has developed in such a manner in many articles as to be quite bewildering, and to constitute the trade in each article a study of no little intricacy.

"Trade-marks are registered and can be defended legally, but great care has to be used in carrying on a prosecution, and the want of such care, as well as the perjury of witnesses, has led to failures of justice in the past, which fact, not to mention the expense of legal proceedings, naturally deters a good many owners of pirated marks from vindicating their rights."

THE DECISION AGAINST THE ANTI-TICKET-SCALPING LAW.

While the uncertainties of the law are proverbial, the public has received several forcible reminders of late that even the best legal thought may err in the interpretation of statutory and constitutional requirements, or rather that the views of such authorities may not prevail if it so happens that their rulings are subject to review. The U. S. Supreme Court has recently in two notable cases overturned the conclusions and declarations of judges of great ability, and which had been affirmed by other judges of equal renown, while now the Court of Appeals of this State has rendered a decision completely reversing a unanimous judicial interpretation given only eight months ago by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

In this last we refer of course to this week's decision adverse to the constitutionality of the Anti-Ticket-Scalping law. Last March the Appellate Division, after lengthy arguments and a careful review of the authorities, failed to find anything in the statute contravening in any way the constitutional provisions. We need mention only the names of the judges sitting in the Appellate Division at that time to make it evident what weight attached to their opinion. They were Justices Van Brunt, Barrett, Patterson, Ingraham and McLaughlin. But the Court of Appeals now holds that their view of the Anti-Ticket-Scalping law was clearly erroneous. It should be noted, however, that this latest judgment is not that of a unanimous but of a divided court, Judges Parker, O'Brien, Haight and Vann uniting in the majority opinion, and Judges Bartlett, Martin and Gray arguing in favor of upholding the judgment of the Appellate Division.

In view of the importance of the case and this conflict of views, and the fact that the present decision is final, it will be interesting and useful to review the course of reasoning by which the differing conclusions were reached. It will be remembered that the statute whose provisions are now declared in repugnance to the Constitution was passed last year, forming Chapter 506 of the Laws for 1897. It provided that no person should issue or offer for sale any ticket giving or purporting to give any right to a passage or conveyance upon any vessel or railway train, or a berth or stateroom in any vessel, unless he be an authorized agent of the owners or consignees of such vessels, or of the company running such trains. And no person was to be deemed an authorized agent unless he had received authority in writing therefor. The law also provided that no person acting as such agent should sell tickets or receive any consideration therefor except at the office designated in his appointment. The statute was not, however, to be construed so as to prevent a properly authorized agent of one transportation company from purchasing tickets from the properly authorized agent of another transportation company so as to allow a traveler to make a continuous trip over more than one line. Besides this there were provisions for the redemption of the unused portions of tickets, for the refunding of money, etc., and stringent penalties for a failure to observe the requirements of the law.

The ticket scalpers, in contesting the validity of the statute, contended, among other things, that it was in violation of the New York Constitution, in that it deprived them of a right secured to citizens of this State, that is the right to sell or procure tickets for the transportation over the lines of a common carrier, and that it violated the Constitution of the United States by depriving them of their liberty without due process of law, namely the liberty of engaging in the business of ticket selling. The Appellate Division, as already stated, could see no force in these objections. In its estimation [we reviewed the decision at length in the CHRONICLE of March 5 1898, pages 450 and 451] there was nothing in the statute which deprived the scalpers of any right they held in common with other citizens of the State. The Court ruled that the buying and selling of tickets was nothing but the buying and selling of the evidence which entitles a person to transportation by a public carrier. The issuing of tickets is a feature of the carriers' business, and the regulation and control of the business of a public carrier can not be questioned. If the exercise of that power of regulation and control prevents a third party from securing a personal advantage, which he calls his business, he is not deprived of any constitutional right.

Railroad tickets being merely the evidence of a contract between the carrier and the passenger, the whole relation as to their issuance and use is by the statute in question, the Court said, limited to the carrier and the passenger. If as a consequence of such regulation some person who has heretofore carried on the industry of buying and selling or speculating in railway tickets is prevented from continuing to do so, he is not deprived in any legal sense of his property right in a business. He was merely engaged in doing something not unlawful in itself, but which might be made so by the exercise of the power the State has to regulate the business of carriers within its boundaries. The statute was not one, the Judges of the Appellate Division asserted, preventing a citizen from dealing in merchandise or property generally; a law of that kind would clearly be unconstitutional.

Such were the arguments—and it will be admitted they seem convincing—by which the Appellate Division was led to think the Anti-Ticket-Scalping law was in full consonance with the provisions of the Constitution. But the Court of Appeals, speaking by a majority of its members, finds itself unable to accept this view. In the first place it puts a different construction upon the language used in one portion of the statute. The Appellate Division had assumed that the effect of the statute was that a corporation shall sell only through its agents, and that the law was merely a declaration that the corporation itself was to sell its tickets. But the majority opinion of the Court of Appeals declares this is not so. It says that the first section and the first part of the second section do restrict the sale of passage tickets in that way. But it quotes the provision already referred to with reference to purchases of tickets from other roads, which it remarks is "sandwiched in between the opening and the closing sentences of the second section," and avers that that alters the meaning. The provision in full reads: "Nothing in this section or chapter contained shall prevent the properly authorized agent of any transportation company from purchasing from the properly authorized agent of any other transportation company a ticket for a passenger to whom he may sell a ticket to travel over any part of the line for which he is the properly authorized agent, so as to enable such passenger to travel to the place or junction from which his ticket shall read."

The intent of this provision seems plain enough. Its purpose, evidently, is to ensure a continuous passage over connecting or intersecting roads. But Chief Judge Parker, who delivered the opinion, declares it follows, from the provision referred to, that the moment a man becomes the agent of a transportation company he is by that designation authorized to buy tickets of any other transportation company in the United States, or the world, and may sell such tickets to any person who applies for them. In the sale of tickets of other transportation companies he necessarily acts as a broker, the Court argues. He can buy the tickets and sell them, making profit according to the competition between the various roads.

Judge Parker adverts to another "interesting feature" of this "remarkable statute," as he terms it; the buying and selling of passage tickets is not abolished; it is only condemned where the seller has not authority from some transportation company to act as its agent. "It may possibly be that there was such a situation as would have justified an enactment placing some restrictions upon those engaged in the selling of passage tickets and prescribing penalties by way of fine and imprisonment for those who should break over such restraints. Our excise legislation affords an illustration. But this Act simply turns over to the transportation companies the selection of those who are hereafter to be permitted to sell tickets. It imposes no restraint whatever upon the appointing power, nor upon the agents selected, other than that in the purchase of tickets he must confine himself to the properly authorized agents of the transportation companies. The business of buying and selling tickets, as to such agents, continues to be a legitimate business, but to all other citizens is denied, and a sale by other than an agent constitutes a felony."

The Court points out that ticket brokerage as a business has existed for years. Referring to the claim that the law was put on the statute book to prevent fraud, the Court declares it novel legislation indeed that attempts to take away from all the people the right to conduct a business because there are wrongdoers in it. But it sees no evidence that the purpose is to prevent fraud. The title of the Act might support the claim, but the body of the statute, Judge Parker asserts, does not contain any reference to forged, altered, used or stolen tickets. The sale of such tickets is made a punishable offense under other portions of the Penal Code. He accordingly reasons that the provisions have reference to the selling of valid tickets, regularly issued by a transportation company. "Can a legislature declare such sales to be fraudulent, or prohibit them on the ground that it tends to prevent fraud? If the act prohibited is fraudulent, there can be no doubt that the Legislature, under its police power, may provide for its punishment; but whether it may under such power interdict the sale of a valid ticket by one person to another upon the pretext that fraud will thus be prevented, presents a very different question."

Judge Parker says he is unable to see how such a sale defrauds a transportation company. If a company undertakes to sell a ticket from New York to San Francisco, it undertakes to carry the holder from the one place to the other. It costs the company no more to carry one person than it does the other. How then, the Judge asks, can it be defrauded or in any way prejudiced by the transfer of such a ticket by the purchaser to another purchaser? Answering the claim that the prohibition of such a sale protects the traveler from being defrauded, Judge Parker replies that if it is a sale of a valid ticket, no fraud can possibly result; and if it is not a sale of a valid ticket, the sale is fraudulent and is prohibited by other provisions of the Penal Code. It is not contended, the opinion continues, that the business of ticket brokerage is in itself of a fraudulent character. The business can be honestly conducted; it has been so conducted in the past by the honest men engaged in it; and the worst that is asserted is that there are some men engaged in the business who have imposed on the public. The same assertion can be made with equal truth of every business, trade and profession. But this furnishes no sufficient reason for making it a penal offense to engage in the business, or for closing its doors to all except the transportation companies themselves. Stringent rules undoubtedly may be enacted, the Court says, to punish those who are guilty of dishonest practices, but to cut up, root and branch, a business that may be honestly conducted, to the convenience of the public and the profit of the persons engaged in it, is beyond legislative power.

On the other hand, the minority of the Court, in equally emphatic language, deny the correctness of the position of the majority. Thus Justice Martin asserts that to hold that the Act under review is unconstitutional will practically annihilate the police power of the Legislature. He deprecates what he calls an arbitrary and unauthorized interference by the judiciary with the administrative affairs of the State, and says it is fraught with quite as much danger as would follow legislative interference with judicial affairs. "When courts seek to control or in effect repeal acts of the Legislature by holding them in conflict with some non-existent or doubtful constitutional limitation, their action is mere usurpation."

Thus the conflict of views is very pronounced, and the layman will find it difficult to decide as to the merits of each. The one fact which stands out prominently and beyond controversy is that in the tribunal of final adjudication the statute has been declared beyond the power of the Legislature to enact, and is therefore invalid and of no effect.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS FOR OCTOBER.

Monetary and Commercial English News

[From our own correspondent.]

LONDON, Saturday, November 12, 1898.

Lord Salisbury's speech on Wednesday evening has, on the whole, made a favorable impression here and upon the Continent. Early on Thursday morning the inclination was to look upon the speech as disquieting. Prices declined somewhat on the Stock Exchange, and bankers were less willing to lend than previously. For Lord Salisbury left no doubt that the situation is still threatening, and that unless the greatest care is exercised by all the governments, war may become inevitable. As Thursday advanced, however, opinion changed, perhaps more because the speech was welcomed as a relief in Paris.

All over Europe the expectation prevailed that Lord Salisbury would announce a British protectorate over Egypt. As he declared he intended nothing of the kind, for the present at least, the French were relieved and they were still more so by the language used in reference to the French Government.

The more thoughtful people, however, are puzzled rather than enlightened by the Premier's statement. The British naval preparations are to be continued. There will be no declaration of a protectorate over Egypt unless the position is made too unpleasant for our Government. The decaying nations are looked upon as prey by so many aspiring States that a quarrel may arise at any moment. And the battle of Omdurman has so completely changed our position in Egypt that we are unwilling to submit to annoyances. Lastly, the reference to the expansion of the United States is distasteful to many Powers but favorable to this country, and all combine to excite curiosity and to warn us that we are not yet out of danger.

But where the gravest danger lies and what action is looked forward to as likely to produce war nobody can guess. Opinion here halts between two interpretations—one that a coalition of the Continental Powers is either in preparation, or at all events under consideration, to intervene in the Philippines, and that in that case our Government is prepared to offer its assistance to the United States; the other is that Russia and possibly other Powers are meditating some bold stroke in China. Although, then, the speech, upon the whole has been favorably received by the Bourses and the money markets all over Europe, the general public remains anxious, and it does not seem likely that there will be very much increase of business.

It is true that prices have recovered since midday on Thursday and that, furthermore, there has been some more buying of American securities, South American and British railway stocks. But all the purchases have been practically by members of the Stock Exchange and professional operators. The great public is doing very little. In France business is quite at a standstill. In Germany the liquidation is still going on. In Austria-Hungary enterprise of every kind is paralyzed.

The result of the United States elections on Tuesday is welcomed here as giving promise of a satisfactory and permanent settlement of the currency question, and doubtless that would stimulate investment were it not for the great anxiety that still prevails respecting politics. These anxieties have not only stopped speculation and greatly checked investment, but they have entirely put an end to new enterprise. Even trade itself, at all events international trade, has somewhat suffered.

It is indisputable that the home trade is better than it has been for very many years. Iron is rising, so is copper; employment is abundant, wages are advancing and almost all manufacturers are full of orders. But our exports do not show very much expansion. The returns for September were exceedingly encouraging and it looked as if we were about to do a much better business than for some years past. But those for October are less satisfactory. More particularly our exports to the United States are exceedingly small and, on the other hand, our imports continue as large as ever.

On Wednesday the Imperial Bank of Germany raised its rate of discount from 5 to 5½ per cent, and, as a consequence, the German exchange upon London has somewhat declined, although it is still very high. Apparently the repayments necessary to be made in London are drawing to a close, especially as it is understood that the German banks have been able to sell here a considerable amount of German and Prussian Government bonds. But the pressure in Berlin is still very great, and is likely to continue so for a considerable time. The Bank of France has not advanced its rate, as was expected, though it would look as if the Bank was preparing for some such movement. At all events there is a very considerable decrease in the loans and discounts of the Bank.

In London the Bank of England has all the week been borrowing in the open market. It is gradually raising the rate of discount to nearly its own level, which would look as if the Directors were preparing for a further advance. Possibly if political apprehensions abate there may be no need to make a change. On the other hand, if the Bank of France should raise its rate to 4 per cent, there will in all probability be an advance here.

The Bank of France, however, will consider a long time before it makes a change; for the German Bank acceptance held in Paris are enormous in amount, and if the rate in Paris could be raised to 4 per cent there would very likely be a disinclination to continue employing money in Germany, and that might have very serious results in all the great German cities. Still, both the Bank of England and the Bank of France are making preparations. It is to be hoped that the German liquidation has now advanced far enough to prevent any serious failures. Of course it is unquestionable that many great speculators in Germany are embarrassed and it is also certain that some of the banks have a very great lock-up. Still so much time has been given that the banks no doubt are now prepared for all contingencies.

The India Council continues to sell its drafts wonderfully well. It offered for tender on Wednesday 40 lacs and the applications exceeded 165 lacs. The whole amount offered was sold at prices slightly over 1s. 3 15 16d. per rupee.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 25, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The security markets reflect the more hopeful outlook in regard to national finances which now generally exists. Investors are freely purchasing bonds and high-grade stocks at advancing prices; and there is evidence in some quarters that new enterprises or the rehabilitation of old ones are in contemplation. A feature of the week was an unusual advance in securities of the anthracite coal carriers. To those who are familiar with the coal industry during recent years this fact suggests a possible change of methods in that department.

It is now generally understood that the Peace Commission at Paris is probably closing its work by the completion of a treaty which will be accepted by both the United States and Spain, thus removing what has been for some time past a more or less uncertain factor. In other directions the foreign political situation appears to be more settled than of late and at the same time the European money markets are easier. The local money market continues abundantly supplied with funds and rates are about as we last reported them.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 2 to 2¼ per cent. To-day's rates on call were 2 to 2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3½ to 4¼ per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £537,941, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 54·60, against 53·90 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows an increase of 1,425,000 francs in gold and 725,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 19 showed an increase in the reserve held of $4,013,800 and a surplus over the required reserve of $16,667,375, against $15,011,800 the previous week.

The Clearing-House, on Oct. 30, 1897, also began issuing weekly returns showing the condition of the non-member banks which clear through the Clearing-House institutions. The statement in full for the latest week will be found on a preceding page.

The special features include Colorado & Southern 4s, which appeared in the unlisted department on Tuesday and have since advanced over two points, Green Bay & Western, Colorado Midland, Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf and Union Pacific Denver & Gulf issues, nearly all of which advanced from two to four points. The active list also includes Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Louisville Evansville & St. Louis, Missouri Kansas & Texas, Mobile & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Oregon Short Line, St. Louis & Iron Mountain, Texas & Pacific, Union Pacific and Wabash bonds.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—In the stock market transactions were on a more limited scale than of late. The report from Paris on Monday that peace negotiations were broken off had a depressing effect for the moment, but the market soon recovered and prices are generally from 1 to 3 points higher than our last quotations. Anthracite coal shares were a special feature, Delaware & Hudson, Central of New Jersey and Reading first preferred having advanced 4 to 5½ points. Atchison stocks have continued notably active at advancing prices. Chicago & Alton gained 4¾ points on limited transactions. Manhattan Elevated shows a gain of 4½ points on reports that plans for a new motive power will soon be announced. Union Pacific and Northern Pacific issues are in better favor on reports of more harmonious relations. The granger group and trunk-line shares, including New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio, show substantial gains during the week.

The miscellaneous group has not maintained its usual prominence, and while fluctuations have been wide in some cases net changes are generally unimportant.
